CREDIT RELIEF BILL IS PUSHED TO FINAL STAGE

Senate and HouseGroups Agree on Draft for Congress' Vote.

MEASURE'S PASSAGE EPECTED THIS WEEK

Privileges on Rediscounting Will Be Extended to $5,000,000 Banks.

(Associated Press.)

The unanimous agreement of Senate and House conferees on the terms of the credit expansion bill yesterday advanced this vital relief measure to the final stage of congressional consideration.

Leaders predicted the bill—giving the banks new sources of credit with the Federal Reserve and putting to work more than $400,000,000 in idle gold—will become law before the end of the week.

The conferees agreed to extend the emergency rediscounting privilege to individual banks with a capitalization of less than $5,000,000—a compromise between the Senate bill, which carried a $2,000,000 limitation, and the House bill, which imposed no restriction.

Advantages to Banks.

Under the measure the banks will be able to obtain from the Federal Reserve cash on securities not now eligible for rediscount. In addition, the bill would bulwark the Reserve System with gold now lying idle in the Treasury, and authorize the use of Government bonds as security for new note issues.

These provisions were limited to one year of life by the conferees rather than two years, as the Senate bill provided. It was agreed to make permanent the provision allowing groups of five banks to obtain special rediscounting privileges with the Federal Reserve.

Representative Steagall (Democrat), Alabama, will put the compromise bill before the House today. Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, will ask Senate action immediately afterward. Both were confident of prompt approval.

The banking bill conferees also reached an understanding to extend the special rediscounting privilege to banks in groups of less than five, provided those included hold 10 per cent of the entire deposit liability of the Federal Reserve district in which they are located.

Two-Bank Units Possible.

Senator Glass estimated this would permit combinations of as few as two member banks to obtain cash on in-

New Jersey's Support For Hoover Is Favored

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A New Jersey delegation to the Republican national convention committed to the renomination of President Hoover and repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be recommended to the State committee Friday, it was decided today. The decision was reached by a special committee appointed to canvass party sentiment throughout the State.

Action by the committee followed denials today from the State's United States Senators, W. Warren Barbour and Hamilton F. Kean, that they would agree to a compromise plank advocating congressional consideration when a majority of States signified their desire for prohibition reform.

Garner's Name Kept Out of Georgia Voting

Speaker's Manager Tells Admirer Who Would Enter Primary As 'Proxy' Step Is Not Desired; Roosevelt Held Certain of State.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Speaker John N. Garner will not run against Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, in the preferential primary in Georgia next month. Moreover, he will not file as a candidate in any of the State primaries.

His "withdrawal" from the Georgia race was announced yesterday. Actually he was never in it, but Judge G. H. Howard, an admirer, entered him by proxy. That is, Judge Howard himself filed as a candidate in the primary, and announced that a vote for him would be a vote for Garner.

Yesterday Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, who was named as the Speaker's manager at a big Garner-for-President rally in San Antonio last Monday, sent a telegram to Judge Howard telling him, in effect, to abandon his proxy campaign.

This move is expected to help Garner. To begin with, he had no chance to wrest Georgia's 28 delegates from Roosevelt through a proxy. For years Roosevelt has been going to Warm Springs, Ga., there to combat the effects of infantile paralysis. Consequently, the State proudly refers to him as an "adopted son."

By spiking the proxy campaign in Georgia, Garner has avoided a direct clash between himself and Roosevelt. This is as his friends would have it. They don't want him to clash with Roosevelt in any of the States. His big chance to win the Democratic nomination in Chicago, as they see it, lies in a deadlocked convention. If Roosevelt is blocked, they expect that Garner will inherit many of the Roosevelt delegates.

In making public his telegram to Judge Howard yesterday, Representative Rayburn said:

"Speaker Garner is not a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, although a sentiment in his favor is developing rapidly throughout the country.

"He not only has not entered his candidacy in any State primary, but he will not do so. Of course, under these circumstances he would not enter the primary in Georgia through a proxy."

The telegram to Judge Howard said:

"As a friend of John N. Garner, and speaking for his host of friends, it is my earnest desire that you not enter the Georgia primary either as proxy or in any other sense as a representative of Mr. Garner."

Representative Rayburn's statement that Garner is not a candidate is not to be taken too literally. It is true that the Speaker has never an-

HOOVER COMMENDS REORGANIZING SPEED

Hopes Action in House Will Mean Prompt Relief for Taxpayers.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Acknowledging the prompt action of the House of Representatives in creating a special committee to advance the efficient reorganization of the Federal establishment, President Hoover expressed the hope yesterday that the step signalizes "prompt relief for the taxpayers."

At the same time, the President uttered a warning against any action which might injure the efficiency and morale of the Army, Navy or other major department of the Government, but his text ignored the declaration made by Speaker Garner last Monday that the era of political cooperation between the House and the Administration might end soon if Republican speakers generally do not give the Democratic leadership more acclaim for their generous and patriotic cooperation.

In a formal public statement issued only a few hours after Speaker Garner had named a special House committee to inquire into the whole problem of reorganization, the Chief Executive implied that the Administration would lend every assistance possible to facilitating the labors of the special economy committee.

Almost at the same hour, Secretary of War Hurley publicly denied the charge made recently by Chairman Byrns, of the House appropriations committee that high officers of the Democrat Will Oppose McFadden for Congress

Bloomsburg, Pa., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Charles K. McDonald, business man of this town, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifteenth District now represented by Louis T. McFadden.

McFadden, who has announced he is a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket, has petitions in circulation seeking the Democratic nomination also. The impending contest for the Republican nomination by McFadden, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and Frederick C. Reichenbacker, strengthened the determination, Democratic leaders said, to have a regular Democratic candidate in the field.

FARM BOARD WAGE SLASH BILL UPHELD

Senate Committee Approves Borah Measure to Cut Pay of Members.

(Associated Press.)

The $12,000 salaries of Farm Board members were singled out yesterday for the first successful Senate move for pay cutting.

The civil service committee approved a bill by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, to knock these salaries down to $9,600—just below the $10,000 level of members of Congress which the committee refused to reduce.

The committee also approved an amendment by Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, limiting salaries of all employes and officers connected with Farm Board operations to $15,000.

This hits at some of the highly paid officers of the stabilization corporations. It was disclosed at the Senate Farm Board inquiry that salaries ranging as high as $50,000 and $75,000 are paid to some of them.

The George amendment would prohibit loans by the Farm Board to stabilization corporations or cooperative organizations paying salaries of more than $15,000 to officers.

The bill still must run the gauntlet of the Senate, where a sharp fight over the whole issue of salary reductions is in prospect.

Senate Confirms Cardozo's Naming

Successor to Holmes Not Expected to Take Oath Until March 14.

(United Press)

Benjamin N. Cardozo, of New York, was confirmed by the Senate yesterday as Oliver Wendell Holmes' successor on the Supreme Court. The Senate action was taken without debate, on the basis of unanimous judiciary committee approval of the appointment made by President Hoover.

The 61-year-old jurist probably will not take the oath of office until the end of the court's next recess, March 14. The New York court of appeals of which he is chief judge, reconvenes next Monday, and he is likely to remain in Albany to conclude his business there.

The Supreme Court will adjourn Monday until March 14 to write decisions in the cases which have been heard by the "short" court of eight members in the last two weeks.

Committee Chief Promises Funds Needed for Schools

Favorable status of Washington schools in relation to other school systems throughout the country will not be disturbed in the District supply bill, Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House District appropriations subcommittee, assured The Post last night.

While radical retrenchments must be made in every department of the District government, every effort will be made to avoid serious curtailments where local schools are concerned, Representative Cannon said.

His statement followed "warning" by Miss Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association, that retrenchments forced upon Washington schools might endanger education at large in the United States.

"No statement has been made which would warrant the assumption that District schools are going to be curtailed in their legitimate activities in any way," Representative Cannon said.

"If economies are to be effected, they should be imposed anywhere else in the District government before the schools are affected."

Emergency Borrowing Is Approved in Virginia House Action.

AUDITORS PREPARE FOR CHECK ON BALL

County Treasurer Discounts Rumors He Is Planning to Resign Post.

Arlington County officials yesterday began work on plans to raise an emergency loan of $100,000 to carry on the work of the county and to meet current expenses as Virginia State auditors arrived to begin work on the books of County Treasurer E. Wade Ball seeking to check a reputed shortage of more than $200,000. Members of the county board said Tuesday that the county had less than $11,000 in the seven official county depositories. It is estimated that at least $100,000 will be needed to conduct the affairs of the county until March 15.

The way was paved for borrowing this sum by passage in the Virginia House of Delegates yesterday of a Senate bill permitting Arlington County, and two others financially embarrassed, Lee and Franklin Counties, to borrow money not in excess of three-fourths of the county levy. The levy in Arlington County is in excess of $600,000.

Constitutional reading was suspended and the bill passed unanimously, 81 to 0. Delegate Hugh Reid, of Arlington County, who made the motion that the bill be taken up out of order, said that an unusual situation existed in his county and that unless there was an emergency action, the county might default on obligations before the week ends.

Bonding Firm Refuses Loan.

Previously yesterday, the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Baltimore, which had bonded Mr. Ball for $300,000, rejected an appeal of the Arlington County Board for an advance of $100,000 as an emergency loan. Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the county board, said the bonding company refused to "advance, loan or indorse the county's note for the money."

Later in the day, Carroll Pierce, president of the Citizens National Bank of Alexandria, one of the county's depositories, was in conference with the county board. After the conference, Mr. Fellows announced that steps would be taken at a meeting "within the next few days"

CHINESE THREATEN TO ATTACK ARRIVALS

Tokyo Chiefs Claim Enemy Is Retreating From Miaochungchen Area.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai (Thursday), Feb. 25.—Japan hurled all her forces in Shanghai against the Chinese defenses of Kiangwan today in a conflict that rose to new heights of fury.

Threat of a Chinese offensive to smash Japanese lines and block the landing of more troops drove the Nipponese forces against the Chinese strongholds in the heaviest fighting yet of the five-day drive on the Kiangwan front.

The village of Miaochungchen was in flames with infantry and machine gun nests of both sides locked in combat roundabout.

Forty Japanese army and navy airplanes, the greatest air fleet thus far unleashed by the invaders, rained down explosives in a supreme attempt to crack the Chinese resistance.

Claim Chinese Retreating.

The Japanese said that they had broken the Chinese lines at Miaochungchen, that the Chinese were retreating from that area, and that the Japanese had achieved an appreciable advance slightly northwest of Kiangwan.

The Japanese threw into the battle all their strength of armaments and infantry. The fight raged over a line extending from Kiangwan to Miaochungchen and beyond. While the Japanese big guns and airplanes kept up an unceasing fire, the mikado's soldiers advanced under the barrage in the face of a steady stream of Chinese rifle and machine gun bullets.

The Japanese said they had pushed farther toward Tazang, a sizable

Mah Assassinated In Harbin, Report

General Was Routed From Tsitsihar Last Year by Japanese.

Nanking, China, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A Reuters (British News Agency) dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, today said that Gen. Mah Chan-Shan had been assassinated.

Shanghai (Thursday), Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Chinese dispatches from Harbin reported today that Gen Mah Chan-Shan had been assassinated.

Gen. Mah was the defender of Tsitsihar, Manchuria, against a Japanese offensive late last year, and his forces were routed only after severe fighting in the bitter weather.

Later, however, his ardor for the Chinese cause cooled, and only last week he participated in conferences sponsored by the Japanese to form an independent Manchuria. Yesterday's dispatches said he had been formally inaugurated Governor of Heilungkiang Province, of which Tsitsihar is the capital.

Text of Stimson's Letter To Borah on China Crisis

The text of Secretary Stimson's letter to Senator Borah on the Chinese situation follows:

My Dear Senator Borah:

You have asked my opinion whether, as has been sometimes recently suggested, present conditions in China have in any way indicated that the so-called nine-power treaty has become inapplicable or ineffective or rightly in need of modification, and if so, what I considered should be the policy of this Government.

This treaty, as you of course know, forms the legal basis upon which now rests the "open door" policy toward China. That policy, enunciated by John Hay in 1899, brought to an end the struggle among various powers for so-called spheres of interest in China which was threatening the dismemberment of that empire.

To accomplish this Mr. Hay invoked two principles—(1) equality of commercial opportunity among all nations in dealing with China and (2) as necessary to that equality the preservation of China's territorial and administrative integrity.

These principles were not new in the foreign policy of America. They had been the principles upon which it rested in its dealings with other nations for many years. In the case of China they were invoked to save a situation which not only threatened the future development and sovereignty of that great Asiatic people, but also threatened to create dangerous and constantly increasing rivalries between the other nations of the world.

War had already taken place between Japan and China. At the close of that war three other nations intervened to prevent Japan from obtaining some of the results of that war claimed by her. Other nations sought and had obtained spheres of interest.

Partly as a result of these actions a serious uprising had broken out in China which endangered the legations of all of the powers at Peking.

Stimson Says War Could Have Been Avoided if Treaties Observed.

BIDS OTHER POWERS TO RESTATE STAND

Text of Letter to Borah Is Cabled to Tokyo; Praised by Senator Johnson.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States, in a dramatic restatement of the moral and political principles involved in the conflict now going on between China and Japan, solemnly reaffirmed the doctrine of the Open Door and served notice to the world yesterday that "we are prepared to make it our policy for the future."

In one of the most significant State papers which have been contributed to the history of the present day, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson pointed out the following facts in an open letter to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the Senate:

First, the United States will insist upon the sanctity of the Nine Power Treaty insofar as China's territorial integrity is concerned;

Second, the indisputable evidence that not only the Nine Power Treaty, but the Kellogg Briand pact as well, have been violated by the present situation in China;

Could Have Been Avoided.

Third, the thoroughgoing conviction of Secretary Stimson that the present situation could have been avoided, if the treaties had been observed;

Fourth, a portentous reminder that the Washington treaties, which guaranteed the Open Door in China also guaranteed the demilitarization of American colonial possessions in the Pacific Ocean, no one of these treaties can be altered without affecting every other treaty as well.

The Stimson manifesto also contained an invitation to the other signatories of the Nine Power Pact to reassociate themselves with this Government in a corroborative statement of their principles regarding agreements entered into at the present time in China. In this way the Department of State intends to prevent the legalization of any such proceeding as the recent creation of a seperate independent state in Manchuria, under Japanese influence.

Text Cabled to Japan.

The sudden projection of a new statement of American policy across the war clouds in the Orient overshadowed the military developments of the last 24 hours. The text of the Stimson letter was immediately cabled to Japan, but up to a late hour no reaction either official or popular had been received. It became known here last night that Secretary Stimson had been mulling over the effectiveness of the last American statement of January 7, and that discreet overtures had been made to other governments in the last fortnight regarding a more emphatic statement of the neutral position.

The United States in this instance, as also in the more latterly one of January 7 had decided to act independently and then offer any facilities required for similar action by the Great Powers—England, France and Italy.

The first and most immediate domestic result of the Stimson manifesto probably will be quick action in the Senate and House on the billion dollar naval construction bills. These resolutions would enable the United States to build up to the maximum limit provided by the London Naval Treaty over a period of ten years. The total expenditures would involve $988,000,000 and would

NEW SPEED RECORD MADE BY CAMPBELL

Briton Drives "Bluebird" Car at 253.968 Miles Per Hour at Daytona.

Daytona, Beach, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, today wrote another thrilling chapter to his years of racing history by hanging up a new world's automobile speed record of 253.968 miles an hour over a mile route.

The 47-year-old driver who has been blazing new speed marks down the "roaring road" for a quarter of a century, drove his 12-cylinder bluebird car twice over the ocean course to surpass by 8.235 miles an hour his former record of 245.733 established in the same car here last year.

On his first run, made southward over the beach, Sir Malcolm attained the speed of 267.45 miles an hour. Upon reaching the south end of the course, he immediately turned his bullet-nosed machine around and shot back northward over the beach at a speed of 241.773.

He covered the mile on his first run in 13.46 seconds and flashed across that distance on his second trial in 14.89 seconds for an average time of 14.17 seconds for both runs.

His speed was calculated by averaging the time for both trials and di-

Vessel Is Reported Sinking in Atlantic

Steampship, Its Lifeboats Gone, in Distress on Northern Lane.

London, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The steamship Aggersund was reported badly damaged in the North Atlantic, with all lifeboats gone, in a radio message from the station at Valentia, an island off the West Coast of Ireland, tonight.

The message, received at Valentia from the steamer Montcalm, said the Aggersund was listing at an angle of 45 degrees.

The message, as sent to the Lloyds Shipping Agency, reported "heavy damage" and said the funnel was lost.

Another message to Lloyds from the Valentia station said the steamer Beaverhill reported the Aggersund's position at longitude 41 degrees west (about 400 miles east of Newfoundland).

TREATY-LIMIT NAVY URGED UPON SENATE

Would Place U. S. in Better Position to Bargain on Arms, Committee Says.

(Associated Press.)

A navy as strong as treaties will permit was recommended to the Senate yesterday by its naval committee to place the United States in "a better bargaining position" at the Geneva arms conference.

Warning that the American fleet is "rapidly becoming a navy of obsolete ships," the committee reported that early enactment of the Hale bill to bring the Navy up to limits fixed by the Washington and London treaties was "imperative."

The gigantic construction bill reached the Senate just as it received Secretary Stimson's new declaration of policy in the Far East, which some interpreted as a warning of the right by this Government to disregard the Washington treaty if Japan continues her operations in China.

"We believe it is imperative that the United States authorize a building program at this time and thus give notice to the world that we intend to maintain the ratios estab-

100,000 Mark Is Near In Campaign for Jobs

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The 100,000 mark in the "war on depression" campaign for 1,000,000 jobs for unemployed Americans appeared near tonight.

Although the "holiday letdown" was blamed for the lowest daily total since the campaign began, the 3,655 new jobs reported during the 24 hours ended at noon sent the total since the beginning of the drive to 81,731. The latest reports came from 31 States.

Jurors Fail to Agree In Berg Kidnaping Case

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A mistrial was declared here late today when a circuit court jury reported it was unable to agree in the case of Paul A. Richards, 31-year-old attorney, charged with kidnaping for ransom in the abduction of Alexander Berg, wealthy furrier, November 6, 1931.

The jury, which deliberated 24½ hours, stood, 7 to 5, for acquittal.

Essay Contest Is Lauded By Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr.

Wife of Prominent Banker Says Competition Will Do Much Toward Making Students Better Informed About George Washington.

Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., wife of a prominent Washington banker, and a leader in educational and civic pursuits, yesterday joined the outstanding citizens of the community in commending The Post George Washington Essay Contest in which $1,000 in cash prizes will be distributed among students of public, private and parochial schools of Washington and nearby Virginia and Maryland submitting the best essays on the great American whose Bicentennial is being celebrated this year.

Mrs. Evans, who is a member of the board of trustees of George Washington University, declared yesterday:

"The Post George Washington Essay contestants can not help but grow up to be better informed adults and citizens more truly imbued with those patriotic concepts which make for unselfish service to country as a result of their participation in this contest.

"Every one who goes into a contest wins something, although it may not be an actual prize itself," continued Mrs. Evans. "Of necessity, this can go to only the impartially selected individuals whose work has shown surpassing excellence. Each contestant, however, has the benefit of the zest and wholesome rivalry which are developed as a result of equal opportunity in competition. It is a good thing for us to measure ourselves with our fellows in order that we may develop the attitude of winning or losing with grace and generosity.

"The complexities of our modern city life," she said, "too often deprive children from participation in those special group activities which are motivating influences in developing self-expression among young people in our smaller and more compact communities.

"This essay contest is not only an offset to this, but comes at the time of a great patriotic celebration in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Essay contestants upon any worthy subject

Darrow Invited to Defend Mrs. Fortescue in Hawaii

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Honolulu, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Negotiations have been entered into with Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, to defend Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three others against second degree murder charges March 10, it was learned today by the Associated Press.

The defendants are accused of shooting to death Joseph Kahahawai, one of five men charged with assaulting Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, the wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, of the United States Navy. Lieut. Massie and two enlisted men of the Navy, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are the others charged with the slaying.

Mr. Darrow was in conference with Dudley Field Malone in New York yesterday, it was learned, and was reported favorable to coming to Honolulu to take charge of the defense.

Further information was unobtainable here, but it was almost certain Mr. Darrow's coming to Honolulu would mean postponement of the trial set for March 10.

So far the prosecution has not been acquainted with the possibility of

TOKYO SENDS 60,000 MORE MEN, IS CLAIM

Chinese General Entertains Reporters and Accuses Enemy of Cruelty.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Feb. 24.—Sixty thousand additional men are being sent here from Japan to reinforce the 25,000 already here, Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the Nineteenth Chinese Route Army defending Shanghai, declared today to a group of 40 newspaper correspondents who made a hazardous motor trip out to his headquarters at Chenju.

The general had invited the reporters to tea—although it developed he didn't have any tea—when he learned that the Japanese command had canceled all passes allowing foreign correspondents to go into the Japanese lines.

After providing refreshments for his guests in the trampled garden adjoining his headquarters building, the general sent them back to Shanghai and gave them an opportunity on the way to inspect part of his defense positions.

Positions Surprisingly Strong.

Those positions were surprisingly strong. The trenches were deep and well equipped dugouts with earthen roofs, which afforded excellent protection from bombs and artillery fire.

"Tell the world this truth! My army could force the Japanese out of Chinese territory quickly, but we are not taking the offensive because we want peace and we want to preserve the neutrality of the International Settlement," said Gen. Tsai.

"The Japanese may win after a long fight, but we will be winners in principle. We will resist to the last bullet and to the last minute."

The party of newspapermen was escorted through the Chinese lines to the headquarters five miles in the rear by members of the general's staff. As the string of motor cars made its way along the road three Japanese airplanes suddenly appeared overhead. The cars stopped, and Chinese soldiers swarmed out of the trenches and dugouts along the road, shooting wildly at the planes.

Planes Pass Overhead.

The apprehensive reporters quickly left their automobiles and picked out mudholes and ditches where they might find a little protection in case the airmen loosed bombs. But the planes passed overhead, swooped down on nearby Chinese positions and raked them with machine-gun fire.

The general headquarters is a converted villa and the general received his guests in the room which used to be the parlor. As they gathered about a wood stove, he apologized to them because he had no tea to offer.

The first thing the correspondents wanted to know was how to reach the entrance to his bombproof cellar. He told them, and then the conversation switched to the military methods of the Japanese.

Accuses Japanese.

"Unfortunately," the youthful general said, "this is not a war of army against army. The Japanese have chosen to attack women and children, too. The cruel and inhuman acts of the Japanese in dropping bombs on helpless civilians are a violation of the principles of international warfare. Their bombs killed few soldiers, but since the attack began four days ago 5,000 civilians have been killed or wounded.

"The Nineteenth Army has the Chinese government, the Chinese people and every other Chinese army behind it. Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek is my master and many of his soldiers are fighting beside my men."

Before returning to Shanghai the correspondents looked over part of the intricate system of trenches running back several miles behind the Chinese lines.

The soldiers seemed to be well fed and well equipped and their morale was high. Many of them appeared to be boys of not more than 14. In the fields between the trench lines women were busy preparing for crops.

While the attack of those legations was in progress, Mr. Hay made an announcement in respect to this policy as the principle upon which the powers should act in the settlement of the rebellion. He said:

"The policy of the Government of the United States is to seek a solution which may bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese Empire."

Other Powers Assent.

He was successful in obtaining the assent of the other powers to the policy thus announced.

In taking these steps Mr. Hay acted with the cordial support of the British government. In responding to Mr. Hay's announcement, above set forth, Lord Salisbury, the British prime minister, expressed himself "most emphatically as concurring in the policy of the United States."

For twenty years thereafter the open door policy rested upon the informal commitments thus made by the various powers. But in the winter of 1921 to 1922, at a conference participated in by all of the principal powers which had interests in the Pacific, the policy was crystallized into the so-called nine-power treaty, which gave definition and precision to the principles upon which the policy rested. In the first article of that treaty the contracting powers, other than China, agreed:

1. To respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

2. To provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government.

3. To use their influence for the purpose of effectually establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations throughout the territory of China.

4. To refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states, and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such states.

This treaty thus represents a carefully developed and matured international policy intended, on the one hand, to assure to all of the contracting parties their rights and interests in and with regard to China, and on the other hand to assure to the people of China the fullest opportunity to sovereignty and independence according to the modern and enlightened standards believed to maintain among the peoples of this earth.

At the time this treaty was signed it was known that China was engaged in an attempt to develop the free institutions of a self-governing republic after her recent revolution from an autocratic form of Government; that she would require many years of both economic and political effort to that end, and that her progress would necessarily be slow.

Covenant of Self-Denial.

The treaty was thus a covenant of self-denial among the signatory powers in deliberate renunciation of any policy of aggression which might tend to interfere with that development.

It was believed—and the whole history of that development of the "open-door" policy reveals that faith—that only by such a process, under the protection of such an agreement, could the fullest interests not only of China, but of all nations which have intercourse with her, best be served.

In its report to the President announcing this treaty, the American delegation, headed by the then Secretary of State, Mr. Charles E. Hughes, said:

"It is believed that through this treaty the 'open door' in China has at last been made a fact."

During the course of the discussions which resulted in the treaty, the chairman of the British delegation, Lord Balfour, had stated that:

"The British Empire delegation understood that there was no representative of any power around the table who thought that the old practice of 'spheres of interest' was either advocated by any government or would be tolerable to this conference. So far as the British government were concerned, they had, in the most formal manner, publicly announced that they regarded this practice as utterly inappropriate to the existing situation."

Japanese Position Announced.

At the same time the representative of Japan, Baron Shidehara, announced the position of his government as follows:

"No one denies to China her sacred right to govern herself. No one stands in the way of China to work out her own great national destiny."

The treaty was originally executed by the United States, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands and Portugal. Subsequently it was also executed by Norway, Bolivia, Sweden, Denmark and Mexico. Germany has signed it, but her Parliament has not yet ratified it.

"It must be remembered also that this treaty was one of several treaties and agreements entered into at the Washington Conference by the various powers concerned, all of which were interrelated and interdependent.

No one of these treaties can be disregarded without disturbing the general understanding and equilibrium which were intended to be accomplished and effected by the group of agreements arrived at in their entirety.

The Washington conference was essentially a disarmament conference, aimed to promote the possibility of peace in the world not only through the cessation of competition in naval armament but also by the solution of various other disturbing problems which threatened the peace of the world, particularly in the Far East. These problems were all interrelated.

The willingness of the American Government to surrender its then commanding lead in battleship construction and to leave its positions at Guam and in the Philippines without further fortification, was predicated upon, among other things, the self-denying covenants contained in the nine-power treaty, which assured the nations of the world not only of equal opportunity for their Eastern trade but also against the military aggrandizement of any other power at the expense of China.

Other Promises Considered.

One can not discuss the possibility of modifying or abrogating those provisions of the nine-power treaty without considering at the same time the other promises upon which they were really dependent.

Six years later the policy of self-denial against aggression by a stronger against a weaker power, upon which the nine-power treaty had been based, received a powerful reinforcement by the execution by substantially all the nations of the world of the pact of Paris, the so-called Kellogg-Briand pact.

These two treaties represent independent but harmonious steps taken for the purpose of aligning the conscience and public opinion of the world in favor of a system of orderly development by the law of nations, including the settlement of all controversies by methods of justice and peace instead of by arbitrary force. The program for the protection of China from outside aggression is an essential part of any such development. The signatories and adherents of the nine-power treaty rightly felt that the orderly and peaceful development of the 400,000,000 of people inhabiting China was necessary to the peaceful welfare of the entire world, and that no program for the welfare of the world as a whole could afford to neglect the welfare and protection of China.

Modification Is Opposed.

The recent events which have taken place in China, especially the hostilities which, having been begun in Manchuria, have latterly been extended to Shanghai, far from indicating the advisability of any modification of the treaties we have been discussing, have tended to bring home the vital importance of the faithful observance of the covenants therein to all of the nations interested in the Far East.

It is not eceasay in that connection to inquire into the causes of the controversy or attempt to apportion the blame between the two nations which are unhappily involved; for, regardless of cause or responsibility, it is clear beyond peradventure that a situation has developed which can not, under any circumstances, be reconciled with the obligations of the covenants of these two treaties, and that if the treaties had been faithfully observed such a situation could not have arisen.

The signatories of the nine-power treaty and of the Kellogg-Briand pact who are not parties to that conflict are not likely to see any reason for modifying the terms of those treaties. To them the real value of the faithful performance of the treaties has been brought sharply home by the perils and losses to which their nations have been subjected in Shanghai.

That is the view of this Government.

We see no reason for abandoning the enlightened principles which are embodied in these treaties.

We believe that this situation would have been avoided had these covenants been faithfully observed, and no evidence has come to us to indicate that a due compliance with them would have interfered with the adequate protection of the legitimate rights in China of the signatories of those treaties and their nations.

U. S. Position Made Known.

On January 7 last, upon the instruction of the President, this Government formally notified Japan and China that it would not recognize any situation, treaty or agreement entered into by those governments in violation of the covenants of these treaties which affected the rights of our Government or its citizens in China.

If a similar decision should be reached and a similar position taken by the other governments of the world, a caveat will be placed upon such action, which, we believe, will effectively bar the legality hereafter of any title or right sought to be obtained by pressure or treaty violation, and which, as has been shown by history in the past, will eventually lead to the restoration to China of rights and titles of which she may have been deprived.

In the past our Government, as one of the leading powers on the Pacific Ocean, has rested its policy upon an abiding faith in the future of the people of China and upon the ultimate success in dealing with them of the principals of fair play, patience and mutual good will. We appreciate the immensity of the task which lies before her statesmen in the development of her country and its government.

The delays in her progress, the instability of her attempts to secure a responsible government were foreseen by Messrs. Hay and Hughes and their contemporaries and were the very obstacles which the policy of the open door was designed to meet.

We concur with those statesmen, representing all the nations in the Washington Conference, who decided that China was entitled to the time necessary to accomplish her development. We are prepared to make that our policy for the future.

ARLINGTON MOVES FOR LOAN IN CRISIS

to raise an emergency loan for the county.

Passages of the emergency act to permit Arlington County to borrow funds staved off the possibility of closing the county schools and suspending other county work which would have involved more than 146 school teachers and 75 other county employes.

Audit Begins Today.

R. B. Jordan and R. E. Pugh, from the office of State Auditor T. Coleman at Richmond, reached Arlington County late yesterday. They will begin work on the books of the County treasurer today. They were sent to the county on order of Gov. John Garland Pollard, acting on a request of members of the county board, who announced the reputed shortage yesterday.

Two other auditors are reported to be on their way to Arlington County to aid in the work.

An audit of the books of all county offices will be requested by County Manager Roy S. Braden, he revealed yesterday.

"The first recommendation I made when taking office as county manager on January 1 was that a complete audit of all offices be made. I shall now insist that the county board order such audit," he declared.

Ball will continue in office for the present, it was learned last night. The State auditors will proceed with their work, but they are not authorized to operate any county office, and the present treasurer is to continue with the routine work.

He strongly denied rumors yesterday that he would resign his position.

Discounts Resignation Rumor.

"This is the first I have heard of such rumors. I have never thought of it and I have no idea of taking such a step," Ball declared when he was told of the rumors.

The county manager's office yesterday was flooded with telephone calls from persons to whom approximately $20,000 in warrants for outside work and supplies were authorized by the board at its meeting last Saturday.

To these callers, County Manager Braden said that all of the checks for the warrants had been drawn up but there was "some trouble about county funds" and that it would be impossible to send out the checks at once. However, he said that he hoped to find affairs straightened out shortly and that the checks would be mailed then.

CENSORSHIP INVOKED ON JAPANESE MOVES

Economic Blockade on Tokyo Might Bring Acts of War, Observers Feel.

Tokyo, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Censorship was invoked again today to cloak the movement of Japanese reinforcements to the Shanghai front.

Only meager accounts of military preparations appeared in a few newspapers, the government apparently taking the position that by controlling the news it might be possible to disguise the seriousness with which the Shanghai situation is viewed.

Earlier in the month, when two army divisions were moved to Shanghai after several thousand bluejackets had failed in their attempt to drive the Chinese out of Chapei, a similar censorship was invoked.

Supervision of Dispatches.

Official supervision of dispatches by foreign corespondents has taken some odd forms. For example, a supervisor deleted part of an interview given to the Associated Press by Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, who is one of the strongest and most responsible members of the government.

A few early editions of yesterday's evening papers printed brief reports of the cabinet decision to send more men to China. These meager reports are about the only information most of the Japanese people have received. Although the cabinet decided to double the army force in Shanghai—raising it from 25,000 to 50,000—no details of troop movements and dispositions have been published.

Watching Reaction Abroad.

Japanese patriotism is a strong force, but nevertheless the people are watching anxiously the reaction abroad, especially as it concerns a possible economic blockade by foreign powers.

The reaction of the majority seems to be that the Western powers, unable to understand all that led up to the present crisis, have judged Japan harshly and unjustly.

Scant intimations reaching here of widespread censure of the Japanese course produce bewilderment in the public mind, and American correspondents are asked many times about the chances of the United States and Great Britain joining an economic blockade.

When this issue is discussed, in careful newspaper editorials and in guarded private conversations with leading citizens, it is almost unanimously emphasized that Japan would consider a blockade an act of war, to be opposed by acts of war.

WHEAT PRICE FIXING PLANNED IN BRITAIN

Project for Guaranteeing Growers Standard Return on Crop Revealed.

London, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The government today revealed a project to guarantee wheat growers in the British Isles a standard price of 10 shillings per hundredweight as a part of its general 10 per cent tariff policy.

The plan was contained in a wheat quota bill placed on its first reading in Parliament yesterday and made public today.

More Acreage Is Aim.

The announced purpose of the measure was to bring back to wheat cultivation some 14,000,000 acres abandoned or devoted to other purposes since the World War.

This objective would be attained by fixing the annual domestic wheat output at 27,000,000 hundredweights (50,400,000 bushels). To guard against wheat growing on unsuitable ground the measure stipulated that if the domestic supply exceeded 27,000,000 hundredweights the payments to growers would be reduced proportionately.

A wheat commission would be appointed to make up the deficiency between the quota price and the open market price. The commission would collect quota payments from millers and importers of flour based on output.

Benefits Begin on 1932 Harvest.

The benefits of the measure were stipulated to begin with wheat harvested in 1932.

The question of giving the British dominions a guaranteed share of the British wheat market was not touched upon in the domestic quota bill, but will be taken up at the imperial economic conference in Ottawa this summer. It was understood the government had not yet reached a decision as to the quota for the overseas empire, but 55 per cent has been discussed. The 27,000,000 hundredweights in the domestic quota represent 19.5 per cent of the entire consumption of a cereal year computed on the basis of the year 1929.

Rebels Reported As Nearing Harbin

Opponents of New Rule in Manchuria Seize Several Towns.

Harbin, Manchuria, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—As Gen. Jiro Tamon concentrated his division here today for a campaign against Chinese troops rebelling against the new Manchurian government, dispatches were received telling that the rebels had occupied still more territory.

Part of the Chinese units that took over Imienpo, important railroad position, moved on eastward and seized several towns on the Chinese Eastern Railway, these dispatches said. Other reports declared that the rebels had occupied Maoerhshan, 65 miles southeast of Harbin.

Gen. Murai's brigade of Gen. Tamon's division arrived in Harbin for the campaign and negotiations were started with Soviet Russia for permission to use the Chinese Eastern Railway to move the expeditionary force.

OHIO PUBLIC ENEMY TAKEN IN NEW YORK

"Smiling Joe" Filkowski Gives Battle in Hotel as Crowds Watch.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—"Smiling Joe" Filkowski, Cleveland's "public enemy No. 1," was captured on crowded West Forty-seventh street today after a search of several months and held incommunicado for extradition to the Ohio City. He lost his smile.

Working in conjunction with New York's new police radio system, three Cleveland detectives cornered Filkowski at the entrance to the Hotel Somerset, thronged with guests. He drew a revolver and put up a sharp fight as soon as he sighted his pursuers.

Detective Bernard Wolf wound an armlock around the gunman's throat and Detective Max Hittel and Detective Kurt Gleckner, assisted by two New York officers, disarmed and subdued him. Patrons of the hotel and pedestrians witnessed the struggle from ringside vantage points.

Taken to the West Forty-seventh street police station, Filokowski refused to talk about numerous murders and robberies of which he is suspected in Cleveland, New York and Chicago, but was subjected to prolonged questioning. The press was not permitted to interview him.

The Cleveland detectives said he was wanted there on charges of shooting to kill an officer, several escapes, and for other crimes of gang violence.

Mrs. Mary Kekic, companion of Filkowski, was captured tonight on Long Island.

Detective Bernard Wolf, of Cleveland, who confirmed the capture, said an arsenal of weapons and a large amount of boxed jewelry was found. He asserted he did not know the details of the capture.

Two diamond rings, each weighing several carats, a diamond and emerald bracelet, and about $300 in cash—all worth more than $5,000—were found in his possession. How and where the prisoner obtained these were subjects of questioning.

$108,000,000 FIXED FOR 1933 BUILDING

$15,000,000 Program Here Is Planned, Despite Cuts in Budget.

Despite a $45,000,000 reduction in Postoffice and Treasury Department appropriations, the Federal building program will go forward in 1933, with $15,000,000 expended in operations here, and $93,000,000 for the rest of the country.

This was disclosed yesterday by Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, when he reported his latest closely trimmed supply bill to the House. Not a single budget estimate was increased.

Specific provision was made that no portion of the estimate be used for construction work on the Apex Building or the Coast Guard Building, or for remodeling of the old State, War and Navy structure. The Apex Building, to be located in the Mall triangle, eventually will house the Federal Trade Commission.

Restrictions Less Rigid.

Restrictions against promotions, filling of vacancies and pay increases, that have been included in all previous supply bills, were embodied in the latest measure, but they were less rigid. It was provided that presidential order be required only in filling vacancies in temporary jobs.

Pay increases would be allowed Coast Guard personnel, postmasters and postal employes whose wages fluctuate with the volume of receipts and rural mail carriers paid according to the length of their routes.

The modifications are in line with Budget Bureau recommendations, that seasonal, emergency, temporary or cooperative positions be exempted from the nonfilling of vacancies restriction. The Senate appropriations committee left the sections out of its agriculture supply bill, explaining it would be taken up in conference.

Apex Building Postponed.

The committee recommended that the supervising architect's office be allotted $133,406,930 for building operations, a gross increase of $25,991,000 over appropriations for the present year, but a decrease of $12,785,000 under budget recommendations.

In eliminating funds for the Apex Building, Chairman Byrns explained "that in view of the large program which is planned for Washington, no great harm can come from the postponement of this project for the present."

In the course of its pruning, the committee cut $22,677,000 off the budget estimates for the two departments, leaving $1,059,898,000 for operating expenditures. The Postoffice Department was allowed $805,586,000, a reduction of $37,297,000 under current appropriations, while the Treasury received $254,311,000, or $7,391,000 below current allotments.

Mills Urges Tax Boost.

At hearings on the bills, Secretary of the Treasury Mills advocated increasing taxes and "cutting expenditures to the bone" by eliminating Government activities as a means of balancing the budget and restoring Federal finances.

Secretary Mills told the committee that the surplus of $3,400,000,000 paid into the sinking fund above legal requirements since the World War has been about erased by a $3,000,000,000 increase in the public debt.

Public debt retirement under the Treasury bill, including $426,489,000 for the sinking fund and $640,000,000 for interest and permanent appropriations, amounted to $1,161,687,000. This was an increase of $118,666,000.

Postmaster General Brown estimated that the postal deficit for the current year would reach $200,000,000, compared with expected revenue of $600,000,000.

U. S. REAFFIRMS OPEN DOOR POLICY; HOLDS PACTS BROKEN include the Vinson bill for $616,000,000 still in House committee, though opposed by the committee.

During the recent holiday Secretary Stimson had ample opportunity to prepare a draft of his epoch-making statement. The Assistant Secretary of State, James Grafton Rogers, who is also a legal authority of some weight, cooperated with him in the collation of the various precedents of international law which were invoked in yesterday's letter.

Tuesday evening the chairman of the foreign relations committee called at the suburban estate of Secretary Stimson. Presumably Senator Borah's presence at Woodley was for the purpose of getting a first-hand knowledge of the manifesto in order to explain its historical and legalistic background to the other members of the Senate and the foreign relations committee.

Yesterday morning the letter was made available and almost immediately thereafter unanimous approval of its contents was evident. Even such a critic of the administration and particularly of the Secretary of State as Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, declared, "I am delighted with this statement of policy."

Particularly Gratifying.

Senator Johnson and Secretary Stimson both engaged in a celebrated passage-at-arms in executive session before the Senate finance committee recently regarding certain diplomatic correspondence which Senator Johnson wanted for public record, but which Secretary Stimson insisted should be revealed only "in confidence" to members of the committee.

Senator Johnson yesterday said, regarding the Stimson letter:

"The reiterated interrelation of the 1922 treaties is particularly gratifying. The United States then yielded not only its naval superiority, but its sovereign right to fortify our own possessions, and this was done upon the emphasized faith of Japan and other nations, agreeing most solemnly 'to respect the territorial integrity of China.'"

Col. Stimson traced the history and development of the open door policy from its creation by Secretary of State John Hay in 1899 to its recent invocation in his identic statement to China and Japan of January 7.

Prevented Dismemberment.

The farsighted policy of Secretary Hay prevented the dismemberment of the Chinese Empire. The British government, through the British prime minister, gave spontaneous assent to this declaration which was again approved by the British delegation at the Washington conference of 1922 and even the Japanese representative, Baron Shidehara, agreed to the same principles. He said:

"No one denies to China her sacred right to govern herself. No one stands in the way of China to work out her own great national destiny."

Thus the approval of the Japanese government is specifically conveyed in historical antecedents to the present open door policy. Secretary Stimson then brought up the provisos of the Kellogg-Briand pact to which Japan was again party and, with dramatic suddenness, declared:

"Regardless of cause or responsibility, it is clear beyond peradventure that a situation has developed which can not under any circumstances be reconciled with the obligations of the covenants of these two treaties. If the treaties had been faithfully observed such a situation could not have arisen."

Squarely Meets Overtures.

The Secretary of State, in his letter to the senator from Idaho, squarely met the overtures which have been emanating from Tokyo regarding modification of the Nine Power Treaty:

"The recent events which have taken place in China, especially the hostilities which, having been begun in Manchuria, have latterly been extended to Shanghai, far from indicating the advisability of any modification of the treaties we have been discussing, have tended to bring home the vital importance of the faithful observance of the covenants therein to all of the nations interested in the Far East."

Any tampering with the Washington 1922 treaties will result in a complete realignment of the doctrine of quid pro quo and might even go so far as to compel seriously reconsideration of the sacrifices agreed to by the United States in the subsequent London treaty of 1929. The Secretary of State, however, in his letter to Senator Borah, contented himself with pointing out the situation which might arise from any readjustment of the 1922 treaties.

Battleship Construction.

He said: "The willingness of the American Government to surrender its commanding lead in battleship construction and to leave its positions at Guam and the Philippines without further fortification, was predicated upon, among other things, the self-denying covenants contained in the nine power treaty, which assured the nations of the world not only of equal opportunity for their Eastern trade but also against the military aggrandizement of any other power at the expense of China. One can not discuss the possibility of modifying or abrogating those provisions of the nine power treaty without considering at the same time the other promises upon which they were really dependent."

There is a note of finality in the peroration. The Secretary declared:

"That is the view of this Government. We see no reason for abandoning the enlightened principles which are embodied in these treaties. We believe that this situation would have been avoided had these covenants been faithfully observed, and no evidence has come to us to indicate that a due compliance with them would have interfered with the adequate protection of the legitimate rights in China of the signatories of those treaties and their nationals."

Red Cross Gives $3,000 To Shanghai Americans

(Associated Press.)

The American Red Cross yesterday transmitted $2,000 through the State Department for relief of American civilians in distress in Shanghai.

It will be administered under the direction of Consul General Cunningham.

Paderewski Check Sent to Red Cross

Order for $11,852.70 to Aid Idle Is Forwarded by Mrs. Hoover.

A check for $11,852.70, representing proceeds of the concert given in Washington by Ignace Paderewski, has been transmitted to the American Red Cross by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, sponsor of the concert. The former Polish premier donated the proceeds to be used for benefit of American unemployed.

The check, made out to Mrs. Hoover by Paderewski, was indorsed by her over to the Red Cross, and she wrote Chairman John Barton Payne the following letter:

"Inclosed please find a check for $11,852.70 which was sent to me by Mr. Paderewski, as the proceeds of the recital which he gave in Washington on January 25 for the benefit of the unemployed of our country. May I mention in passing that Mr. Paderewski especially wished it to purchase food for Americans hungry and in distress, so if you can see that it quite certainly goes for this purpose, we will be carrying out the wishes of the generous donor."

Jack Ahern Is Cited In Contempt Proceeding

Jack Ahern yesterday was cited by Justice Peyton Gordon in the District Supreme Court to appear before him March 29 and show why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for alleged failure to abide by a Supreme Court order of August 13, which forbade him from violating the prohibition law.

Ahern Tuesday was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail for maintaining a nuisance, and was fined $500 for possession.

Committee Approves Acacia Bill.

A bill authorizing the Acacia Mutual Life Association to change its name to the Acacia Mutal Life Insurance Co. and to engage in the general insurance business, was approved yesterday by the House District committee. The company now is restricted to Masonic insurance.

Second-Degree Murder Verdict Found in Killing

After three hours of deliberations, a jury in the court of Justice James M. Proctor yesterday found Robert Ford, colored, 25 years old, guilty of murder in the second degree in connection with the slaying of James Turner, also colored, in a fight at 78 Q street northwest.

Turner, who is subject to a sentence of from 20 years to life in prison, will not be sentenced until next week. Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland prosecuted the case.

HOOVER COMMENDS HOUSE SPEED ON REORGANIZATION

military and naval establishments were lobbying against Mr. Byrn's bill to consolidate the two services. The Byrns bill now is before the House committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

"Nothing could be further from the fact," the Secretary of War said in dismissing the lobbying charge.

Mr. Hurley's statement also denied a recent charge by Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the expenditures committee, that the War Department was mailing out form letters soliciting editorial support against suspension of the Citizens Military Training Camps.

"The efforts of Mr. Cochran and Mr. Byrns to make a political issue of proper national defense, and to reduce the armed forces of the country to a state of impotence, has undoubtedly aroused the resentment of many patriotic citizens who view with alarm these attempts to subordinate national security to the expediency of politics," Secretary Hurley's statement concluded.

The Army-Navy consolidation measure has been before the expenditures committee continuously since President Hoover repeated two months ago his suggestion that something definite be done about increasing the efficiency of Federal administration. Thus far this measure has blocked committee consideration of all of the President's specific proposals for economy through reorganization and consolidations. But to date no report has come from the committee on the Byrns bill.

The resolution to create a special House committee to investigate reorganization was presented last week by Representative Lewis W. Douglas (Democrat), of Arizona. It was passed on Tuesday by a vote of 215 to 22. It calls for a report by April 15, 1932.

Representative Byrns is chairman of the select committee, which consists of four Democrats and three Republicans. The committee held an executive session yesterday afternoon to perfect plans for procedure, and will assemble again today for the same purpose.

The President's statement in full follows:

I am delighted that the Congress is earnestly taking up the reorganization of the Federal machinery. I will be entirely happy if my repeated messages to the Congress on the subject succeed in securing action in an effective fashion.

It is a most unpleasant task to abolish boards and bureaus, and at the same time it is a difficult job to do it so wisely as not to injure the efficiency and morale of our Army and Navy and other essential government services.

Congress has attempted repeatedly in the last 25 years to effect reorganizations and has always abandoned the efforts under a multitude of oppositions.

Urges Power for President.

My suggestion for the past five years has been that the responsibility should be lodged with the Executive with the right of Congress to review the actions taken. I, of course, continue to entertain that belief, because of the failures of the past, and I believe that results would be most expeditiously and efficiently accomplished if responsibility is lodged with some one to do it.

There is more hope now than heretofore that Congress will act because of the transcendent need for economy. The large number of investigations and reports which have been made over the last 25 years furnish the material and advice necessary for rapid action. I hope it will be done with such expedition as to give prompt relief to the taxpayers.

A House expenditures subcommittee yesterday approved the move to merge the War and Navy Departments. The full committee will probably vote on the proposal Saturday.

Meanwhile an administration measure to authorize President Hoover to revamp the Federal set-up was introduced by Representative Williamson, of South Dakota, ranking Republican on the expenditures committee.

Congressional Comment Upon Letter of Stimson

(Associated Press.)

Commenting on Secretary Stimson's letter to Senator Borah yesterday, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said, "That the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations within the territory of China running through the open door policy and the nine-power treaty has been violated or disregarded does not justify abandonment of the principle or the substitution of new treaty arrangements giving any measure of advantage or benefit by reason of violation or disregard."

Senator Reed, high-ranking Republican, of Pennsylvania, said he regarded the Stimson statement as an end of note-writing to China and Japan by the United States Government.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Montant, seemed pleased with the letter and declared the paragraph relating to the interdependence of all the agreements reached at the Washington conference was "eminently sound."

Representative Fish (Republican), of New York, warned the House yesterday that economic boycott against Japan would be the "first step toward war." He criticized the attitude of the administration toward the Sino-Japanese difficulties and said: "If the United States had not sent a note to Japan every time a little town in Manchuria was seized we could now use our good offices toward a settlement in the interest of peace."

PRESENT TAX LAW FEATURE RETAINED

House Committee Decides to Keep Consolidated Corporation Returns.

(Associated Press.)

The House ways and means committee reached its first decision on the administrative provisions of the new tax bill and agreed that one feature of the present law should remain unchanged.

This was the section authorizing corporations to file consolidated income tax returns for themselves and their subsidiary or affiliated companies. Two more administrative clauses remained to be written before the committee could vote upon the proposed tax on a selected list of manufactures.

They were proposals to repeal the provision allowing credits on foreign taxes paid by American enterprises and to modify the capital gain and loss tax of the existing revenue law.

Joint Return on Corporate Tax.

Under the decision announced yesterday by Acting Chairman Crisp, after a closed session of the committee, interests with subsidiaries will be permitted to continue filing returns on joint profits for the corporate tax.

It was proposed to split them in order that subsidiaries showing profits would bear all the taxes while those without profit would pay none. Although not announcing the figures of the vote, the Georgia Democrat said that it was bipartisan and substantial.

The committee considered the proposition to disallow credits to industries operating here and abroad on their taxes paid to foreign governments, but postponed action until today to obtain more information on what effect this would have on American export trade. Commerce Department officials have been asked for the data.

Final Draft Next Week.

"It was the unanimous opinion of the committee not to do anything to injuriously affect the export business of the United States," Crisp explained.

Only details remained to be worked out on the manufactures tax which is expected to yield about $600,000,000 on a 2 per cent basis, excluding foodstuffs and other necessities. Representative Rainey, of Illinois, chairman of the subgroup, said, however, it probably would require two more sessions for the completion of the draft.

In forming a bill to raise $1,250,000,000 to meet the prospective 1933 Treasury deficit, the committee already has agreed on increased individual and corporate income and inheritance taxes and the levying of a gift tax.

It is expected the final draft will be approved next week.

GOV. WILLIAM H. MURRAY.

PUT Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma on a horse, buckle a six-shooter around his waist, and you have the perfect type of Wild West sheriff. What else is needed to complete the picture already is there. He has a long, drooping moustache, a pair of keen eyes, a hawk-like nose and a magnificent nerve.

Nor does the comparison have to end on appearance. Like the old-time sheriff, "Alfalfa Bill" seems always to be in the thick of excitement. If he is not engaged in an oil war between Oklahoma and Texas, he is making a speech before the Anti-saloon League and precipitating cries of "treason!"

Right now he is in the thick of the battle for the Presidency. He is no Garner or Smith, waiting for the prize to seek him. He is out seeking it, filing his candidacy wherever he sees a chance to pick up a delegate and, with audacious egotism, telling the voters that he alone is worthy of the prize.

Alfalfa Bill is a strange mixture. At times he is delightfully rustic. There was the time, for example, when he was posing for a news reel cameraman here in Washington. The latter did not like the way in which he was slouched down in his chair.

"Governor, do you mind sitting a little more erect?" the cameraman asked.

"You do the photographing, and I'll do the settin'," Murray drawled.

But there are other times when Murray is anything but rustic, times when he confounds his listeners with his vast erudition. Without a doubt, he is one of the best-read men in public life.

Game Sanctuary Here Is Proposed

Tydings Bill Would Stop Hunting on Potomac Within District.

The Potomac River and its tributaries, located within the District of Columbia, would be set up as a game and bird sanctuary under a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland.

His bill specifically provides no one shall "hunt, pursue or needlessly disturb any wild duck, goose or other water fowl in any of the waters of the District." A penalty of $10 or not more than 30 days' imprisonment would be provided for infractions.

The measure would accomplish its purpose by striking from the existing law exemptions permitting hunting in Anacostia marshes and marshes near the Virginia shore of the Potomac. Provisions of the present law, permitting hunting from row boats, likewise would be stricken.

Admiral Says 176 Ships Run Rum

House Committee Is Told Ring Off U. S. Coast Is Highly Organized.

(Associated Press.)

The Coast Guard estimates that "large, highly organized international combines" are operating 176 liquor-smuggling vessels along United States coasts.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant, so testified before the House appropriations committee in hearings on the Treasury Department supply bill reported yesterday to the House. These vessels, Admiral Billard estimated, are landing the same amount of alcoholic liquors that 163 ships did last year. He added:

"It is perfectly apparent that if we had a sufficient number of Coast Guard craft to keep all the smuggling vessels under constant surveillance, we would have the situation entirely controled. * * * We really would have to have more than ship for ship because we, of course, have to find the liquor vessels and then to keep the vessels under surveillance and our ships would have to be relieved."

Vandal Slashes Tapestry In Grotto of Nativity

Jerusalem, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A beautiful tapestry depicting scenes of the childhood of Christ, which hangs in the grotto of the Nativity at Bethlehem has been slashed with a knife.

SHORT SALES HELD VITAL TO MARKET

Otherwise, Exchange Would Have Been Closed, Whitney Says.

(Associated Press.)

Vigorously defending trading practices of the New York Stock Exchange, Richard Whitney told a House committee yesterday that "short selling is essential to the market and the market is essential to the country."

"If there had been no short selling of securities, I am confident that the stock exchange would have been forced to close many months ago," Mr. Whitney said.

The exchange president appeared before a judiciary subcommittee in opposition to legislation intended to abolish or regulate short selling. For four hours he faced the group, reading a prepared statement and then submitting to extensive examination.

In addition to repeated assertions that "the market could not have been maintained if short selling had been forbidden," Mr. Whitney contended the prohibition of this practice today still would prove "disastrous."

Questions Brought Out.

Questions brought out that Mr. Whitney believes:

"The new exchange ruling (requiring the written consent of customers before stocks may be loaned to short sellers) will not affect materially the availability of stocks for loaning.

"Short selling has not been a cause of declining prices nor a major cause of the depression. There is no organized bear raiding. It is not permitted."

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, read the statement made by President Hoover last week saying there had been negotiations with stock exchange officials relative to limiting short selling. Mr. Whitney was asked whether the President requested the rule adopted by the exchange.

"I do not feel that I can say anything about any conversations with the President without his permission," he replied, and was directed by the committee to seek that permission.

"It was not taken in any way to correct existing evils," he replied to another question on the new ruling. "We did it because of an increased volume of complaints. It makes perfectly clear to customers what their rights are."

Outstanding Achievement.

Mr. Whitney said, "It is an outstanding achievement that our market has stayed open and maintained the liquidity of securities."

"We have avoided the fearful consequences which would have necessarily resulted," he said, "if securities had become unsalable. * * * If that had occurred, the consequences to this country would have been truly disastrous. Enormous amounts of credit were based upon the value of securities. If this huge total of loans had become frozen and, because of the absence of a security market, could not have been reduced, our entire banking system would undoubtedly have been most devastatingly affected."

Mr. Whitney testified the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had been well received, "but did not bring about any enduring change in price levels because its immediate effect on business was problematical." He added:

"It was not until the recent announcement of the plan for increasing the use of Federal Reserve credit that the market responded and the price level showed a substantial advance."

Baby Fraud Claim Made in Will Case

Woman Accused of Using Nameless Infant to Get $30,000.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Somewhere in Buffalo tonight slept a three-month-old baby, who may be Chauncey Guilford Smith, heir to $30,000, or just a homeless foundling, adopted as a ruse to obtain possession of an estate.

Yesterday, Cleveland police placed a technical charge of kidnaping against Mrs. Christina Neiderlter Smith, widow of Dr. Chauncey Pelton Smith, of Buffalo. They accused her of obtaining a foundling from a maternity hospital in the Ohio city and passing it off as her own so that she might not lose a $30,000 share in the estate of her father-in-law, the late T. Guilford Smith, one-time chairman of the board of regents of the University of the State of New York.

Informed that Cleveland authorities had issued a warrant for the return of the baby to that city, Sheriff Charles A. Freiberg, of Erie County, started an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the first appearance of the child in Buffalo, several weeks after it was alleged to have been born to Mrs. Smith while she was visiting her brother, Anthony Niederiter, in Cleveland.

Bank Robbery Thwarted By Bullet-Proof Glass

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Bullet-proof glass thwarted the robbery of the Orland State Bank in suburban Orland Park today.

The robbers entered the bank waving pistols and shouting "Stick 'em up!" But George Gee, the cashier, felt secure behind the glass of his cage and reached for his own weapon. The robbers fired two shots without effect and then ran to their car. Gee did not fire, but witnesses said one of the fugitives seemed wounded, perhaps by his companion's shot.

DARROW MAY ENTER TRIAL AT HONOLULU

Mr. Darrow's connection, but it is believed certain the defense will ask for a delay in order to permit Mr. Darrow to familiarize himself with the case.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer, and Dudley Field Malone, of this city, have been invited to defend Mrs. Granville Fortescue and the three other defendants in their forthcoming murder trial at Honolulu, the Associated Press learned upon high authority tonight.

Neither lawyer could be reached, but it was said both have taken the invitation under advisement. Their acceptance will depend largely on whether their other legal engagements will permit them to go to Honolulu.

2 Killed in Gun Fight; Deputy Shot 3 Times

Roswell, N. Mex., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Two men were killed and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Clifton, of Lea County, was critically wounded today in a gun fight fifteen miles north of Tatum, near the Texas-New Mexico line. Clifton, shot three times, was taken by airplane to a hospital at Lubbock, Tex.

The dead are Walter Carlock, said to be wanted in Oklahoma for bank robbery, and John O'Dell, who police said they believe to be an escaped Oklahoma convict. Clifton said the two men, while seated in an automobile, opened fire on him when he approached their car intending to question them about the robbery of a hardware store at Lovington last night.

PASTOR'S DAUGHTER FOUND DEAD IN FIELD

Philadelphia Police Unable to Account for Death of 22-Year-Old Girl.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Missing for 24 hours, Miss Else Flothmeier, 22-year-old college student and daughter of a minister, was found dead today in a field in the extreme northeast section of the city. Police were unable to determine immediately how she had met death.

Stripped of all clothing except a narrow band of silk across her back, the body was found in a shallow ditch by two boys who were aiding police in a search for the young woman.

Miss Flothmeier disappeared yesterday afternoon soon after she left her father, the Rev. Frederick Flothmeier, pastor of the Tabor Lutheran Church, to take a walk through a small park nearby. The spot where she was found is half a mile away.

Clothing Found Nearby.

Her clothing was found hanging on a bush about 200 yards from the body. The back showed scratches, indicating, police said, that she may have been dragged over the frozen ground.

While police at first believed she might have been attacked and slain, they later advanced a theory that she might have died from exposure. They said there was no outward indication that she had committed suicide.

Police said their theory she was attacked and slain was strengthened by information given by Mrs. Helen Soltes, whose home is about 200 yards from where the body was found.

Woman Hears Screams.

"About 7 o'clock last night," she said, "I distinctly heard a woman's scream, and then another sound that might have been a man's voice. It seemed to come from the direction of the field, but it was so dark I decided not to investigate." Other members of the family said they also had heard the noises.

Before the body was found Mr. Flothmeier said he feared his daughter might have suffered a nervous breakdown, and wished to go somewhere alone.

"She had done poorly in her examinations in a Philadelphia College early this month, and she worried about it," he said. "Two weeks ago we took her to visit friends at Maplewood, N. J. She returned a week ago, apparently in better spirits. "She was in good spirits yesterday."

Economic Acts Advance Hoover, Moses Asserts

Concord, N. H., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—United States Senator George H. Moses (Republican), today issued a statement in which he visualized President Hoover's prospects of reelection as "infinitely stronger" because of his economic program.

"The President has faced a Congress, one branch of which was and is organized by his political opponents, the Democratic party," said Senator Moses. "In the other branch, he has faced a membership which has been personally hostile to him. Yet in spite of these difficulties the President's program of domestic legislation has been quickly enacted into law. In my opinion this action is merely a reflection of public opinion throughout the country."

Deserted Wife Aids Man Accused of Old Murder

Bakersville, N. C., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Enfeebled with age and knowing her husband had remarried since he left her 29 years ago, Mrs. Susie Presnell today embraced him and pledged her loyalty when he goes on trial for the killing in 1903 of Lewis Buchanan.

George Presnell had been sought for 29 years for the slaying of Buchanan after, witnesses said, the latter was disrespectful to Mrs. Presnell. The missing man was arrested February 11 in Columbia, Mo., and was returned here last night.

TREATY-LIMIT NAVY URGED ON SENATE

lished by the Washington and London treaties," the committee's report, submitted by Chairman Hale, said.

"It is believed that enactment of the bill into law will have a stabilizing effect on world affairs; it will signify that the United States intends to build up its Navy if other nations build up theirs; it will put us in a better bargaining position in negotiations seeking further disarmament and our influence to bring about further disarmament rather than being lessened by lack of a building program will be enhanced."

The report said testimony before the committee showed the Navy "will in the near future be entirely inadequate properly to protect our country, our foreign trade, our foreign possessions, and our citizens at home and abroad."

Japan, the committee said, has approved and appropriated for a building program which by 1936, will bring its navy up to full treaty strength except for one aircraft carrier and six destroyers.

"To maintain the ratio allowed us with Japan by existing treaties," the report said, "it will be necessary for the United States to build 112 vessels."

The committee added that without further building the United States in 1936 will have only 68 ships to Japan's 156.

"The testimony shows nothing to lead the committee to believe that the other naval powers of the world intend to curtail their building programs in the slightest degree," the committee said. "Practical necessity demands that the United States take full advantage of the privileges accorded by the London Treaty."

BOLIVIA MAY REJECT PROPOSAL ON CHACO

Delegates Ready to Attack Paraguay's Plan Before U. S. Court Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

Bolivian delegates to Chaco non-aggression pact discussions are scheduled to reject flatly today the Paraguayan counterproposal. Point by point the Bolivians will attack the Paraguayan proposal, submitting maps and documentary evidence in support of their contentions.

Two months ago Bolivia proposed a one-year truce, with provision for a neutral commission to investigate its possible violation and fix responsibility and damages in case of fighting.

Paraguay, five weeks later, by way of rejecting the Bolivian proposal, suggested a pact which would cause Bolivia to withdraw from most of the Chaco in accordance with Paraguay's interpretation of the status quo of 1907. The Paraguayans proposed that the United States Supreme Court settle differences arising from the execution or interpretation of their pact.

Both countries have undergone internal political difficulties since the discussions here began. Foreign Minister Zubicarreta, of Paraguay, has resigned since they were initiated, and this week the Bolivian cabinet resigned. The negotiations also were threatened once by the resignation of Dr. Cesar Vasconsellos, of Paraguay. He was persuaded to withdraw his resignation, however.

Another Killing in Home Mystifies Mexican Police

Mexico City, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Detectives who were busy trying to solve the mystery of the slaying of Senorita Jacinta Aznar, wealthy eccentric, whose body was found in her home here yesterday, had an added task today.

The body of Estebal Ballesteros, Mexico City attorney, was found in his home today. He apparently was slain a week ago. Newspapers which had collected at he doorway of Senorita Aznar's home indicated she died a month ago. She was believed to have been well known in Washington and New York. Her home had been ransacked from top to bottom when the body was found.

Moncada Asked to World Fair.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 24 (A.P.). Commander J. M. Creighton, of the United States Navy, today extended an invitation to President Jose Maria Moncada to attend the 1933 Chicago world fair. Commander Creighton is on a flying trip through Central American republics, as well as Colombia, Venezuela, Santo Domingo, Haiti and Cuba, extending similar invitations to the heads of these governments.

$100,000,000 Treasury Bills Sale Is Scheduled

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills announced last night the Treasury will sell on Monday $100,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills.

The bills will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidder. They will be dated March 2 and mature on June 1, when they will be paid off at their face value. The money received from the sale of the bills will be used to retire $100,000,000 in bills which become due on March 2.

JAPANESE REDOUBLE EFFORT FOR VICTORY

town five miles due west of Kiangwan. There was no confirmation of this advance. Tazang already was virtually destroyed by Japanese bombers, although strong Chinese entrenchments were still there.

Big Guns Moved Forward.

The Japanese laid details for the attack with the break of day. Numerous big guns were moved forward and twelve whippet tanks took up positions. As the atmosphere of the always thick morning time cleared sufficiently to give the artillery visibility, the guns roared and the tanks plowed forward with their guns spitting lead.

Soon a squadron of ten airplanes appeared overhead, to be increased later into a sky-darkening armada.

That the Japanese were making a strong effort to break the Kiangwan deadlock was apparent when they moved up their supply stations close behind the former positions of their forces in anticipation of the advance.

100 Bodies Are Cremated.

The bodies of more than 100 Japanese killed in action during the last few days have been cremated, Japanese headquarters announced this morning.

The Chinese today warned foreign shipping away from the Japanese military base on the Whangpoo—a step that was taken as notification that they were determined to stop with guns the Japanese effort to land two divisions of army reinforcements.

All foreign consuls were asked by the Chinese authorities to get their nationals out of all sections of Shanghai close to Hongkew strongholds without delay.

The Chinese triumphantly issued a communique asserting that during yesterday's action they took a number of prisoners and one of them was a battalion commander.

Japanese military headquarters said their casualties during the last three days totaled 500, but officials declined to say how many of the 500 had been killed. This three-day period covered the series of desperate frontal and flanking attacks made by the Japanese in an effort to dislodge the Chinese defenders of Kiangwan.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, the youthful and poetic military man in command of the nineteenth Chinese route army, said that in the last four days his losses had been 1,700 killed and wounded.

Since the outbreak of the Shanghai hostilities January 28, the general asserted the army has suffered 2,200 killed and wounded and in the same period Chinese civilian casualties have totaled 5,550.

WHEAT FOR NEEDY VOTED IN SENATE

5,000,000 Bushels of Farm Board Grain to Be Given Hungry in Northwest.

(Assolcated Press.)

Wheat for the hungry in Northwest farm regions was voted yesterday by the Senate, while congressional committees approved two other bills to provide jobs for the unemployed and direct Federal relief for the destitute.

Without a record vote the Senate approved a bill to distribute 5,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat through the Red Cross to destitute farmers in the drought and grasshopper stricken States of the Northwest for their families and live stock.

Meanwhile the Senate again was confronted with the issue of direct Federal relief for the unemployed. Its manufactures committee approved a $750,000,000 substitute for the defeated La Follette-Costigan bill.

At the other end of the Capitol, the House roads committee voted to report a bill to make $120,000,000 immediately available for road construction to give work for the jobless.

The wheat bill was called up in the Senate by Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, who sponsored it with Senator Bulow (Democrat), South Dakota, shortly after it had been approved by the Senate agricultural committee.

It went through without debate and now goes to the House.

As approved by the Senate manufactures committee, the $750,000,000 relief bill would provide $375,000,000 for road construction and a like amount for advances to the States to aid their destitute.

It was offered by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, as a compromise between the La Follette-Costigan bill and the Democratic substitute, both of which were beaten last week in the Senate.

Wagner's bill would provide for direct grants of the relief funds to the States, as the original bill did, but the Federal Government would make up for the financial drain by deducting from Federal aid highway appropriations for several years beginning in 1937.

The La Follette-Costigan bill proposed direct gifts to the States and the Democratic substitute provided for loans to the States.

A majority of the Senate members voted for one or both of these bills, and friends of the Wagner measure hope to unite them in support of it.

The road appropriations authorized in the bill would not need to be matched by the States, as are the usual Federal aid highway funds.

The bill approved by the House roads committee, in addition to providing $120,000,000 additional for Federal aid highway construction, would appropriate $7,000,000 for roads and trails in national parks and forests.

A similar measure is pending in the Senate as an amendment to the agriculaural appropriation bill.

The agriculaural committee acted on the wheat resolution after Norbeck testified that 10,000 families in the Central Northwest area were being cared for by the Red Cross and thousands of cattle were starving.

Don't Be Alarmed, Baby's Just Firing His New Gun

By JOHN J. DALY

THAT firing over in the sand pile is just the baby playing with a Colt .45. This year the complete play pen is adorned with automatics and sawed-off shotguns.

Out on Long Branch, N. J., a young hopeful, 9 years old, playing with his father's revolver, held up a passer-by.

"Stick 'em up," the boy commanded, in the best parlance of the gang, and pointed the pistol at the man's head.

"A nice gun," the victim responded, "I'll give you a quarter for it."

"Okay," the boy said, lapsing into the vernacular, got the money and relinquished the weapon.

* * * * *

IT WAS a narrow escape, but not quite so narrow as that effected by the old Army sergeant sitting on a bench near the parade ground at Fort Funston, out San Francisco way.

Two boys, with their trusy weapons, real rifles, went out for target practice. They spied the seregant.

"There," said the first marksman, "is a soldier——"

"You musn't point," corrected the second boy.

"Let's shoot at him, instead," said the first boy, inspiration coming over him.

"If he's a good soldier, he's used to being shot at," the confederate opined.

"Well, he's a good target, anyway, the other reflected. So they opened fire on the old warrior, dozing in the glorious sunshine of California, probably dreaming of warfare in the Orient.

* * * * *

AS the army ambulance carried the wounded veteran to Shutin Bay, he quietly hummed the old song:

"Just break the news to mother,
And say 'There is no other,'
But tell her not to wait for me,
For I'm not coming home—"

He will, of course, go home on an extended leave of absence, for the wounds are only superficial. He was not in battle at all, though he must have thought that the enemy was upon him.

Poor man! It was only Young America at play.

Under the new social order, the kindergartens will soon become shooting galleries, the public playgrounds turned into target ranges—for the best shots in the universe, the babes in arms.

Hands across the sea?
Hands up!

Dr. Hrdlicka Says Indians Came From Kadiak Island

Recent Discoveries Tend to Link Prehistoric Man There With Incas, Mayans and Aztecs, He Says in Lecture at Museum.

Kadiak Island probably holds the key to the peopling of the North American Continent, discoveries there in the last few years definitely linking the prehistoric man of Kadiak with the Incas, Mayans and Aztecs, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology of the National Museum, said last night in a lecture in the Museum Auditorium.

Since Columbus landed, he said, attempts have been made to trace the story and history of the American people. Even during early times it was recognized that the American Indian was more nearly kin to the Asiatics than to the peoples of any other spot.

"The best scientific opinion recognizes that they are a single race and can not be placed with any other except those parts of Asia nearest Alaska," he declared.

Came in Small Groups.

Pointing out that the distance by water between the nearest points in northeastern Asia and Alaska was only 48 miles, Dr. Hrdlicka said that the best scientific opinion had discarded the theory that the first aborigines came to North America in mass immigration by way of any land route. There are many indications that these people came in small groups by way of sealskin boats which they knew how to use expertly. Even in the present day, he said, natives go by small boat on trips to the Asiatic Continent.

The people who migrated to America, Dr. Hrdlicka said, were undoubtedly of the Neolithic age, and the Indian race is comparatively young, its origin dating probably not more than 8,000 or 10,000 years back.

Until comparatively recently scientists had lost hope of ever making valuable discoveries of the early civilization in Alaska because they found that in the interior of Alaska thousands of miles of new land had been built within the last 2,000 years, destroying evidences of the early inhabitants.

Discoveries on Island.

Then the discoveries on Kadiak Island were made, and only last year at least fourteen sites of early settling places were discovered there at the base of rocky points. One of these, the largest ever found in North America, is 40 acres in extent.

Expeditions of the Smithsonian Institution maintained in Alaska have discovered skeletons in burial places there which check with the manner of burial by the Pueblo Indians and those of Central America, he said.

Dr. Hrdlicka showed pictures of slate burial pens which conformed with those found in widely separated parts of the American continent, and samples of carving which were similar to those found in Aztec and Inca ruins.

"These people partly forgot and partly dropped what they brought to the new continent with them through environment," Dr. Hrdlicka said. "But he kept the heart and substances of his civilization and built the Mayan, Inca and Aztec civilization," Dr. Hrdlicka said.

Hoover Gift Aids Coal Field Relief

President Gives $2,500 to Assist in Friends Charity Program.

Philadelphia, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today by the American Friends Service Committee that President Hoover had contributed $2,500 for the use of the committee's coal relief section in feeding children of the bituminous coal regions of some of the States.

It was also announced through Bernard G. Waring, head of the coal relief section, that approximately 25,000 children are being nourished in 31 counties in West Virginia, Kentucky, southwest Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Illinois and Maryland.

It was recalled that Mrs. Hoover last Christmas gave a party at the White House for the Hoover grandchildren, Peggy and Herbert, jr., to which 50 children brought gifts that were sent to children in the coal regions.

Mrs. Nicholson Warns Democrats in 1932 Race

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.). Mrs. Jesse W. She mentioned the names of Alfred E. Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Albert C. Ritchie, James Hamilton Lewis and Newton D. Baker.

"Unless a new leadership arises, the Democratic party is doomed," she warned: "The women of America," she added, "here and now issue a warning to political party leaders that women will not surrender to nullificationists."

CREDIT RELIEF BILL IS PUSHED TO FINAL STAGES IN HOUSES

eligible paper in several important banking centers.

Only 62 of the 7,600 member banks of the Federal Reserve would be excluded from the special rediscounting privilege under the $5,000,000 capitalization limitation. These banks by combining in a group could obtain the privilege.

Meanwhile, Senate and House managers of the Jones bill, creating a $10,000,000 revolving fund for loans to agricultural credit corporations, reached an agreement which the House will be asked today to approve.

The Secretary of Agriculture would make the loans up to 75 per cent of the capital stock of the corporations.

Relief Provided for Banks.

Senator Glass, who guided the legislation through the Senate and the conference, said last night the bill "should have the effect of assuring the 7,600 member banks of the Federal Reserve System that they may proceed to use their great volume of eligible and acceptable assets by rediscounting at the Federal Reserve banks without fear of embarrassment, inasmuch as they will be at liberty, should they exhaust their eligible assets, to use other assets not eligible under existing law."

He added:

"This should impart a large measure of confidence throughout the banking community of the Nation, and induce member banks of the Federal Reserve System to stimulate the commercial and industrial activities of the country by making loans of a suitable nature when and where required.

"Enactment of the law should mean a large measure fo expansion based on the eligible assets of the member banks and such other degree of expansion as may seem desirable based on the ordinarily ineligible assets of the banks. Altogether it should mean freedom for business of all kinds without the dangers of unbridled inflation."

Other Measure in Line.

He also gave notice that full attention now would be directed to his other measure "designed to avert, as far as the facilities of the Federal Reserve system are concerned, a repetition of such a financial debacle, with its consequent depression as the country is now suffering from."

"There are certain interests," he said, "which do not want any restraints whatsoever put on their speculative activities. These interests will fight desperately against any legislation, however sound and reasonably, that may have the effect of restraining the vicious tendencies which are so directly responsible for this disturbing era; but some of us think it is vastly more important to do something to avert a recurrence of this financial cataclysm than to extend temporary relief to the suffering victims of it."

Preparing for the drive by President Hoover's antihoarding committee to draw hoarded money out of hiding places with small denomination Government securities, the Treasury yesterday mailed instructions to banks on how to become Government depositories.

The committee planned to leave all the money raised from the sale of the Treasury certificates in the banks to avoid depleting bank deposits by the campaign.

WOMEN DEMOCRATS PROTEST 'DICTATION'

Demand for Party Primary to Select Convention Delegates Made.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Protesting against the past "dictation" by Democratic leaders in the District, Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, president of the Women's Democratic educational council of the District, yesterday fired another broadside at the local bosses and demanded a party primary to select delegates to the national Democratic convention.

Not only should such a primary be held, but the votes should be counted "under conditions that will make certain that the will of the primary is disclosed," Mrs. Smith said in her statement in the course of which she protested that John F. Costello, national committeeman, had gone too far in declaring in favor of the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York.

Jouett Shouse, executive secretary of the national Democratic committee, it was said, had promised the council that its protest against the conduct of local party affairs would be given "consideration" and "stated that this is the first time the matter had been called to the attention of the national committee."

"Dictation" Is Protested.

"Not only has the national committeeman, John F. Costello, pledged himself to the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination for President, but he has indicated the purpose to dictate that the delegation to the national Democratic convention to be elected at the District of Columbia primary shall be pledged to Gov. Roosevelt," the president of the council said.

"The Women's Democratic Educational Council in protesting to the Democratic national committee against dictation to the District of Columbia primary, has no candidate of its own. Nor is it unfriendly to the possibility of the selection of Gov. Roosevelt as the national Democratic standard bearer. This woman's organization is nonpartisan in respect to the issue involved in the primary election.

Objection to Slate Method.

"It stands for the rights of the qualified voters in the District of Columbia to frame their own declaration of principles, and, if a pledged delegation is sent to Chicago, to select their own candidates. It objects to the selection of a slate by the central committee as expressing the will of the primary regardless of the primary vote.

"It would defend the primary against the possibility of manipulation of the ballots by a secret disposal of the ballot boxes. It would demand that a ballot box be set up in every one of the 22 districts into which the District of Columbia is at present divided for the purpose of the Democratic primary; and that the count of votes shall be conducted under conditions that will make certain that the will of the primary is recorded."

The council, in its letter to National Chairman John J. Raskob, protested for at least the last ten years the method of selecting the Democratic national committeemen and committeewomen in the District has been "undemocratic, unsatisfactory and unfair."

ROOSEVELT OUSTS NEW YORK SHERIFF

Finds Charges Made by Seabury About Funds Not Refuted.

Albany, Feb. 24 (A.P.). — Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt ousted Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, of New York, today, holding, in a sweeping statement on the stewardship of public office, that the Tammany Hall leader had failed to explain satisfactorily bank deposits in excess of $350,000.

The governor, who is a candidate for the Presidency, removed Farley, kingpin in the organization controlling almost half of New York's Democratic convention delegation, on the basis of one of several charges brought by Samuel Seabury.

The accusations of Seabury, an independent Democrat, arose from Farley's testimony before the legislative committee investigating the municipal government of New York City. Seabury is counsel to the committee.

Governor States Reasons.

In a broad pronouncement Roosevelt said it is "in the true spirit of a public trust" for officeholders to give freely, when personally called upon, public proof of the nature, source and extent of their financial affairs.

"I am not satisfied with the explanation of the sources of a large portion of the sheriff's income," the governor said, "and I hold that Sheriff Farley has not complied with the spirit or the letter of the rule which should guide public officials."

Seabury branded Farley a grafter and last week presented evidence at a hearing before Gov. Roosevelt to show that the sheriff in five years had deposited $352,500 in various banks.

Last fall Farley, as a legislative committee witness, told of keeping his savings in a "wonderful tin box," which, he said, was the source of his bank deposits. Farley is the first Tammany official removed by Roosevelt, although he was asked to oust Mayor Walker and District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain.

Other Charges Disregarded.

The governor based his decision on the bank deposits alone, discarding for various reasons Seabury's allegations that Farley permitted wholesale gambling in a political club he sponsored, that he committed perjury before the investigators, that he refused to testify at secret hearings and that he named inefficient subordinates.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—A Tammany Hall so desirous of maintaining a strategic position at the Democratic national convention that it would not break with Gov. Roosevelt over his removal of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley was reflected today in the reaction of political commentators to the governor's decision.

Members of the organization of which Farley is a leader expect to control a large percentage of the State delegation's vote at the convention. By following an announced policy of not committing that support to any candidate before June, they hope to hold a balance of power which will help elect or defeat any of the outstanding candidates.

U. S. Loses Claim To $25,000,000 Land

Elk Hills Dome Section in California Is Held by Private Owners.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 24 (A.P.). Through a decision announced at the United States Land Office here today the Federal Government lost its claim to title and mineral rights to oil lands valued at $25,000,000 in the Elk Hills Dome section of Kern County, Calif.

The area involved is formerly school land, parcels of which were sold in 1909 by the State to various purchasers. The decision held that the land was not known to be mineral in character on January 26, 1903, and, therefore, the State of California had acquired title which was transmitted to the purchasers, defendants in the action. The United States Government was held to have no rights in the property.

The Federal Government started the action in 1929 against the Standard Oil Co. of California and others who purchased parts of the land from the State, including E. L. Doheny, the Associated Oil Co., Valley Natural Gas Co., Pan-American Petroleum Co., and others.

Syracuse Alumni Hear Tributes to Washington

Dr. William H. Mace, professor of history, eulogized George Washington as a man of high character and exceptional ability as a military strategist last night at a meeting of the Syracuse University graduates at the Carlo Hotel.

Other speakers of the evening included Dean Harry S. Ganders, of the Syracuse Teachers College; Dr. William T. Melchior, professor of education, and Dr. W. D. Lewis, editor in chief of the John C. Winston Co.

GARNER'S NAME KEPT OUT OF GEORGIA PRIMARY VOTING

nounced himself as a candidate and it is true that he has made no move to help along the boom that has been started for him. However, it also is true that he has done nothing to discourage that boom. Like Al Smith, Garner is leaving things to his friends.

He may not file as a candidate in States where the voters express their preference at the polls, and where the consent of an aspirant is necessary, but he is not expected to halt the campaign that has been started for him in his own State of Texas and in other nonconsent States.

According to an Associated Press dispatch the Garner-for-President Club in San Francisco is preparing to put a Garner slate of delegates in the primary there May 3. Roosevelt and Smith slates also will be entered.

Roosevelt's Opportunity.

Garner's action in calling off the proxy campaign in Georgia clears that particular field for Roosevelt, Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray, of Oklahoma, having filed too late to get into the race. Consequently Roosevelt can regard the State's 28 delegate votes as nailed down.

The Georgia primary takes place March 23. Two other primary elections come before it, one in New Hampshire on March 8, and the other in North Dakota on March 15.

In New Hampshire, Roosevelt will be opposed by Alfred E. Smith, and in North Dakota by Gov. Murray.

If the New York governor should make a good showing in both New Hampshire and North Dakota, it is believed that he will have gone a long way to smash the "stop-Roosevelt" movement.

Gov. Roosevelt's action yesterday in removing from office Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, a Tammany Hall leader, for being unable to explain how he accumulated nearly $400,000 on a $15,000 a year salary, occasioned but little comment in Washington.

Farley's Fate Expected.

That Farley would be ousted was generally expected. The wonder was that he was not let out long before this.

Outside of New York, no doubt, Roosevelt will be hailed as another Grover Cleveland, a man who had the courage to defy Tammany. In the hinterland this is always good vote-getting talk.

What effect it will have on Tammany is debatable. The leaders of that powerful political organization certainly were not surprised that Farley was kicked out, and the belief here is that they will not necessarily hold the ouster against Roosevelt.

How Tammany Divides.

Right now it is difficult to predict which way Tammany will jump at the Chicago convention. Some of the Tammany men are friendly to Roosevelt, some are determined to side with Smith, and a third group is awaiting orders from Mayor Jimmy Walker, who is not particularly fond of either Roosevelt or Smith. With this situation existing, there is strong sentiment for an unpledged Tammany delegation.

President Hoover yesterday was assured by Lieut. Gov. Hazlebaker, of Montana; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, of Massachusetts, and Robert Taft, of Ohio, that there will be no fight against his nomination in the States from which they come.

Senator George Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, stated at Concord yesterday that President Hoover's chances for reelection are "infinitely stronger" as a result of his economic rehabilitation program.

Howard's Manager Stands Pat.

Atlanta, Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Virtual disregard of requests from friends of John N. Garner in Washington that Judge G. H. Howard, of Atlanta, withdraw his entry from the Georgia presidential preference primary of March 23 was indicated tonight by Howard's campaign manager, L. Thomas (Pat) Gillen.

Gillen revealed he had replied to a telegram from Representative Sam Rayburn, Texas, requesting the withdrawal with the assertion that Garner's friends in Washington were misinformed concerning the Georgia situation in which Howard filed for the primary in his own name, but announced he would subsequently support Garner at the primery.

In a telegraphed reply Gillen said: "Due to the rule adopted by the State executive committee, adopted in Georgia governing the presidential primary, Mr. Garner's supporters were given no opportunity to express their choice for him unless he requested the committee, in writing, to enter his name as an active candidate.

"He has always declined to become a candidate. Therefore, we entered Judge Howard's name, not as a proxy and in no sense as his representative, as you seem to infer, but on the contrary Judge Howard made it plain to the voters of Georgia in his public announcement that he voluntarily entered his name so the Democrats of the State would have a chance, in this manner, to express their sentiment for Garner."

Al Smith for President Club Is Organized Here

"Al Smith for President" is the motto of a newly organized club of Washingtonians who are starting a new local movement to put the former Governor of New York in the White House.

A meeting of the organization will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Arlington Hotel. Members of the original club, who sponsored the movement in 1928, are among those behind the present campaign.

ARMS GROUP STARTS SURVEY IN HARMONY

Draft Convention Is Taken as Basis for Discussions in Developing Pact.

Geneva, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The world disarmament conference entered upon the second and practical stage of its labors today with a display of cordial harmony which inspired some observers with hope and others with skepticism.

Germany joined France, Great Britain, the United States and other great powers in accepting the draft convention of the preliminary disarmament commission as a "general framework" of the discussion to which the separate delegations may offer their own proposals in the form of "modifications, additions or omissions."

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign commissar, also spoke favorably for this scheme of procedure, but asked that the conference first pronounce upon a Soviet project for general and total disarmament. The Soviet proposal will be presented by Mr. Litvinoff tomorrow morning. If rejected—as expected—the conference then will act upon the proposal of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, for making the draft convention the basis of the conference's work.

(The draft convention, the outline of a general disarmament treaty drawn up in 1930, has generally been regarded as providing largely for the stabilization of present armament.)

Some surprise was expressed when Count Apponyi, the Hungarian spokesman, gave his country's cordial assent to the Simon resolution. Later it was learned that Count Apponyi probably would be made president of the extraordinary session of the league assembly called to consider the dispute between China and Japan on March 3.

"Big Bill" Thompson En Route to Capital

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, left for Washington today. Although he said he was going on a private mission, Thompson discussed national politics long enough to say he considered Calvin Coolidge one of the three greatest American Presidents, and "the one man who could pull us out of this depression."

He might "see a few people" about inland waterways, his fatvorite project, Thompson said, but he "knew better than to go to the administration" for anything, because "this administration is not interested in the people."

Capital Man Is Accused Of Taking Idles' Clothes

Pittsburgh, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—S. Robert Foltz, jr., of Washington, is in jail today charged with taking clothing from jobless men seeking work. Arrested in a downtown hotel, Foltz represented himself as an agent from a film concern whose duties took him to various cities. He said he needed an automobile to go to Baltimore.

When Foltz hired men, he told them to bring their clothing and automobile to his hotel, Detective William Sullivan said. Then, before the projected trip to Baltimore started, Foltz took the clothing and left.

Tokyo, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The volcano Asama, near Karuizawa, northwest of Tokyo, went into violent eruption this morning for the third time this month, scattering ashes and stones over a wide area, setting fire to nearby forests and damaging a few houses in the nearby villages.

REICHSTAG STRIFE RAGES SECOND DAY

German Ruling Body Twice Again Suspended as Nazis and Foes Clash.

Berlin, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The Reichstag was suspended twice today to quench the fires of partisanship that raged between the stormy Nazis of Adolph Hitler on one side and various bellicose foes on the other.

The last suspension today was the third since the Reichstag convened yesterday. All of them were inspired by presidential rivalry between followers of aged President von Hindenburg and the younger Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazis or Fascists.

The first outburst today came when Deputy August Weber, of the recently formed State party, charged that the Nazis "had led the way to political murders."

The Nazis yelled "blackguard!" and other epithets as they made a rush for Weber. Speaker Paul Loebe rapped out a half hour's suspension before violence was done.

The second flareup was the outgrowth of an altercation between the Nazi deputy, Alfred Rosenberg, and a group of Communists, who continued to heckle him during an address. The speaker again suspended the session, this time until tomorrow.

Four Nazi deputies were excluded in the course of the two uproarious incidents.

Several parties were represented in a defense today for Von Hindenburg against yesterday's attack on him by Hitler's chief lieutenant, Joseph Goebbels.

All the uproar in the Reichstag, which was meeting for the first time in four months, was ostensibly for the purpose of discussing a government suggestion of March 13 as a date for the presidential elections.

AGGRESSION CHECKMATED.

The letter from the Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, addressed to Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations, may be regarded as a communication to all nations, setting forth the policy and intentions of the United States with reference to treaties designed to preserve peace in the Far East and throughout the world.

This document outlines an entirely new and vitally important advance in international relations. It proposes that the nations bound by treaties such as the nine-power pact and the Kellogg pact shall unite in holding null and void any situation, treaty, or agreement entered into in violation of those fundamental treaties.

The United States on January 7 last notified China and Japan that it would not recognize any situation, treaty, or agreement in violation of the treaties which affected the rights of the United States or its citizens in China. Mr. Stimson now makes this significant statement:

If a similar decision should be reached and a similar position taken by the other governments of the world, a caveat will be placed upon such action which, we believe, will effectively bar the legality hereafter of any title or right sought to be obtained by pressure or treaty violation, and which, as has been shown by history in the past, will eventually lead to the restoration to China of rights and titles of which she may have been deprived.

It does not appear that other governments have given a similar notification to China and Japan. They not only have the right to do so, but it is their duty to do so in order to preserve their treaty rights.

Mr. Stimson's letter opens a way whereby the nations can mass the world's opinion against a violator of treaties, with such force and effect as to make his efforts null and void; and this without applying coercive measures such as an economic boycott, which leads to war.

The position taken by the United States, which other nations are invited to take, is essentially a procedure whereby the most potent force at the disposal of mankind—its united opinion—can be made effective peaceably and without delay, to preserve world peace. Instead of resorting to war to stop war, the United States invokes world opinion against any violator of fundamental peace treaties, and it suggests a sanction which will call any would-be treaty violator to a halt—namely, the penalty of finding all his plans of violation invalid and worthless.

There would be no aggression by one nation against another if all advantages, titles, rights, and agreements gained by aggression were made null and void by the refusal of all nations to recognize their legality. The question, How are you to identify the aggressor? is answered by the method outlined by the Secretary of State. The aggressor is he who, after being warned that no situation, treaty, or agreement resulting from violation of fundamental peace treaties shall be recognized, persists in the attempt by pressure or force to change the situation to his own advantage instead of proposing desired changes in the treaties themselves.

The united opinion of the world must be massed behind this plan if it is to be effective. But, since the world desires peace and not war, why should it not mass its opinion behind a peaceful plan which will preserve peace by making it impossible for an aggressor to gain by aggression?

POLITICS AND BUREAUCRACY.

Plans for reorganization of the executive departments have been flouted by the House of Representatives. Instead of authorizing the President to make a comprehensive adjustment of Federal agencies in the interests of economy and efficiency the House has made a gesture that will result either in crippling some useful agencies or in complete failure.

President Hoover asked Congress to set up guideposts and allow him to carry out an extensive plan of coordination within the executive departments and independent commissions. His purpose was not only to save money during this critical period, but to correct the hodgepodge system under which many arms of the Government are forced to operate. The necessity for cutting down expenditures provides an excellent opportunity to strike a blow at bureaucracy. But the House leaders insist upon playing politics.

Apparently the House Democrats have no thought of bringing order out of the confusion and duplication of effort now existing in the Government service. They merely seek to reduce governmental expenditures by $100,000,000. To do this a special committee has been appointed and instructed to report its findings to the House on April 15. The committee could not possibly bring forth a suitable arrangement for reorganization of the executive departments within a month and a half. It will be tempted to slash appropriations indiscriminately, to starve a few bureaus without disturbing the foundations of bureaucracy.

Coordination of an agency so large as the Federal Government requires much planning and careful adjustment. It is a joke to suppose that it could be done in 45 days. In undertaking such a project the House leaders utterly ignore the experience of Congress in dealing with this same question for many years.

In the light of Speaker Garner's outburst last Sunday this gesture toward economy takes on the aspects of a political trick. Having no time for constructive rebuilding of the Federal service, the committee will use its influence to destroy whatever agencies seem most vulnerable. Such a procedure will be intolerable to the administration and the emergency measures of the committee will meet with defeat in the Senate or at the White House. Is that not the purpose of the Democrats' maneuver?

This attempt to put the administration on record as opposed to economy may, however, become a boomerang. The country has already had notice that the Democrats expect hereafter to play politics with relief legislation. The action in regard to Federal reorganization is proof that politics, and not economy, is the House objective.

ROOSEVELT VS. TAMMANY.

Gov. Roosevelt has thrown down the gage of battle to Tammany Hall. The dismissal of Sheriff Farley reverberates throughout the wigwam as a challenge to the very system by which Tammany maintains itself. By this action the governor becomes an avowed enemy of Tammany at the very moment when this powerful Democratic institution is wavering in its allegiance to him.

Sheriff Farley is an excellent example of Tammany's leadership. As a district chief for the wigwam he accumulated in his bank deposits $362,500 in five years on a salary that at no time exceeded $15,000. His magic tin box, from which much of this wealth was mysteriously drawn, is a typical phenomenon in Tammany circles. Judge Seabury has exposed enough graft and corruption to arouse even the citizens of New York. Gov. Roosevelt could not condone Tammany's profligacy without injuring his own reputation. He was forced to choose between the enmity of the wigwam and the distrust of his party outside of New York.

The governor's action will be widely applauded. He has courageously struck out against corruption. Yet the influence of Tammany Hall can not be ignored. Sheriff Farely said he would bear no malice toward the governor if he were removed, but that was before Gov. Roosevelt had made his decision. It can not be supposed that Tammany will allow this blow at its power to pass unchallenged.

Al Smith looms up as the beneficiary of the row between the governor and Tammany. A fortnight ago former Gov. Smith announced that he was willing to be drafted for the presidential nomination, but would not actively seek it. Now he has decided to enter the primaries in New England and Pennsylvania. Friends and admirers will carry on an active campaign for him. Al Smith is dear to the heart of Tammany. He always manages to stroke the Tiger's fur the right way. It is logical to suppose that Tammany will swing its strength to him in retaliation against the governor who insists that public servants must be honest in their private as well as in their official conduct.

In spite of the favorable effect Gov. Roosevelt's action will have upon the Democratic party outside of New York it casts a more formidable shadow of Al Smith across the Democratic national convention. Gov. Roosevelt may have a better chance to capture Southern and Western votes after they have been released from favorite sons, but he will be seriously handicapped if Tammany refuses to support him. Here is one more element pointing to the conclusion that the Democratic convention will be a free-for-all.

ARLINGTON'S SHORTAGE.

Regardless of who is responsible for the discrepancy of $225,000 in the accounts of Arlington County, the sudden discovery that the county is "broke" is a serious reflection upon its government. The shortage was not discovered until the county actually had run out of funds and was unable to pay the installment due on its school bonds. Apparently negligence has not been confined to the treasurer's office.

County Manager Roy S. Braden says that his first recommendation on assuming office at the beginning of this year was for an audit of all county offices. The county board took no action. The accounts of Treasurer Ball have been audited only twice in the last four years. The county ordered an audit four years ago, and State auditors went over the treasurer's books during 1930. Such neglect must be considered a direct contribution to the irregularities which now embarrass the county.

Strict periodical auditing is the best guarantee against error and peculation. When county governments are negligent in this respect officials are tempted to convert public funds to their own use. In this case judgment as to individual responsibility for this shortage must be withheld until the State audit has been completed, but no investigation can excuse Arlington County officials for their failure to keep a check upon the public funds.

WASHINGTON AS A TAMMANY SACHEM

From the Kansas City Star.

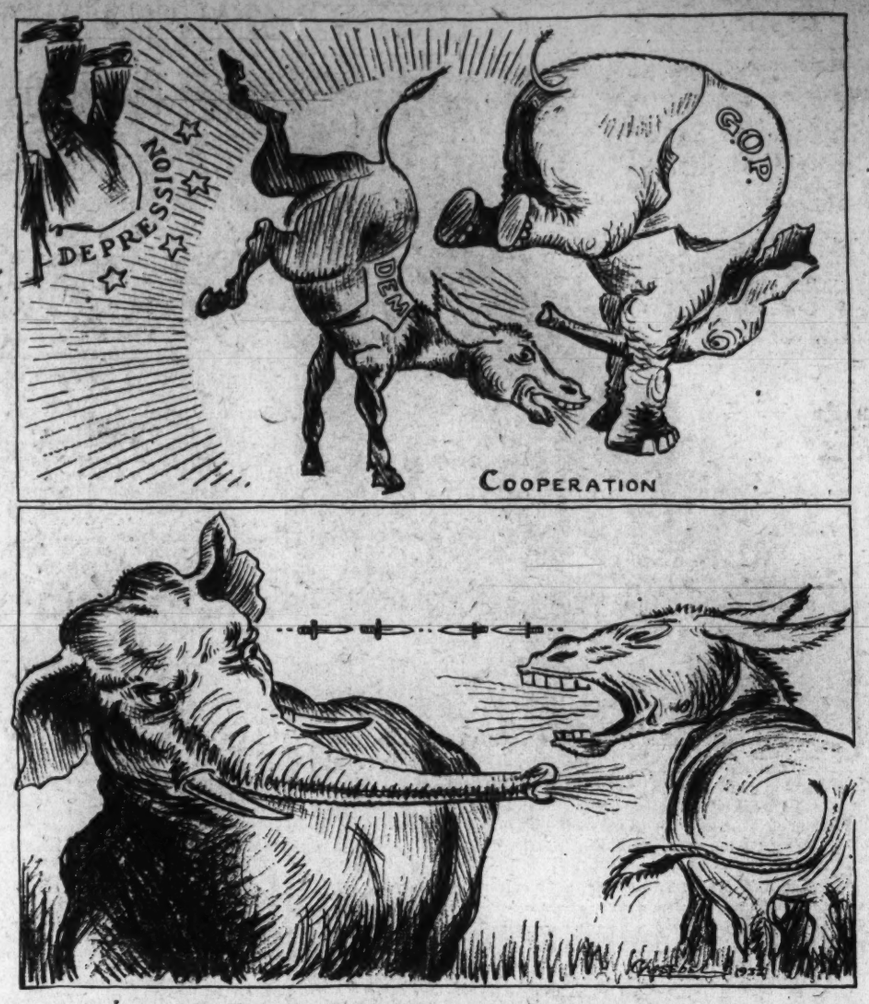
George Washington was the first "great" grand sachem of Tammany Hall, according to an Associated Press item appended to the announcement that the veteran John R. Voorhis, centenarian Tammany leader, who died a few days ago, had been accorded that honor posthumously. So, in succession, were Presidents Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and John Quincy Adams "great" grand sachems in their day. And thereby hangs a tale of forgotten history and origins touching on and appertaining to the foundations of the organization that has had a hand in making and unmaking Presidents since the dawn of our political history.

It is true that the first Society of St. Tammany conferred the honorary office of great grand sachem on the first President, as it did upon several Presidents who succeeded him. But it is also true that Washington took a smash at the organization even in the days when its purposes were not yet definitely political and came very near dismembering it. No doubt Alexander Hamilton lent a hand, as the original society, picturesque, romantic and eleemosynary in its first constitutional principles, soon developed tendencies quite antagonistic to Hamilton's ideals of government and its administration.

The Society of St. Tammany began its existence almost coincidentally with that of the organized Republic. Chartered as a fraternal and charitable institution, it was founded May 12, 1789, just a few weeks later than the establishment of the national Government and the induction of George Washington as its first President. Its promoter, one William Mooney, was a former soldier of the Revolution, who kept a small upholstery shop at 23 Nassau street, New York. It was really a reincarnation of another revolutionary organization, the "Sons of St. Tammany," which, like the "Sons of Liberty," had been formed to keep alive during the war the sometimes slumbering spirit of independence. In addition to its charitable provisions, Mooney's society was designed as a patriotic organization aimed to preserve the rights of individuals and of the States and to safeguard the Republic against monarchical ideas or the centralization of power. The inspiration back of this first Tammany society was a spirit of popular protest, vaguely nucleated, against "class government," a jealous fear among the young republicans of the early days of the Republic.

But despite the fact that the society was organized for patriotic and charitable purposes, as expressed in its original charter, it was inevitable that it would not be long before the New York politicians would find advantages in such a unique and spectacular organization. Though its charter members were drawn from the Hamiltonian as well as the Jeffersonian followers, under the guiding hands of George Clinton and later of Aaron Burr, it gradually assumed strong anti-Federalist tendencies. Even during Washington's term in the Presidency the party divisions had begun to be rather violently marked and before Washington retired to Mount Vernon Tammany had become a powerful center of anti-Federalist sentiment.

The Federalist members gradually dropped out of the society and near the close of Washington's second term his reference in a public document to "self-creative societies whose ultimate tendencies would be hostile to the general tranquillity" brought about a wholesale desertion from its membership.



Short-Lived Cooperation Against Depression.

POST HASTE.

After reading the Japanese statement we are convinced the press reports must be all wrong, and the invading Chinese army should be restrained in its barbarous attack on Tokyo.

The President's recommendations panicked House Democrats into a precipitate move to reform Government organization. If they will just do it, he doubtless will be glad to give them all the credit.

The current Democratic show requires a sphinx, so Speaker Garner steps into the part vacated by Al Smith.

International rumrunners are holding a convention at Halifax, with the admirals of the fleet and the land generals present, exemplifying the modern spirit in organization.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LOOKING ON THE BRIGHT SIDE.

Of life's numerous irritations there are some I can't escape,
There are keys which I must carry 'spite their weight and bulging shape.
Since I own an automobile, in my very best attire
I expect on sad occasions to be forced to change a tire,
But they've made me give up smoking and henceforth to my delight
I shan't need a pocket lighter which refuses to ignite.

I've a fancy pocket pencil which is often out of lead,
And a fountain pen which isn't what the advertisement said.
There are certain common evils which I patiently endure
Such as guessing what the hour is from a watch which isn't sure.
There are countless irritations I must suffer day and night,
But no more I'll lose my temper over lighters that won't light.

On the best of days I fancy must annoyances arise;
There are flaws in every product which the brains of men devise.
There are shoestrings which desert me on the mornings I am late,
And my ever-ready calendar seems always out of date.
My safety razor cuts me, and my soothing lotions bite,
But I'm done with looking foolish over lighters that don't light.

A Born Gentleman Is a Man Descended From a Long Line of Profits

By ROBERT QUILLEN

UNLIKE poets, class-conscious superiors are made and not born.

When people are classified as good and bad, the classifying is done by the good; when they are classified as superior and inferior, the classifying is done by the superior.

"Blood will tell" is a half-truth first spoken by a man vain of his ancestry.

Others of his kind, eager to establish a superiority that otherwise might remain unnoticed, have repeated the saying so often that it now ranks as a proverb.

The theory that the "well-born" are inherently superior is sound enough, but if carried too far it becomes a falsehood and a curse. Young people of exceptional ability, made conscious of their lowly origin, think themselves doomed to inferiority and go through life handicapped by a "complex."

The truth is that those born superior are superior to none but the abnormal and subnormal to whom all normal people are superior.

The superiority of the well-fed and fortunate—and in manners, behavior and intelligence they actually are superior to the unlettered and unwashed—is wholly a matter of opportunity and training.

The illiterate boy in the backwoods, his body undernourished and his mind undeveloped by contact with the world, is as much a born gentleman as the carefully trained son of parents long accustomed to wealth. If the two had exchanged places at birth, each would have the other's faults and virtues today.

That is a hard doctrine for those proud of their blood, but the truth of it is established beyond question.

Environment and training can not give brains and character to half-wits whose ancestry is stupid and vicious for generations, but normal children of normal parents will be what opportunity makes them.

There is no mysterious quality bred in the bones that makes a gentleman a gentleman.

For many years I had faith that blood would tell, but I have seen too many "born gentlemen" turn rascal. Too many are honest because they have no occasion to steal.

As the mongrel dog has the most brains, so the truest gentleman is the one of common stock whose high standards were achieved in spite of adversity.

A Lesson From Washington.

Kansas City Times.

In the darkest days of the Revolution, with his army melting away, Washington wrote his brother a frank letter in which he said if the colonies did not arouse themselves to the needs of the situation, "the game is pretty near up."

That phrase was the expression of a man who faced the facts. But facing the facts, Washington did not waver; his courage never failed. He knew the colonies could win the war if they did what was easily within their power, and he proposed to see that they did it.

The unflinching faith and confidence of the man who won the Revolution have set a magnificent precedent to his successors and to the Nation. Fortunately it has been followed.

At times Americans have lost their nerve. But always they have rallied and come through. They did this under the leadership of Lincoln in '64. They are doing it today under the leadership of Hoover.

Swelling the Record.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Senate this week—quite in the interests of economy, of course—indulged in one grand five-hour talkfest commendatory of the credit expansion bill. Great fonts of oratory were tapped and the released floods of eloquence rushed tumultuously toward that great reservoir of embalmed words, the Congressional Record.

Nobody opposed the bill, but the bankers were decorously spanked and told how they ought to run their business. Should the men of the banks forget their duty, patriotism and individual interests, the Record stands as an imperishable reminder to them and the people that the Senate not only knew its onions, but emphasized that knowledge by fanfare of trumpets and hosannas of enthusiasm—at the expense of the taxpayers.

No More Handshakes.

Los Angeles Times.

Herbert Hoover announces one of his rare changes of attitude. Having suffered his hand to be shaken by 20,000 people within a month and a half, he announces that in future the presidential hands will be otherwise occupied most of the time. The change is necessary as a conservation measure, wholesale handshaking proving too great a physical drain. The presidential constitution, along with that of the United States, must be upheld.

This will puncture a lot of individual vanities. The Nation's Capital attracts thousands of visitors daily, most of whom want to ascend the Washington Monument, sit in Congress and shake the President's hand. It will be something to brag about to the folks back home. So they hunt up their representative in Congress, present a letter of introduction from a worker in the party vineyard back home and demand that they be conducted to the White House to shake the presidential hand.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Same Character Assassins Who Attacked Al Smith Throwing Mud at Hoover.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just what strain is it in the character of the American people that makes them so prone to pull down those in high place? I am referring to the attacks on our President. He is not the first President indeed to be maligned, and so it seems that the national game of throwing mud is still popular in the land of the free.

I voted for Al Smith in 1928 and though my candidate lost, I did not stultify myself by taking my spite out on the victor. Yet consider this—those character assassins who tore at Al Smith like pariah dogs are the ones whom I now hear sneer at and traduce the President.

I will answer my own question, "What strain is it?" It is the gutter strain. It is known to all that scurrilous attacks on the good, the brave, the noble, any worthy person, all emanate from the low and vile.

He or she who does not wish to be classed in this category will not buy defamatory books, will not whisper scurrilous gossip or like the great ape after making the kill, beat themselves on the chest and roar their defiance. This last in reference to the unco guid who since the birth of the Republic have committed their character murders and then claimed the approval of heaven.

The American people can stamp out the gutter strain by destroying the hypocrite, the character assassin. How destroy them? By that much abused word, tolerance, and common sense. NATURALIZED AMERICAN.

Socialism in the Public Schools. Teachers Advocate State Control of Children.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note with a feeling of old-fashioned disapproval that, at the banquet of the National Education Association, Dr. Lucy Wilson, principal of the South Philadelphia High School for Girls, as reported in The Post, spoke in laudatory terms of the socialization of the homes in Russia, under which efforts are made to put a radio in every home, where parents may go to parks of culture and devote their time to their own interests while their children are looked after in schools.

In considering this remarkable statement, coming, as it does, from an American public school teacher, the thought arose: How many educators in this country have a flair for socialization of the home, involving as it does the moral as well as the intellectual guidance of children by the State? Certainly we should be on our guard against the influence of such educators in our educational system. (I do not venture to say that socialization of the home and school may not be best for the Russian masses. But I do feel that the drift of educational technologists toward socialistic methods in this country is to be regretted.

The fact that, as in the case of Dr. Wilson, their attitude is more or less jealous in relation to home influence insofar as it affects the work of the public schools, seems to me to furnish a strong argument against the establishment of a National Department of Education. PARENT.

Comment on Senator Robinson's Protest Against Comparing Detraction of Hoover and Lincoln.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, seems to be disturbed because on Lincoln's Birthday leaders representing the administration "made public addresses and throughout these addresses ran a common declaration that the President was being treated unjustly and appealing to the sympathy of the Nation."

Anyone who has followed the course of events for the last few years and who is at least fair and honest must admit that the President has been "treated unjustly." This is the truth and even Senator Robinson can not deny it.

The Lincoln Day speakers were perfectly within their rights to compare the treatment of Herbert Hoover today with the treatment of Abraham Lincoln during his first term. As far as "unjust treatment" is concerned the two administrations are identical.

He states: "Every day some Republican orator tells the country that Mr. Hoover has saved the United States," while at the same time he knows that Democratic orators are trying to convince the electorate that Mr. Hoover has ruined the country.

The senator is evidently alarmed and sees that the people are beginning to realize what a great President they really have and that they will govern themselves accordingly next November. C. H. C.

Democrat Holds His Party Accountable for Playing Politics With the Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a humble Democrat I wish your editorial on "Mr. Garner's Mistake" would cause Democratic legislators to snap back into a statesmanlike attitude. The public at large is not just now in a state of mind to be diverted by complaints that President Hoover is getting more of his share of credit in the promotion of economic relief measures.

Such bickering suggests the trifling talk of little girls and boys and is not becoming to dignified party leaders. I feel that our prospect of winning at next fall's election will be endangered if they keep on along that line.

Experience should teach them that what they do and not their complaints will have weight with public opinion. Let them have faith in the intelligence and fairness of the American voters, and, if need be, contribute clear-cut Democratic ideas to relief legislation if they are anxious to make good at the ballot box. DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT IS expected that during the forthcoming year more than 250,000 automobiles will be equipped with radios. About half that number were installed during the past year, according to O. H. Caldwell, former Radio Commissioner.

Since there are now something like 23,000,000 passenger cars in use, with the probability that 2,000,000 will be sold within the next year, there is still quite a field ahead for the radio auto.

It is the belief of Mr. Caldwell that in the future it will not be necessary for the automobilists to look ahead at traffic lights such as we now have. He believes that these lights will be shown on the driver's own dashboard. This he expects to be accomplished by laying a high-frequency cable along the curb, which would actuate a dictator tube and green signal light in the car while energized, changing the dashboard signal to red for "stop" when the high-frequency is cut off for cross-street traffic.

In other words, the driver, instead of watching the crossing lights, will watch his own red, amber and green lights on the dashboard. The power for these lights will be broadcast to the automobile from the high-frequency cable along the curb.

RUSS and Lovina Gilbert, former theatrical artists, whose songs and comedy have been a feature of the Cheerio broadcasts for the past five years, will inaugurate a new 15-minute period of fun and melody, to be known as "The Gilberts," over WRC tomorrow at 1:45 p. m.

Comedy dialogue, light opera and popular musical selections will be heard during the broadcasts, which will go on the air each Friday at the same hour.

The trio will continue to be heard with Cheerio each morning, but the Gilberts' program has no connection with that broadcast.

William D. Terrell, one of the first two radio supervisors in the United States, will talk about the work of the radio division of the Department of Commerce over WJSV at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

HOW nature can be interpreted in music will be illustrated by Walter Damrosch for Series A students during the N. B. C. Music Appreciation Hour tomorrow morning (WRC, 11 o'clock). In Series B, Damrosch will demonstrate the story and structure of the march in music.

A review of musical comedy hits, motion picture theme songs and other favorites will be presented by the Big Six of the Air (WRC, 9 o'clock tonight).

"MAY I add my plea against the crooners, both male and female, and beg for more real music. I am glad that the public has taken up the fight," Mrs. M. G. P. writes. "I have just listened to Theodore Webb on the General Electric program at noon. Why can we not have more such singers? No matter how much occupied we are here in our home, the hour when Mr. Webb sings everything stops and his voice and singing are an inspiration. The same when John Fogarty is on the air. When the time for the Campbell program, with the delightful voice of Robert Simmons comes around, everybody gathers near the radio for the pleasure of hearing him, but when the programs with the crooners start, the dial is turned or the radio cut off entirely.

"We can not understand why the sponsors will have their advertising ruined by these crooners, because they really make against the very thing they are paid to do, which is to advertise their products. Intelligent people, even though they are not educated in music, will not listen to them. The male crooners are bad enough, but we think the females of the species are far worse. It is a hard matter sometimes to tell whether it is a woman or man making the noise.

"We fully agree with your correspondent of last Monday signed A. B. D., in which he says, 'I can think of nothing more heavenly than hearing Ludwig Laurier and his Slumber Music at an hour when one can listen to this program, which, to my mind, is the cream of the radio music, ending with the sweetest voice in radio singing "Slumber On"—then turn off the power and go to sleep with that real music in one's ears.' Certainly, there is no more beautiful voice on the air than that of Milton Cross in every way—as an announcer, there is no one better.

"We are writing to register our vote against the crooners and hope the time is coming soon when they will be entirely taken off the air and in their stead the wonderful talent now available to both great chains put on."

Richard Wagner's famous operatic cycle, "Der Ring des Nibelungen," will be carried to a nation-wide radio audience from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York over the WJZ network of the N. B. C., commencing tomorrow, when a part of "Das Rheingold," the first of the four celebrated music-dramas, will go on the air at 3 p. m.

THREE short plays by Lord Dusany will be presented by the Radio Guild over WRC at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow * * * Ambrose Durkin, barytone soloist of Epiphany Church, and Adolph Torovsky, pianist and organist of Epiphany, will be heard in a fifteen-minute program at 11 o'clock tonight * * * Bettina Hall, featured in "The Cat and the Fiddle," will sing two numbers from that production tomorrow night (WJZ network, 8 o'clock) * * * WMAL'S weekly talks by members of the faculty of the University of Maryland constitute what is believed to be the oldest unbroken series of radio features in Washington. The programs were begun in 1926 * * * Excerpts from "Tannhauser," "Faust" and "Il Trovatore" will be heard during the operatic broadcast (WRC, 11:35 o'clock tonight).

A composition entitled, "Angelica," a Habanera, written by Vincent Ferramosca, flute player in the orchestra, will be played tonight during the Washington Gas Light concert ensemble, under the direction of Rudolph Schramm (WRC, 6:15 o'clock).

There was an air of excitement around the studios of Station WRC yesterday afternoon during the presentation of its first regular sustaining feature for network distribution from Maine to Missouri. Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes, wife of Senator Keyes, inaugurated a series of talks, "With a Senator's Wife in Washington." The broadcast was rounded out by a 13-piece orchestra, directed by Leon Brusiloff, with Marguerite Cromwell, soprano, as soloist.

The performance was equal in quality to similar productions of the New York and Chicago studios. If the pace is maintained, K. H. Berkeley, manager of Station WRC, may find himself busy supplying other programs to the chains.

FROM "Mr. Bones & Co.:"

End Man—What was that you said?

Interlocutor—I remarked that I had heard that married men lived longer than single men.

End Man—Oh, no; it only seems longer.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A black gabardine coat distinctively trimmed in white galyac, and a black woolen frock with bolero effect worn over a white crepe blouse. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Listen, a word to the wise about evening frocks made of cotton materials.

Firstly, why hasn't it occurred to more women that any cotton material is more youthful than a silken one? Also that to wear an evening gown or dinner gown of organdy, or pique, or any of the lovely cotton fabrics, is to be outstandingly individual?

Can it possibly be because cotton fabrics continue to sound like economy, that this type of evening wear is not more popular? Because if so, anyone "in the know" knows they are every bit as expensive as any other fabric—and can be much, much, more so when embroidered and finely worked, as they usually are.

A few party frocks in cottons are seen at Palm Beach, and a few in each collection of the couturiers in Paris. And when they appear, let me tell you that they are muchly commented upon! Their flattering and naive air, their freshness and charm, distinguish them from all other gowns. And their particular appropriateness to summer evenings is another thing in their favor. For anything but the most formal affair, a dance frock of cotton fabric seems the logical thing, now doesn't it, when you stop to think of it!

A word to the wise, that's all.

Slacks, what are they, a fan wants to know. They are nothing more nor less than trousers, dahr-lings—a new name for pajamas, and indicating a leg that is rather narrower than pajamas.

* * * * *

THE bolero is still and ever with us—youthful, tired as we are of the word, and undeniably flattering. Bernard et Cie makes a costume of black woollen material, with a bolero with sleeves, of the same material, and one must wear the bolero over a white blouse. Then the lining of the bolero makes a color contrast, you see. And what about the coat from the same house? Yes, I sketched it in the corner, too. There is gaberdine, with white galyac trimming—and note the odd collar effect. Chic?

* * * * *

Metal rings, slide fasteners and rings are popular for closings now. You have no idea how often one of these can take the place of a button, if you really make up your mind to it! Nor how many types of wearing apparel they are suited to, either.

Geranium red is a conspicuous success for trimming for summer clothes. Maybe because it is cheering and cheerful?

THE HOMEMAKER

By NANCY CAREY

FRIDAY'S DINNER MENU INCLUDES VEGETARIAN SOUP.

FRIDAY to be planned for today, and if I had my way I'd be off with a line, rod and perhaps a bent pin in quest of fish for the Friday dinner. But I'm afraid I should just have to cut the ice and do my fishing much as the Eskimos, so I shall defer my fishing excursion until a more seasonable period of the year and be satisfied to plan for tomorrow's dinner fish such as we shall find in our market stalls.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Vegetarian Soup
Toasted Saltines
Turban of Salmon
Julienne Potatoes
Spinach Mold
Coffee Sponge
Brown Sugar Cake Squares
Coffee

Vegetarian Soup.

1 potato
2 carrots
1 large onion
4 large stalks celery
1 pepper
1 cupful tomatoes
1 turnip
Peas, lima beans, &c., ¼ cupful each
¼ cupful butter
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoonfuls rice

Melt butter, add chopped vegetables, all but the tomatoes, and cook over a slow fire for 15 minutes. Add tomatoes and three quarts of cold water. Cook over low fire. After the boiling point is reached add the washed rice and let simmer for three hours.

Turban of Salmon.

2½ cupfuls cold flaked salmon
1½ cupfuls milk
4 tablespoonfuls butter
4 tablespoonfuls flour
2 egg yolks
3 cupfuls buttered cracker crumbs
½ teaspoonful salt
⅛ teaspoonful pepper
2 slices onion
Lemon juice
Blade of mace
Sprig of parsley

Scald the milk with parsley, onion and mace and then remove the seasonings. Melt the butter, add the flour, salt and pepper and pour in the milk gradually, stirring continuously. Bring to the boiling point and add the egg yolks slightly beaten. Put a layer of salmon in a buttered dish, season with salt and pepper and a few drops of lemon juice. Cover with the sauce and continue until both fish and sauce are used. Cover with breadcrumbs and bake in a hot oven until crumbs are nicely browned.

Coffee Sponge.

2 tablespoonfuls gelatin
¼ cupful cold water
1½ cupfuls strong coffee
¾ cupful sugar
3 egg whites, beaten stiff
Pinch of salt

Soak the gelatin in the cold water and dissolve in the hot coffee. Add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Put in a cold place and when it thickens beat with a rotary beater until light and fluffy. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into a moistened mold and place in the refrigerator until firm. Unmold and serve with cream.

Brown Sugar Cake Squares.

1½ cupfuls brown sugar
½ cupful butter
3 egg yolks, beaten
1½ cupfuls flour
½ cupful milk
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
½ teaspoonful each nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon
1 egg white, beaten stiff

Meringue.

2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 cupful brown sugar
½ cupful chopped nuts

Cream the butter and sugar until fluffy and beat in the egg yolks. Sift together the flour, baking powder and spices and add alternately with the milk. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Pour into a shallow, greased pan and spread with the meringue, made by folding the sugar and nuts, a little at a time, into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven—350 to 375 degrees. When baked, cut into small squares.

REEFS OF DISTRIBUTION.

A VIVID illustration of the sometimes predominant role played by distribution in Contract Bridge is illustrated below. In Bridge we have two measuring sticks by which to determine the trick-taking power of the hands we hold. One is the honor-trick yardstick and the other the distributional standard determined by suit lengths, either long or short. The most barren and most futile distribution of a hand is what is sometimes called the notrump type; that is, such distribution as 4-3-3-3, 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2. With hands of this type there must be plenty of honor tricks if high contracts are to be made. With hands containing singletons or two long suits or voids, the necessity for honor tricks is not nearly so pronounced, as is shown on the hand below:

Neither side vulnerable.

The Bidding.

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	Dbl.	3◇
3♠	5◇	5♠	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

South West North East

In view of the fact that West had opened the bidding after South's original pass, the Penalty Double of five spades by East can not be criticized. The bid smacks very much of the nature of accepting a penalty loss rather than permitting the making of a game. However, West's hand does not promise to be very productive in tricks against an adverse contract, but West probably thought that a contract to take 11 tricks by the opponents was rather ambitious and felt sure that six diamonds could not be made.

In the play, the King of diamonds was opened and trumped by South and the Knave of spades was played in order to coax West to play an honor if he had one. He played the nine and East won with the Queen and returned a club which South won and led a spade which was taken by the Ace and East's last spade picked up. Of course, the contract was made without difficulty, as South's hand then contained but one loser.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Ambitious contracts may sometimes safely pass the barriers of adverse honor-trick holdings if strongly buttressed by favorable distribution.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT.

Dear Frances McDonald:

Some weeks ago I wrote to you, but you probably thought my trouble too trivial to bother with. Nevertheless, I am hoping you will give me a little encouragement as I value your advice very much.

I am happily married, have three fine boys and a fine home, do all my own housework except laundry, am in good health and would not exchange my husband for any one. What has puzzled me is, I have a deep love for another man who is a friend of my husband and who is 26 years my senior. He thinks a great deal of every one in my family and I know if he did think anything of me he would be too honorable to say so. But it worries me to feel this way about him. He is at our house quite often, having no home of his own. My father died when I was very young and this man seems to fill his place in every way. Do you think I am doing wrong in caring for him as I do? Nothing will ever come of it as my husband is everything to me, but I don't want to do anything to be misunderstood. I do believe one can love two men at one time, but in a different way. What do you think about it?

CONSTANT READER.

If you had mentioned before that your father had died when you were "very young" we would have diagnosed your case differently. From your first letter we did think your case a bit of pure nonsense, that would be gone from your mind before the paper went to press! Now, however, we will pass on some wisdom we culled from a noted psychoanalyst we met at a famous murder trial. We sat next to him, and during a recess we asked him if we were a perfectly terrible person to like elderly men better than men of your own age. (We had always believed that they were and had never before breathed a word of the matter to a living soul)! He said with a nice grin, "Why so, why so?" And then—"You probably had an elderly father who was forbidding, or lost your father—so?" It was so! Then he explained that we were not a bit terrible, but were just supplying from life as we went along what our babyhood had lacked, and our childhood craved. And we have been strong for psychoanalysis ever since! It is so grand to know for sure that you are a nice person after all, and that when you want to lay your head against some nice, dignified gentleman's coat sleeve you are just going back to babyhood, and longing for the Dad who was always too busy and entirely too important to be bothered with such trivials as stroking a small head not as high as his knee. Very few of us are much different than we were when we were 5 it seems. And so dignified gentlemen should not become alarmed nor be uncharitable when surprising things happen.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DIABETICS AND ARTICHOKES.

WHETHER Jerusalem artichokes can be eaten by diabetics continues to be a debated question. There are those who claim that not only are they a safe supply of carbohydrates for this large group of people, but even that they have some curative powers.

Drs. Stein, Longwell, and Lewis say there is no basis for this last claim. It is made only by people who have had experience with a single case, or who have been careless in their laboratory tests and observations. They think the opinion of any one who holds that Jerusalem artichokes have any prominent place in the regimen of a diabetic is not entitled to much consideration. On the other hand, they advocate allowing diabetics to eat a moderate amount of these artichokes in proper circumstances. Their opinion, midway between the extremes, is based on analyses and clinical experience.

The argument for allowing diabetics this vegetable is that the sugar it contains is known as insulin, and differs a good deal from the sugars used on the table. Analysis showed that artichokes that were gathered early and when not fully ripened did contain insulin. On the other hand, those that were left in the ground until they were fully matured contained other sugars, and were not so harmless.

Therefore, much depends on the artichokes, the place of growth, the time of year, the consideration of that sort. They found it possible to decide which artichokes to use, by a simple test. If the vegetable had a sweet taste it should not be used. If it tasted flat it could be. In this the vegetable does not differ from others, or from fruits.

Starch is built up by the plant as an immature product. It tends to change repeatedly until it becomes a fruit or vegetable sugar, on the one hand; or into cellulose or fiber, on the other. If used in several of these change periods it does not serve as a source of body sugar. This is the case with bran and soy beans and still other substances.

It is all right to give diabetics a moderate amount of artichokes, according to Drs. Stein, Longwell, and Lewis. It supplies variety of flavor that is acceptable, and the sugar it contains is handled as well as any other and, at times, a shade better. At that, it is best to pick those that are not sweet and have not been left in the ground to mature. Beyond this, artichokes have no place in the dietary of diabetics.

The trend of opinion now is toward better regulated but more liberal feeding of diabetics, and the use of this vegetable has a place in the new plan.

BOILS IN THE NOSE.

S. J. H. writes: For the last year or so I have been bothered with what I suppose are boils on the inside and outside of my nose, which, when they come to a head, give off much pus. Is this a local condition or is there some other deep-seated cause? Is it possible that there might be serious results if it were allowed to go on?

REPLY.

A boil is an infection with a pus germ. The nose is a dangerous locatino for a boil. Try to prevent these nose boils if possible. Do you keep the grease squeezed out of your grease glands?

TONGUE IS SORE.

S. B. I. writes: For the past five months my husband has complained of his tongue hurting him severely at times. He has two sores on the top of his tongue which look like canker sores, and some raw-looking ones at the side. He will not see a physician, as he claims that if it is malignant there is no cure. An osteopath looked at it and said he found an abscess. My husband smokes a great deal, cigarettes mostly, and occasionally a pipe. One of his tonsils is badly infected. What does an abscess of the tongue signify, and could this come in any way from the bad tonsils.

REPLY.

I do not know what your husband has; but, of course, the trouble is not an abscess of the tongue. Among the conditions that might be responsible are aphthous ulcers, pellagra, pernicious anemia. Among the causes is too much smoking.

Why does he not try the effect of abstinence from tobacco? If that fails he might try regulating his bowel habits and changing his diet.

If these measures fail he will have experimented with himself long enough. There is no suggestion of cancer and little likelihood that his tonsils cause the condition.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF February 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:15 p. m.

Change and action are astrologically scheduled for February 25, and new ground will be touched through a change of residence or occupation. Guard should be taken against possible illness through chills and infectious colds. A time of considerable correspondence.

Children born on this February 25 will have quick tempers, high spirits, keen intellects and good physical stamina. They will be gifted with versatility, but are apt to prove to become "Jack at all trades, master of none." They will be overly sensitive to slights, and will probably suffer from periodic moods.

Born February 25, you are one of the world's dreamers, with sufficient optimism and hopefulness to believe that some day your "ship will come home." You are not, however, enough of a doer to build a gangway across this world into your world of dreams, and most of your pleasures will remain as anticipations. You are doomed to face many disappointments, but they will never come thick or fast enough to keep your spirits down or to turn you into a cynic or pessimist.

You have a winning manner and the gift of seeming interested no matter how bored you may be. In consequence, you have many friends and are a popular confidant. Like many people, however, you talk far too much, too soon, and too thoughtlessly. You have not learned the secret of judicius silence.

You are enough of the poet and artist to see beauty where others only find the commonplace; your fairyland exists within your own eyes and you do not have to travel far to find it. If you be a woman, you will have the knack of making your home or your personal appearance very attractive with very small resources. You are both romantic and sentimental, and demand considerable love and attention.

I want to plant sedum in my cemetery lot. Which variety is the one they use for covering graves? Also tell me the name of the dark green plant that is used for this purpose. I do not mean English ivy.

MRS. JOHN K.

Sedum acre (golden moss) is much used for covering graves. Myrtle is the other plant to which you refer.

I want a rapid-growing vine that is hardy and that bears flowers Please tell me the name of a reliable one. NANCY D. O.

Polygonum auberti is a most useful vine for covering a pergola or porch. It is perfectly hardy and free from disease or insect pests. It is said to grow 25 feet the first season.

Last fall I was instructed by a nurseryman to hill the soil well up about my butterfly bush. This I did. Now I do not understand whether this must be removed or if it should be left in place. I drew the soil up 10 inches about the roots.

MRS. HAROLD F. E.

This soil, which has protected the eyes at the base of the stem of the bush, must be removed in early spring and the entire plant should be cut down to within 6 inches of the ground.

Why does my tradescantia always become unsightly and brown toward spring? In the early fall it is always attractive.

MRS. JAMES R. K.

This very common little trailing vine which every one has is unfortunately only beautiful in its youth. After a period of eight months it becomes leggy, the leaves begin to drop off and the entire plant turns brown. All that can then be done is to take off cuttings and start new plants.

I am about to reseed my entire backyard. Please tell me the best kind of seed to use.

MRS. ROBERT F. S.

Sow the following seed at the rate of three pounds per 1,000 square feet. Sow in two ways, preferably at right angles.

40 per cent Kentucky blue grass.
40 per cent Chewing's fescue.
10 per cent redtop.
10 per cent Italian rye.
5 per cent South German mixed bent or white clover.

I have some caladiums, fancy-leaved varieties. These plants are now growing in pots. May they be planted in the open garden in the summer? IRA S. L.

Yes, provided you plant them in a shady place.

HEARING SET TODAY IN MATCH ROBBERIES

Suspect to Be Arraigned in Mount Rainier; Denies He Entered Homes.

A colored man has been arrested in Washington and will be given a hearing tonight on charges that he is the "burnt match" burglar who has committed a series of robberies in Mount Rainier, Md., by the light of matches.

He is James Jumper, 30 years old, who says he lives at 106 L street northwest. According to Eugene Plumer, Mount Rainier chief of police, Jumper was suspected of a series of "burnt match" robberies in Chevy Chase some years ago.

The prisoner has been identified by two men as having run from one of the houses entered, the policeman said. He also is said to fit the description given by a woman who said she saw the mysterious marauder. Jumper denies the robberies, but will be returned to Maryland today. Chief Plumer has already sworn out a warrant against him, charging robbery.

The prisoner was arrested Monday by Detective Hubert Brodie on a lookout broadcast by Chief Plumer, who was struck by the similarity between the Mount Rainier crimes and those in Chevy Chase. In both series the invaded houses were strewn with burnt matches after the visits of the raider. Jumper's hearing will be held before Magistrate Robert E. Joyce, who issued the warrant.

Four robberies are laid to Jumper, one in the 3800 block of Twenty-ninth street, one in the 3800 block of Thirtieth street and two in the 3800 block of Thirty-first street, Mount Rainier. Jewelry, particularly watches, was the chief loot.

River Bulletin.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Feb. 24.—Potomac and Shenandoah rivers both clear.

Two Accused of Stealing Section of Historic Tree

Charged with stealing a section of a historic tree and cutting it up for firewood, Sherman Byrd and Arthur White were held for action of the grand jury yesterday when arraigned in Hyattsville police court.

The wood was a cross section of an old tree which stood near Spa Spring, Bladensburg, and under which George Washington is said to have rested. It was cut down by the State Roads Commission recently and the wood was given to the Associated Charities. The section kept by the Charities was valued at $50.

Byrd and White, who live in Melrose, were held in bond of $200. Alice Ross and Ella Brooks, charged with receiving the stolen wood, were held as witnesses against the men. The block had been split up and burned when the men were arrested by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville.

Three men charged with trespassing on railroad property and cutting a train in two were given sentences of 30 days each in the Maryland House of Correction. By Maryland law the railroad must provide transportation to the prison for the men and their guards.

The three are George Smith, John Gilbert and Robert Golden. They are alleged to have climbed on a Baltimore & Ohio coal train near River road and cut the moving train apart by pulling a coupling pin. Golden appealed his sentence and was released in bond of $200.

Glen Echo Park Menaced by Blaze

Abandoned Structure Back of Swimming Pool Is Destroyed.

Montgomery County volunteer firemen yesterday saved Glen Echo Amusement Park from destruction by fire after a hard-fought battle of several hours. An abandoned building, the Chautauqua Hall of Philosophy, in which the fire started, was destroyed. Only the brick walls of the frame and brick building remained.

The building is rather large and is situated in back of the swimming pool in the rear of the park. It had no roof as it had not been used in years and large quantities of leaves had gathered in the old building. The leaves burned merrily and exuded great billows of smoke which greatly hampered the firemen. The Glen Echo Volunteer Fire Department managed to reach the fire with water from the hydrant in the park. Cabin John Park and Bethesda departments had to pump water from considerable distance. The Chevy Chase department also responded to the alarm.

The cause was not discovered, although police believed that tramps probably set the leaves afire while sleeping in the old building.

Bethesda G. O. P. Club Invites Voters to Join

Every Republican voter of the Seventh Election District has been invited to become a member of the Republican Club of Bethesda, recently formed, and which will hold its second meeting Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the County Building at Bethesda. The organization of the club is expected to be completed at this meeting.

Charles S. Moore, president, announces that by-laws will be discussed and election of an executive committee acted on at the meeting. The future program of the club will be formulated. Edward Callow, known as "Tony the Barber," will feature the program of entertainment which will conclude the meeting.

Arlington Police Arouse Praise in Solving Theft

The activities of the Arlington County police during the past month in apprehending the culprit who entered the home of V. Tassono, in Radnor Heights, Arlington County, resulted in the release of the following letter, made public last night by Mr. Tassono, which has been received by Sheriff Howard B. Fields.

The letter in part says: "I wish to congratulate the Arlington County Police, through you, for the excellent results they obtained through carrying out your sound advice and instructions in apprehending the culprit who burglarized my residence a month ago, and in recovering my watch the culprit stole at the time of entry into my residence."

Bladensburg's Jobless To Be Registered Today

Bladensburg residents having jobs are requested to tell their needs to Mr. Mitchell in order to give them to persons in the vicinity. Other members of the committee are Andrew Gasch and Frank Fierstein.

Speeders in Maryland Lose Drivers' Permits

Maryland State policemen, determined to stop speeding on the Baltimore boulevard, have turned from motorcycles to automobiles for pursuit purposes, and persons convicted of speeding are having their permits revoked for 30 days, Police Court Judge J. Chew Sheriff said yesterday.

Sister of Man Killed in France Is Beneficiary of Insurance.

(Associated Press.)

For twelve years the Veterans' Administration has been searching here and abroad for one Maggie Eldex. There is a substantial sum of money coming to her—the insurance left by her brother Pete, who died in action on the western front just four days before the war ended.

Her address was given as Cardonia avenue, Detroit. A house-to-house canvass of the street revealed no Maggie. Inquiry spread to Russia, original home of the Eldexes. It reached into Williamson, W. Va., where Pete lived when he joined up. No luck anywhere.

If any one knows where Maggie is, please tell the Veterans' Administration.

CANNON PROMISES VITAL SCHOOL FUNDS

ber of the District appropriations subcommittee, said in his opinion there would have to be cuts in the school budget, but he did not believe reductions would be made to cripple the system, or place it at a disadvantage with other cities of similar size.

Speaking for himself, he said he would oppose any reductions in teachers' salaries, when hearings on the school budget open next week. He said, however, savings might be made in the number of additional teachers, clerks and janitors hired. He advocated transferring many teachers holding what he calls "roving commissions," and engaged in such special activities as mental testing and kindergarten work, to classroom assignments, and possibly increasing the number of pupils per classroom.

Inasmuch as the appropriations subcommittee has not yet formally considered the school estimates, Chairman Cannon said, he preferred not to go into the details of the budget. He said, however:

"I have always felt that the training of the youth of the land is of first importance and all other interests should be subservient. In providing for the District schools we expect to keep them in the same position they have always been in relation to the school systems of other comparative cities. And they have always compared favorably, in salary scales, buildings and equipment.

"I have had two daughters in the public schools here. One graduated from a local high school and the other attended the graded schools. So I have the greatest interest in maintaining the present splendid standards. While Congress must retrench radically in all District expenditures in order to balance the budget, it does not expect to reduce provisions for the public school system below that of any other city in the country."

Representative Holaday said he had obtained a copy of the report by Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou, showing District schools have survived the depression better than those of any other city in the country.

In view of the report he said he could see no reason for Miss Hale cautioning Congress as to how it should proceed in providing for the local schools. Emphasizing the favorable situation of the District system, he declared that in some communities the school year had been cut from nine months to seven, and that in others, teachers had contributed a month's service without pay.

He declared there is no question that District schools are "way above the average" and expressed the hope that any budget reduction will not injure their status. He reiterated, however, his opinion that school estimates will undergo some trimming.

Court Asked to Cancel Naturalization of Two

Naturalization papers of two men, one an Irishman and the other a Greek, will be revoked if the District Supreme Court acts favorably upon petitions presented to it yesterday by Mrs. Rebekah S. Greathouse, Assistant United States Attorney.

Francis Fitzpatrick, a native of Ireland, now a patient at St. Elizabeths Hospital, was insane when he was granted papers in 1918, Mrs. Greathouse claimed, and Apostolos D. Katrivanos, a Greek, who was naturalized here in 1923, sailed for his native home shortly after obtaining naturalization. This, it was claimed, showed that he lacked the intention of remaining here.

LEGION POST INVITED TO GADSBY'S TAVERN

Alexandria Post and Auxiliary to Inspect Buildings Tomorrow Night.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Members of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, and the American Legion Auxiliary have been invited by the committee from the Colonial Dames, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Washington Society of Alexandria, who sponsored the birthnight ball given on February 22 in Gadsby's Tavern, to be their guests tomorrow night from 8 to 10 o'clock, to inspect the buildings while the furnishings provided for the event are intact.

As the attendance at the ball Monday night was limited to 500, owing to the safe capacity of the buildings, the committee takes this opportunity to have all members of Alexandria American Legion Post and its auxiliary inspect the rooms that were reconditioned for the event.

The prize of the collection of furnishings is an authentic copy of the Williams portrait of Washington, which is the only one in existence picturing Washington in Masonic regalia and as an old man. Washington's lodge has a standing offer for the grand lodge of the State of Pennsylvania of $100,000 for the original of this portrait. The possession of this portrait by Alexandria-Washington Lodge was the chief inspiration for the building of the George Washington National Masonic Temple on Shooters Hill, ground which was a part of Washington's estate, in which to house this portrait.

Earl Wiley, 47 years old, Alexandria contracting plumber, died at an early hour yesterday morning in the Alexandria Hospital. He had been taken suddenly ill the night before in his home at 219 South Payne street, and about 9 o'clock was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Wiley for many years was in the plumbing business with the late William Desmond, under the firm name of Desmond & Wiley. Since the death of the senior member of the firm several years ago, Mr. Wiley continued the business under his own name.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Ruth Wiley, he is survived by two sons, Dallas and Richard Wiley; two sisters, Mrs. F. D. Moore and Mrs. Eston Walker. BYRD'S ROAD PLAN WINS IN COMMITTEE

Harman Bill to Have State Take Over County Highways Is Reported.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The Harman bill, carrying out former Gov. Harry F. Byrd's suggestions for taking over by the State of all county roads, was favorably reported late today by the House committee on roads and internal navigation.

Only two committee members—I. N. Coleman, of Dinwiddie, and C. M. Waldrop, of Amelia—voted against a favorable report.

A committee amendment was adopted which prevents the changing of any route except with the approval of the boards of supervisors and the State highway commission.

Action by the committee followed a two-hour public hearing at which a number of persons voiced approval or objections or pointed out difficulties as related to their sections.

Cost Put at $5,000,000.

Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the highway commission, estimated the cost to the State of taking over the roads at $5,000,000 a year. Of this amount $3,500,000 would come from the gasoline tax revenue now distributed to the counties, but which would be reclaimed by the State under the bill, and $1,600,000 would come from other highway funds, the commissioner explained.

In addition to taking over county roads and reclaiming the gasoline tax now distributed to counties the bill would abolish county road levies, would give to cities for street maintenance an amount, based on mileage, equal to upkeep of adjacent roads and would leave control over the establishment of new roads or the abandonment of old roads with boards of supervisors, with the highway commission a party to such action.

Chairman Shirley, in response to a question from Colgate Darden, of Norfolk, said that each county would be assured of the expenditure of as much money there as it has been receiving from the State under distribution of the gasoline tax. The additional million dollars or more to be allotted will be distributed, he said, where the commission deems it needed most.

Maintenance of Streets.

He also told the Norfolk delegate the counties would be treated as units without regard to districts.

Delegate R. L. Brewer, of Suffolk, asked if the bill provided construction as well as maintenance funds for city streets. Mr. Shirley said it provided only for maintenance of streets.

Wilson Farr, Commonwealth's attorney in Fairfax, said towns in his county shouldn't be allowed to vote in a county election to determine whether Fairfax would exempt itself from the terms of the bill, as provided in the local option clause, because such towns were not affected by the local tax.

Farr said he was also opposed to the fact that a county voting to exempt itself from the act would not share in any general increase in gasoline tax revenue, but would continue to receive the same amount as in 1931. He also pointed out that a county not operating under the bill would not share in the distribution of an additional million dollars to the secondary highway system to be created.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

MR. RAY HENDERSON, who arrived in Washington yesterday to do a little helpful pioneering on behalf of Katharine Cornell and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," it is who divulges precisely how it happens that this triumphant Rudolf Besier play is to be seen in Washington after so considerable a period of indecision.

The role of Elizabeth Barrett, played by Miss Cornell, is, it seems, a particularly exhausting part necessitating the star's presence on the stage for a total playing time of three hours. This, to all intents and purposes, means five hours a day in the theater for Miss Cornell and ten on matinee days. In short, while appearing in this vehicle she has neither time nor strength to do anything else.

For this reason, it is by no means a certainty that Miss Cornell will be seen in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" after this season, although the success of the piece and her triumph in the stellar role might easily justify its continuance for another year or two. However, at the moment, Miss Cornell is intent upon presenting the Besier drama in as many cities as possible. To increase the number, she is exercising the same independence of thought and action as characterized her decision to end the New York run of the play while it was still attracting standing-room audiences on Broadway.

And that leads us to the matter of the Washington booking, referred to back yonder in the first paragraph.

When "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" reached Boston, seats were so in demand and the advance sale so unprecedented that the engagement was immediately extended to four weeks. Then the impassioned pleas of Mr. L. Stoddard Taylor, of our own Belasco Theater, and other representative managers in other Eastern and Midwestern cities, began to deluge the star in Boston and Mr. Guthrie McClintic's executive offices in New York, with the happy result that original plans were considerably altered to accommodate cities in which it had not been the first intention to present "The Barretts" on this tour.

The Boston engagement, for instance, was cut from four weeks to three in order to squeeze out the week of March 7 for the National Capital. Similarly, the Philadelphia engagement has been trimmed from three weeks to two to make room for a Baltimore week, and Chicago from eight weeks to six, in order that Pittsburgh and Detroit may have the play for one week each.

It is anticipated that the demand for seats for the single week's engagement of Miss Cornell at the Belasco will be so great that the most equitable arrangement for the greatest number of prospective patrons will be to make all seats available at the box office on a basis of "first come, first served." It therefore has been definitely announced that mail and telephone orders for "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" will not be accepted.

In order to accommodate those in office, the Belasco further announces a box-office innovation for this engagement only.

Tickets for "The Barretts" will go on sale at the box office of the theater next Sunday, February 28, at 12 o'clock, noon. For the ensuing three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 29, March 1 and 2, the box office will open at 8 a. m., instead of the customary 9. Beginning Thursday, March 3, the box office will be open, as usual, from 9 o'clock in the morning on.

It will be of interest to readers of The Sunday Post that "The Lost Squadron," to be accorded its world premiere presentation on the screen of RKO-Keith's Theater, beginning Saturday, was written by Dick Grace, famous movie stunt flier, who is also the author of a series of airplane-crash stories appearing currently in the Tabloid Magazine of this paper.

Mr. Grace demonstrates in the picture—I believe as an unnamed pilot who takes all the chances—all of the hazardous feats he has described in his thrilling Post stories.

The star of the picture, of course, is Richard Dix, who has a long list of screen celebrities in his support, including Mary Astor, Joel McCrea, Erich von Stroheim and Robert Armstrong.

So important is this premiere in the eyes of Radio-Keith-Orpheum that William Usilton, of the New York home office exploitation and publicity department, has been dispatched to Washington to cooperate with Manager Hardie Meakin in crowding a month's ballyhoo into three days.

A special print of "The Lost Squadron," by the way, is being rushed here from the West Coast by airplane, the official national release date of the film being as distant as March 12.

At the Belasco Theater next week the attraction will be the Washington Civic Opera Company's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Gondoliers," its first offering of the season and one that has elicited a great deal of preliminary interest. The principal roles will be sung by Beverly O'Brien and Kroon Bagranoff, supported by a large and capable ensemble. The production has been specially costumed.

Lillian Dixon's "Innocent Maids" company of burlesquers will supply the fun at the Gayety Theatre next week, beginning with the customary Sunday matinee. The comedy is intrusted to the capable hands of George Murray, Bob Startzman and Charles Cole.

The soloist to be presented at the National Symphony Orchestra's seventh program for children and young people, at the Central High School Auditorium, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, Hans Kindler conducting, will be Ann Sugar, 12-year-old Washington pianist and pupil of Felian Garzia. Mr. Kindler at this concert will continue his discussion of dance forms in symphonic music, with minuets by Haydn and Boccherini as illustrations.

The last concert of the current season by the Philadelphia Orchestra will be given in Constitution Hall on Tuesday, March 1, at 8:45 p. m. The orchestra on this occasion will be under the conductorship of Bernardino Molinari. The soloist will be Heinrich Gebhard, distinguished piano virtuoso.

Also on Tuesday, March 1, Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons will deliver a lecture on "Wilder Horizons," as the latest event in the "varied interest" series being sponsored by the Community Institute for its 1932 season. Mr. Gibbons will be heard in the Auditorium of Central High School, Thirteenth and Clifton streets.

The annual District of Columbia one-act play tournament, conducted by the Community Center Department with the cooperation of the Drama Guild, will open its series of four preliminary contests next week, with performances of four plays on Tuesday evening, March 1, and four plays on Thursday evening, March 3, all to be staged at East Washington Community Center, Seventeenth and East Capitol streets, at 8 p. m.

With a star cast in Tom Gill's "The Gay Caballero," on the screen, and El Brendel, the famous stage and screen Swedish comedian, on the stage in person, the Fox Theater announces five de luxe performances for tomorrow and Saturday, and four for Sunday. The doors of the theater will be open at 9:50 a. m. Friday and Saturday, and El Brendel will appear at 12:36, 2:48, 5:10, 7:53 and 10:05 p. m.

The complete roster for next week in the temples of the titillating tintypes—movies, to you—will be as follows: Palace, Marie Dressler, in "Emma," and Loew's Vaudeville Revue, No. 6; Earle, Marlene Dietrich and Clive Brook in "Shanghai Express," and Evelyn Wilson headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Richard Dix in "The Lost Squadron," and Irene Rich headlining the vaudeville; Fox, Victor McLaglen, George O'Brien, Conchita Montenegro and Linda Watkins in "The Gay Caballero," and El Brendel in person; Metropolitan, George Arliss, in "The Man Who Played God," second week; Columbia, Wallace Beery, Clark Gable and Dorothy Jordan, in "Hell Divers," second week; Rialto, Sidney Fox and Bela Lugosi, in "Murders in the Rue Morgue," second week."

Well, can you whistle "Father of the Land We Love" by now, or haven't you been to the theater this week? Any theater!

Citizens Ask Protection Of Pedestrians on Span

Adequate protection for pedestrians on the recently completed bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Queen's Chapel road northeast, was asked last night by the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association at a meeting in Sherwood Hall, Twenty-second street and Rhode Island avenue northeast.

It was pointed out that the railing along the sides of the bridge afford little protection for children who must cross the bridge to reach their homes. It was announced that plans for the proposed new Taft Junior High School at Eighteenth and Quincy streets northeast, are rapidly nearing completion.

This is a job for everybody . . . rich and poor alike.

We've got to get America's idle dollars back to work . . . where they belong!

Don't you see what happens when a dollar's withdrawn from circulation? It slows down everything. Credit tightens. Business gets bad. Factories stop. Men are thrown out of work.

Take that same dollar . . . put it in circulation . . . and ten more are released in credit.

This credit is turned into raw materials. It keeps factories busy. It pays wages and salaries . . . your own included.

That's the problem facing America.

We're the richest nation in the world. We have the resources. We have the factories . . . the machines . . . and the men to run them.

Yes, and we have the money too . . . but we must get it back in circulation. We must get our dollars back to work . . . that is the foremost duty of every citizen of this country.

Talk to local business men in your community . . . listen to what they say and follow their advice. Put your money where it will bring interest to yourself . . . and employment to your neighbor.

That's the way to help America win this fight!

A BRIEF NOTE OF APPRECIATION TO THE PUBLISHER OF THIS NEWSPAPER

This advertisement has been printed without cost by the publisher of this great newspaper. It is a sincere patriotic contribution that merits public praise. Regardless of political beliefs or editorial opinion the Newspaper Publishers of America are doing their part to help win this fight.

CHAIRMAN
Citizens Reconstruction Organization

Idle hands result from idle money. But active money is the leaven that spreads its influence through all walks of life and through all industries. Never in the history of America has a dollar bill in circulation meant so much to our national prosperity as it does today. Let's be done with "slacker" dollars. Let's make every dollar work—for ourselves and our country!

SONGS FOR VETERANS OF 1939.

(The modern version of that grand old song, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," according to M. N. White, of the Warsaw Enterprise, is "Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, They Bought on Margin."—Kansas City Times.)

Tramps, tramps, tramps, they bought on margin,
Tramps, tramps, tramps, they held too long!
They believed in every tip
Till the cyclone hit the ship
And they're shouting how the brokers did 'em wrong!

Tramps, tramps, tramps, they bought on margin,
Tramps, tramps, tramps, they stayed too late!
They could never learn to sell
When they saw their profits swell,
Now that stuff that was two hundred's down to right!

Tramps, tramps, tramps, they bought on margin,
Tramps, tramps, tramps, they sadly flock!
As they saw the prices hop
They believed there was no top—
Now they're hoarding dimes and nickels in a sock!

Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, they bought on margin,
Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, they're now in wrong!
Every thing the dopesters said
Went directly to the head—
Now they're selling kindling wood to help along!

Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, they bought on margin,
Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, they wanted all!
They were very greedy hogs
Buying all the cats and dogs—
Now they're standing with their backs against the wall!

Tramps, Tramps, Tramps, they bought on margin—
Seeing rainbow pots ahead!
They believed their barbers knew
What the stocks and bonds would do—
And they now are mired deeply in the "red."

STOCK PRICES SWING UPWARD AFTER LOSS

Trading Is Lighter, Despite Better Tone; U. S. Steel Gains at Close.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Stocks took a distinct upward slant today, and although they closed under the top, due to late selling, there was a comfortable margin of net gains.

The small turnover somewhat dimmed the performance, but many brokers saw little reason to look for anything but dull markets until there is a more definite change in basic influences. From the technical viewpoint the list acted well, for at last night's close it had lost about half of the last advance and the prompt appearance of support, after a slight setback at the opening, gave encouragement. Sales totaled 1,085,640 shares, or some 200,000 under Tuesday's volume.

On the early decline quotations averaged fractionally lower. This slack had been picked up long before noon, however, and rallying tendencies slowly acquired weight until the last half hour when part of the ground gained was retraced. With a few exceptions, net improvement in principal issues ranged from a major fraction to two points. Some stocks, mostly those influenced by special developments, closed lower.

National Sureties Weak.

National Surety, which deferred dividend action, was one of the weak spots. Worthington Pump preferred "B" and Radio preferred "A" were others, although sales in each were small. Detroit Edison and Norfolk & Western also found the market thin, but their reactions could be ignored in view of the one and two point gains for U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, General Electric, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central and North American.

Consolidated Gas, whose 1931 earnings closely approximated 1930's, was among the leaders.

Since withdrawals of foreign gold are no longer regarded as holding embarrassing possibilities, thanks to the Glass-Steagall bill, there is a growing belief that the local Reserve Bank rate will be reduced.

Steel Output Sags.

It was hard to find much that was encouraging in the weekly industrial statistics. Iron Age reported a sag in steel production to 26 per cent, the car loadings decrease was greater than seasonal and electric power output for the week ended February 20 was off 8 per cent from a year ago, the largest decline in the present depression. A smattering of adverse dividend actions and 1931 earnings figures were other happenings which the share market was able to ignore.

Commenting on conditions in the steel trade Iron Age pointed out that the dullness was largely due to the caution of automobile producers pending the debut of the new Ford models. Hopes of a belated seasonal advance "of some proportions" have not been abandoned, however, in fact, the review noted, they are borne out by price increases. Rail and structural orders are still negligible, but better inquiry for both is said to be in prospect.

The decline in bank failures, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board was noteworthy, nevertheless, the January total of 334, compared with December's 358, was with two exceptions the largest ever recorded.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Stimulating transatlantic advices, including forecasts that Germany would reenter the world's wheat market as an importer within a month hoisted all grain values today.

News from abroad was more favorable to wheat holders than has been the case for a long while. Apparently almost every country in Europe will need to buy wheat, owing to heavy inroads made on native supplies, and as a result of overestimates of yields, together with widespread damage to crops.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top level, 1¼ to 1½ above yesterday's finish; corn 1¼ to 1½ up, oats ½ to ⅞ advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

Supplementing the bullish effect of cable reports were advise crop advices from western Kansas and western Nebraska, where official returns indicated considerable abandonment of seeded areas of winter wheat. In addition, about 1,000,000 bushels of North American wheat was reported as having been taken today for shipment overseas. Furthermore, quantities of hard winter grades from the United States were specifically mentioned as being worked.

A leading British grain trade authority said injury to the winter wheat in European continental countries was being reported generally, and the Liverpool market closed higher, ignoring yesterday's price setbacks on this side of the Atlantic. A sharp falling off in the domestic movement of wheat in the Southwest was shown, and there were predictions of a period of light receipts hereafter for that territory. Word from Minneapolis was that flour trade had picked up moderately the last few days. Absence of snow covering in parts of the domestic winter wheat belt suggested also likelihood of crop damage if extreme changes in temperature should occur.

Corn and oats rose with wheat, notwithstanding that in the East corn was reported to be selling at relatively below a Chicago parity. Country offerings of corn to arrive here were generally held above buyers' views. Corn traders had reports that it was decided to put corn on the British free list.

Provisions sagged, responsive to downturns in hog values.

LIBERTY BONDS RISE AS OTHER LOANS SAG

British Issues Also Gain in Dull Market; Latins Join Advances.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Government bonds of the United States and Great Britain today proved stroug buying magnets in the loans market, and a number of them moved to new high levels for the year.

Corporate domestic issues, however, continued their dull and uncertain trend of yesterday, and only in a few spots was there even fairly active trading. The averages sagged fractionally and sales for the day totaled $19,783,000.

Strengthened belief that the Glass-Steagall credit expansion bill will rejuvenate Federal loans continued to bring investors into this list. Significance was also attached to the buying of acceptances by the Federal Reserve banks and reports of purchases of Government securities by other banking institutions.

New highs for 1932 were recovered by Liberty 4th 4¼s, which closed at par, and three of the Treasury issues. The only declin was shown in a sale of Liberty 1st 4s, the first this year. They were off 3.24 points.

United Kingdom 5½s experienced the heaviest trading in the foreign section. They advanced nearly 2 points. Strength of London markets and continued gains in the pound sterling aided these bonds.

Moderate advances were also recorded by some loans of Argentina, Brazil, Australia, Finland and Norway. Both German government 7s and 5½s rallied for gains of ¼ to 1¼ points. French and Italian bonds moved higher. Japanese government 6½s recovered somewhat, but trading in the Nipponese issues was quiet. Dutch East India 5½s gained from 2½ to 4 points.

The railway mortgages were generally uninteresting and price changes fractional. There was a run-up in loans of the New York traction companies. International Telephone liens improved, but International Match 5s and convertible 5s lost 4½ points each.

Campbell Sets New Auto Speed Record Of 253 Miles Per Hour to Surpass His Previous World Mark by 8-Mile Margin

British Driver Hits 267-Mile Pace on His First Run.

Other Marks Bettered; Veteran May Seek Higher Speed.

In establishing a new record over the mile, Campbell clipped .47 of a second off his old record.

On his runs today Campbell also established new world speed records over one and five kilometer routes, but the announcement was not made public by officials until tonight after they had checked their calculations.

Campbell's new record for the kilometer, which is approximately 2,000 feet less than a mile, was 251.340 miles an hour, compared with his former record for that distance of 246.086. His new record for 5 kilometers was 241.569 miles an hour, as compared with his old record of 216.045.

On his first run, Campbell crossed the kilometer in 8.53 seconds for a speed of 262.242 miles an hour, and on the second run was clocked at 9.27 seconds for a speed of 241.308 over that distance for an average time of 8.90 seconds and an average speed of 251.340.

Campbell Clocked At 252.304.

Campbell crossed the 5 kilometers on his first run in 44.33 seconds for a speed of 252.304 miles an hour, and on his return trip was clocked over that distance at 48.27 seconds for a speed of 231.710 miles an hour. His average two-way time for the distance was 46.30 seconds for an average speed of 241.569 miles an hour.

Sir Malcolm said he was not satisfied with his new record and that if beach conditions are suitable, he probably will make an attempt tomorrow to boost it even higher. He hopes to be able to make a record of 260 or 265 miles an hour.

"I am not at all pleased with the record," he said, as he climbed out of the car to receive an ovation from thousands of spectators.

"I should have driven much faster, but the wind on my second run north slowed me up considerably. It felt as though it was blowing at least 40 miles an hour and my car was held back by such a headwind.

"I am going to check over my car and if I find it is in good condition, and the beach still is good tomorrow, I shall try for a faster record then.

Wind Hampered Steering.

"During both of my runs, I had to steer the car with all my might because of the wind. Toward the south end of the course, I had to run through water left by the receding tide, and it looked like a lake as I approached and dashed through it."

On his first run, Campbell found his oil tank had been filled too full, and when the car attained a high speed, the oil splashed over his windshield.

"It was not serious," he said, "and so I decided to make my second run immediately."

Except for splotches of oil on the car, the machine showed no evidence of having been damaged. The two rear tires were slightly cut in several places, apparently from tiny shells buried in the sand, but the front tires did not appear to be worn.

Campbell was exceedingly calm after his record achievement, and stretched out his arm at full length to show newspapermen there was no quiver in it.

Speed King and Superauto

"Pluckiest Man Alive," Say British Motorists

London, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Lady Malcolm Campbell said she was the happiest woman in England tonight, when told that her husband had set a new automobile speed record on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla.

"It's wonderful," she exclaimed. "It is a great relief to me to know that the attempt is over and that my husband has succeeded. I am delighted to hear the results."

Toasts were drunk in motor racing circles to "the pluckiest man alive."

"Above all, Sir Malcolm's courage and endurance stand out," said F. I. Davies, managing director of the concern that made the engine of Campbell's Bluebird racing car. "To him of all people who were concerned in the machine's construction is due the most praise and credit for an extremely plucky effort."

SCHOOL STAR C. U. MEET FEATURE

Bullard, Half-Miler, One of Dixie's Best Prospects.

A STOCKY 17-year-old youngster, hailed as the greatest prospect ever developed in the South, will match strides with the best the local high and prep schools have to offer in the half mile run at the Catholic University indoor track meet Saturday night. Platt Bullard is his name, and he will wear the colors of John Marshall High School, of Richmond, Va.

Bullard is a junior at John Marshall, where he first took up track work in earnest. He has won acclaim as one of the flashiest trackmen in schoolboy ranks by critics who have watched him perform, and they have been generous in their predictions of a successful collegiate future for the boy. Bullard competed in the national interscholastic championships held in Chicago last summer. He covered the half mile in 1:58 to finish second. He runs the quarter mils in 0:50 and 0:51 with regularity, and his leg muscles are not fully developed, according to his coach.

Best D. C. Half-milers To Oppose.

The cream of the scholastic half-milers will be pitted against the Richmond youth in the Brooklyn gym Saturday night, but he figures to carry the trophy back to Richmond with him regardless of the caliber of the opposition.

Drawings for the positions in the various relay and distance races were made last night, with Temple University getting the most favorable positions in three events. The Philadelphians drew the pole in the 1-mile intercollegiate run, 2-mile run and the feature Ryan 1,000. Temple also drew No. 2 position in Section C of the intercollegiate 1-mile relay. The other teams shared equally in the draw.

SAINTS AT HYATTSVILLE.

Hyattsville High School's basket ball quint is to face the formidable St. John's prep team this afternoon on the Hyattsville National Guard Armory court at 3:30 o'clock. It will be the next to last game on Hyattsville's regular schedule. St. John's walloped the Blue and Gold, 29 to 13, in Washington earlier in the season.

MACFARLANE IS ST. PETE VICTOR

Beats Hackney by a Stroke to Capture Open Golf Event.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Willie MacFarlane, the veteran Scot from Tuckahoe, N. Y., won the 54-hole St. Petersburg open golf tournament today with a score of 209. He nosed out Dave Hackney, of Lowell, Mass., by one stroke and received $300 top prize. Hackney got $300. Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., slipped into third place to win $200, with 211 strokes.

MacFarlane's card for the three 18-hole rounds showed 72—68—69—209. His 69 pulled him ahead of Hackney, who slipped to 72 after setting a course record in the forenoon with 34—32—66.

MacFarlane's purse brought his winnings for one week to $1,175. He was runner-up in the Gasparilla open at Tampa ended Sunday, and received $625. He was co-medalist at Tampa and got $50.

Densmore Shute, of Cleveland, and Clayton Attridge, of Tampa, tied for fourth place here with 213's. They divided $175. Shute's card showed 72—69—72—213, while Attridge carded 69—72—72—213.

Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, former national open champions, finished far down the list with cards totaling 216, and received $25 each. Roebuck and Szabo Meet In Strand Feature Tonight

SANDOR SZABO.

THE best known Indian since Jim Thorpe, Big Tiny Roebuck, the reformed All-American football player, will head tonight's rassling card at the Strand Theater, meeting Sandor Szabo, former Hungarian butcher boy, in what the management is pleased to call a 2-hour limit bout.

Tonight's final bout is actually something to mull over. Two months ago there would have been little doubt that Szabo would win, even though outweighed 50 pounds and but half as strong. But Roebuck is a changed brave, and has been on the warpath of late, losing only to Strangler Lewis and Leo Pinetzki in recent months. Roebuck and Szabo stand one victory apiece in their last two meetings.

The other three bouts arranged are Fred Grobmeier, Washington's new Own, and Paul Favre, Doc Wilson and

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Dazzy Vance, long one of the right-handed pitching aces of the National League, signed his 1932 contract with the Brooklyn Robins today.

Terms of the contract were not announced, but it is believed he signed a contract calling for a salary of $15,000. Vance received $23,000 for his 1931 services. He came to terms after a two-hour conference with Manager Max Carey. Vance did not take part in today's workout. He was excused from work when he complained of a toothache.

Soon after Vance had been signed it was announced that Babe Phelps, another right-hander, had come to terms and was on his way to the camp. There are now seven unsigned Brooklyn players. They are Babe Herman, Johnny Fredericks, Wally Gilbert, Ernest Lombardi, Denny Southern, Cy Moore, and Joe Shaute.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Special attention is being given Al Eckert, young southpaw recalled from Columbus in the Cincinnati Reds training camp here. Manager Dan Howley is eager to get some southpaw strength this year. The 41-year-old Ezra Rixey and Biff Wysong, a wild youngster, are the only portsiders.

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Manager Gabby Street, of the Cardinals, is keeping a close eye on Raymond Francis Starr, newcomer from Rochester who won 20 games and lost 7 in the International League last season. Starr has what is known as a "rubber arm"—never out of shape—which is an asset in addition to his record. Although he has had only five workouts at the Cards' training camp, Starr is tossing the ball as though it were midseason.

Richardson Springs, Calif., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Whitlow Wyatt, Detroit Tiger pitcher who was sent to Beaumont of the Texas League last season because of a sore arm, indulged in a session of speed ball pitching today and reported the last trace of soreness had disappeared. He expects to be back with the Tigers this year.

New Orleans, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians opened their baseball training season here today as 16 pitchers and 3 catchers started toughening their muscles under a bright sun.

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Chicago's White Sox, led by Owner Lou Comiskey and Manager Lew Fonseca, departed for their spring training fields in Texas today.

Thirteen players and two new coaches were in the party, which will stop over at Mineral Wells, Tex., for

Jollos-Burns On All-Star Ring Card

Foes of Close Battle at Nursery Clash Again Monday.

As if the All-Star boxing card to be staged Monday night at the University of Maryland's new Ritchie Stadium was not already the best ever offered ring fans in this section, those in charge last night made a shift in one of the four eight-rounders that is sure to prove a magnet to those who generally satisfy their longings for fistic action at the Day Nursery's shows at Alexandria.

Instead of meeting Buster Brown, Louis Jallos, former Cleveland Golden Glove champion, will battle Bobby Burns, of Baltimore, in a return bout. In their recent meeting at Alexandria, these boys put on a close and thrilling contest with Referee Heinie Miller awarding the decision to Burns. His verdict seemed unpopular with the majority of the ringside and general admission judges.

Referee Defends Stand.

Miller defended his stand later by crediting Burns with the edge due to the fact that he forced the fighting throughout. Jallos took a lead early in the bout with his clever counter fighting. Both boys begged for another chance after that match.

Indications are that a banner crowd will pack the new Maryland University athletic plant for the show which is featured by an eight-round bout for the Southern bantamweight title between Antol Kocsis, Hungarian champion, and Dick Welsh, prominent Norfolk battler.

Three other eights and a four-round preliminary complete the program. In the other eights Buster Brown, clever Baltimore lightweight, will meet Louie Jallos, former Cleveland Golden Glove champion; Eric Lawson, Newport News light-heavyweight contender, will engage Vince Forgione, veteran Philadelphia boxer, and Billy Strickler, rugged local light-heavy, will oppose Al Treanor, another Philadelphian.

Local Boys in Preliminary.

The principals for the preliminary have not as yet been selected, but the management promises to match two outstanding youngsters of this vicinity.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the Willard Hotel, Spalding's, Vic's Sport Shop and Goldie Ahearn's. Prices are $1.50 and $2.50.

Xaviers Sign Crowe As Football Coach

Latrobe, Pa., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Clem Crowe, football coach at St. Vincent College, resigned tonight to become assistant coach at Xavier University in Cincinnati.

Crowe, captain of the famous Notre Dame "four horsemen" team in 1925, was called by the late Knute Rockne, "the best end I ever coached." He came here after his graduation, bringing the Rockne system into western Pennsylvania.

Crowe will report at Cincinnati to assist in the spring training. He succeeds Tim Monyhan, another Notre Dame star. Crowe also was noted as a basket ball star at Notre Dame.

St. Vincent faculty officials said tonight Crowe's successor had not been named.

Jack Dempsey Now a Colonel

Former Champion Named on Staff of Gov. Laffoon of Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey, former champion heavyweight, was made a Kentucky colonel by Gov. Ruby Laffoon today when he came to Frankfort to address the General Assembly.

Meantime a bill to prohibit absolutely boxing and wrestling in the State and to make attendance by spectators upon either grounds for divorce was introduced in the Senate as a joke on Dempsey. It also would provide heavy fines and jail terms for principals and promoters. The Senate referred it to the committee on ditches and drains.

Nat Rookies May Land 2 Berths

Five Young Pitchers in Biloxi Battle for Jobs.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH.
(Sports Editor of The Post.)

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 24.—The Washington Club's board of strategy will not loosen the check rein on the rookie pitchers until next week, but then the battle will start in earnest for the young hopefuls who are encamped here with the Nats.

The program thus far has comprised little more than vigorous calisthentics with caution the watchword when it comes to loosening up young and willing soupbones. The all-seeing Walter Johnson is keeping a sharp weather eye on the tossing of the rookies and he scans the work of the veterans, too, despite the fact that they should know better than to cut loose, as the saying goes.

No violation of the general order to go easy has been reported as yet, but the first batch of sore arms may crop out next week when the rookies will be instructed to let out a notch. The competition will then become keen, for only two berths appear open to the five candidates listed as the second flight of pitchers at the camp.

Few Places This Season.

The American League magnates did the rookies no favor when they voted to reduce the player limit from 25 to 23 this season, thus cutting off the chances of many to hang on with the clubs after the close of spring training. On the basis of 23 players, the Nats will carry no more than eight pitchers, possibly nine, and barring trades or unexpected releases, six are already established as regular members of the staff.

These regulars are Crowder, Marberry, Brown, Fischer, Burke and Weaver, all of whom are regarded as veterans despite the fact that Fischer has spent only one full season in the majors and Weaver joined the club late last year. The latter, however, saw much service with the Baltimore Orioles and is reckoned by Johnson as the likeliest prospect among the entire group.

Six young hurlers are within the club for the first time and of this

Golf Favorites Win Miami Beach Matches

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Stuart Scheftel, young Englishman, played sterling golf today to recover from a three-hole disadvantage at the ninth and win, one up, his 18-hole match with Jimmy West, Miami, in second round play for the Dixie amateur title.

Gus Novotny, La Grange, Ill., advanced to the third round by defeating Mack Fisher, Hempstead, Long Island.

T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion, and now defending his Dixie amateur title, went to the seventeenth hole to defeat Winfield Day, Chicago school boy golfer, 2 and 1.

Howard Tryon, Detroit, and S. T. Henderson, Charlotte, N. C., went the 18-hole route before the former won the match, 1 up.

Allison and Lott Win Florida Play

Hawk, Cup Official, Bows to Allison; Lott Wins From McMillen.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 24 (U.P.).—Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., national doubles tennis champion, defeated P. B. Hawk, Davis Cup committeeman, 6—2, 9—7, in the feature third-round singles match of the Pan-American tennis tournament here today.

George Lott, Chicago, defeated Robert McMillen, Neenah, Wisconsin State champion, 6—4, 6—2.

In the second-round doubles play, Lott and Marcell Rainville, Toronto, Canadian champion, defeated Hudson Hamm, Florida junior champion, and Joe Whalen, both of Miami, 6—4, 6—1.

'adets' Rally in Last Minute of Play Defeats Georgetown Prep, 22-19, in Thrilling Climax of Post Tournament

Post Trophy Is Presented

Preps Always Lead Until Last Three Minutes of Play.

Great Long Shot by Scanlon Puts St. John's in Front.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

LASHING out with a rally in the last minute of play, St. John's Cadets won the prep school championship of Washington last night, subduing Georgetown Prep, 22 to 19, before the largest crowd ever to storm into George Washington University Gym.

It was bitter gall for Georgetown Prep to take last night that defeat, for the Blue and Gray clad youths from Garrett Park had swooped down upon the colonial floor and held the favored St. John's team at bay until the end of the game was within reaching distance.

They led, 8 to 4, at the quarter, 11 to 8 at the half, 14 to 13 at the third quarter, and 18 to 14 with three minutes left of the fray, while a thrill-drenched crowd of well over 1,000 (in a 700 capacity gymnasium) raised a din such as rarely has been heard before.

Record Crowd at G. W. Gymnasium.

With three minutes to go, Keating and Allen had looped in shots that gave their side the 18-to-14 margin. Keating, playing splendidly with the weight of three personal fouls on him since early in the game, went out with four the next moment and Johnny Breen, the boy he fouled, shot a foul goal for 18 to 15. Breen was good for another foul the next minute, and Allan, by whom the foul was committed, also went out of the game, leaving Georgetown Prep with but three of the men who had been waging a successful battle in anchoring their ship safely over the waves of St. John's.

Breen came through again, dropping in a shot on the dead run to tie the score at 18 to 18, with the end two minutes away. There was no hearing yourself as a thousand throats roared encouragement to the teams, and the roof of the gym bulged convex when Mike Scanlon, St. John's captain and guard, shook himself loose from the fierce man-to-man guarding, let fly from the middle of the floor and saw his shot skid down through the cords with perfect aim.

Georgetown Prep was still in the fight. But Keating, the best shot in the tournament, sat disconsolately on the bench and Maurice Nee, whose directional genius was largely responsible for the fine showing of the losers in the tournament, had no one to carry through the effect of his good team play.

Before the final whistle sounded Hartnett streaked under the basket and gave St. John's a 22-18 lead on a bruising snowbird. Nurre, Georgetown Prep center, scored one from the foul line just as the gun sounded, ending a tournament which was topped by the most thrilling game of all between two teams which were credits to their institutions and the coaches concerned.

Personal Fouls Costly To G. U. Preps.

Scenes of unrivaled mobbing were enacted before the gymnasium's two front doors before the game. The gymnasium was not opened until 8 o'clock, and became crowded so quickly that it resembled an apparition.

The Washington Post Trophy, emblematic of the championship, was presented to Coach Paully Byrne, of St. John's, after the game by Director of Athletics Jim Pixles, of George Washington University, cosponsors of the tournament. Tom Keating, flashy Georgetown Prep forward, was awarded an individual trophy for scoring the greatest number of points in the series, 25. Mike Scanlon was presented with a silver figure of a basket ball player, for being "the most valuable player to his team." This latter award was the result of a consensus of opinion among the coaches, officials and newspapermen. Scanlon gained a close decision over Maurice Nee, of Georgetown Prep. Honorable mention was given to Lao, of Gonzaga; Chesley, of St. Alban's; Breen, St. John's; Clements, Devitt, and Kent Boyle, Friends.

The tournament, successful beyond all expectations, is looked upon as a forerunner to closer relations between the prep schools of Washington. The entire tournament was a model of amateur sport. George Washington University offered the gymnasium, basket balls, shower and locker facilities; The Post donated the main trophy, Pearson and Crain, jewelers, gave the two individual awards, and Referees Joe Mitchell and Ben Kail, two topnotch officials from the D. C. Approved Board, gave their splendid services gratis.

MARYLAND U. IS OFF FOR ATLANTA

Leaves to Start Dixie Title Defense Tomorrow.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY, playing the not too delectable role of "defending champions," will depart for the biggest basket ball conflict of the year this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, when it leaves for Atlanta—and the eleventh Southern Conference court champiponship.

To Maryland has been given the No. 1 seeded position along with Kentucky, Alabama and Auburn. The Old Liners will be represented by the same team which carried them to round after round of thrill-soaked victory last year, plus a quartet of sophomores who this year have ousted the veterans from their berths.

The senior Maryland squad will be Ronkin and Chalmers, forwards; Norris, center; Berger and May, guards. In the offing, and probably more than that, will be Buscher and Snyder, guards. Vincent, center, and Chase, forward, all of them sophomores. Buscher and Vincent probably will be used more than their prototype seniors.

Maryland will meet its first test tomorrow afternoon, three hours after it reaches Atlanta, when it tackles Florida. If victorious, it will meet the winner of the Vanderbilt-Duke game. If forms holds true, it will meet Alabama in the semifinal round. The dark horse in Maryland's section of the draw is Vanderbilt, which, while not seeded, has beaten both Alabama and Ketnucky this year.

Coach Burton Shipley, veteran mentor of Old Liners, who has been laid low by influenza, probably will accompany the team. He rallied well yesterday and is expected to be in shape enough to go along this afternoon.

Mrs. Wrigley Named A Director of Cubs

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. William Wrigley, widow of the owner of the Chicago Cubs, today was elected a director of the baseball club and a member of the executive committee.

In addition to Mrs. Wrigley, the executive committee now includes President William L. Veeck, A. D. Lasker, W. M. Walker and Philip K. Wrigley.

RINGER FAILS BACKERS AT HIALEAH

"Shem Horse" Runs as "Gailmont" in Attempted Coup.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The "3-year-old Gailmont," which ran in the third race at Hialeah Park yesterday was identified as the 4-year-old Annahton, a horse which ran as Shem in the "ringing" case uncovered at Havre de Grace last fall.

Track officials, learning of a flood of "come-back" money for "Gailmont" noticing the horse's peculiar coloring, ordered him to be takn into custody after the race, in which he broke down and finished eleventh in the field of fourteen. During the night, dye, which had been used to change the marking of the horse, began to come off.

Willis Kane, in whose name "Gailmont" ran yesterday, could not be located today. Trainer A. F. Travener told the stewards that insofar as he knows, the horse is the Gailmont which he saw running at Agua Caliente and which was turned over to him by Kane about three weeks ago.

$7,000 Comeback On Horse.

The stewards said $8,489 was bet on the colt of which $7,000 was "come-back" money (money bet away from the track and sent to the track for play in the mutuels). "Gailmont was up among the leaders during the early stages of the race, but faded fast in the stretch.

Last fall the horse Annahton figured in the "Shem" ringing case at Havre de Grace, which resulted in "Nigger" Nate Raymond and a half-dozen associates being ruled off the Maryland turf. Annahton was found quartered in Indiana, but later disappeared and is believed to be the colt "Gailmont," which won two consecutive races at Agua Caliente before being shipped to Florida.

ALLEGANY HIGH WINS.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 24—Fifteen hundred persons, the largest crowd to witness a basket ball game at the new Sts. Peter and Paul gymnasium, saw Allegany High defeat LaSalle Institute by a score of 29 to 26 and clinch the championship of the Western Maryland Interscholastic League for the third year.

Zahn, Capital Boy, Named G. W. Basket Ball Captain

ARTHUR "OTTS" ZAHN, sterling guard on George Washington University's basket ball team for the last two years, was yesterday chosen to lead the Colonials during the 1932-33 campaign. Zahn is a former Eastern High School player, first developed by Coach Charlie Guyon, but the full bloom of his power as a player was not evident until he entered George Washington.

Zahn has been the natural leader of the club all year, during the time which it hung up a 12-straight winning streak. His floor play and directional skill have been evident at all times. Added to this he is an excellent shot, particularly beneath the basket.

The Colonials, 12 strong, will leave town today on their most important trek of the year. Tonight, in Philadelphia, they meet St. Joseph's, a strong and experienced club.

At the peak of its form, G. W. beat

Eastern-St. John's Game For Title, Charity Urged

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, cosponsors with The Post of the prep school tournament, today will ask Stephen E. Kramer, assistant principal of public schools, in charge of high schools, to permit Eastern High to play St. John's for charity tomorrow afternoon at Tech High Gymnasium.

Eastern is public high champion. The teams have played twice this year, and hold a victory apiece. The Eastern team has been keeping in shape, awaiting permission to play.

ULUNIU DEFEATS RACCOON BY NOSE IN MUD AT HIALEAH

Star Jockey Is Hurt in Fall

Callahan Tossed to Infield as Royal Ruffin Slips.

Whitney Racers Run One-Two at New Orleans Track.

HIALEAH PARK, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Showers broke out after the racing began here today and later continued in a steady downpour, converting the track into a sea of slop and mud, something very rare in this sector. Despite the elements and it being an off day, a fairly good-sized crowd saw Mrs. R. Pollard's gelding, Uluniu, race to a driving victory in the featured Citrus Growers Handicap of 7 furlongs, defeating Raccoon by a nose to pay favorite players $4.10. My Dandy took third money, a length behind. The time was 1:26 2-5.

Royal Ruffin slipped and swerved into the inner rail just before reaching the eighth pole. Hubert Callahan, his rider, fell over the rail and into the infield. He was carried to the emergency hospital, where it was reported that the lad received bad bruises on his right leg and a severe shaking-up. He also sustained a small cut on the back of his leg.

Royal Ruffin Always Outrun.

The field ran well bunched to the stretch with the exception of Royal Ruffin, which always was outrun. Uluniu stole the lead from My Dandy leaving the back stretch and opened up daylight, but Raccoon came along with a powerful rush in the closing stages and nearly got up in time.

Little America, the filly which received the only disqualification of the meeting in her last appearance barely lasted to beat Gay Bird in the fourth contest decided over the seven furlongs distance. Claremont was third two lengths off the pace. The Kahn had to be pulled up after a furlong when Jockey Rennie lost a stirrup. Little America held a good lead until the last furlong when Hank Mills made a tardy bid with Gay Bird. The latter might have got up had Mills been quicker in starting his move. The winner paid $9.80.

FAIR BLANCHE, a forward contender from the start, moved up with a good burst of speed entering home stretch and hung on with good courage in final drive. JUNGLE BOY, forced to work his passage up on the outside, bore over to inside in stretch run and was gaining on the leader at end. BO BALLOT, a keen factor from the break, saved ground all the way. MOVE ALONG was used up making the pace.

THIRD RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. Ormonde Purse. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:16. Off at 3:19. FOUL TIP came again when put to a drive and, finishing stoutly, was up in the last fifty yards to win going away. MINTOGEE tired after moving up stoutly going to furlong pole. JESTING, off slowly, closed a big gap and finished going very strong. ADORLAND showed lot of early speed, but tired last furlong. PRINCESS VAL closed a big gap.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:48. Off at 3:50½. Winner, Mrs. V. M. Duncan's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LITTLE AMERICA, $9.80, $3.40, $2.90; GAY BIRD, $2.50, $2.30; CLAREMONT, $3.40.

LITTLE AMERICA, quick to begin, drew away into a commanding lead first quarter, saved ground all the way, but was tiring and just lasted long enough. GAY BIRD broke slowly and raced in hand until last sixteenth when he came from behind to finish with a rush. He just failed to get up. It appeared as though Mills was drawing the finish fine. CLAREMONT, slow to begin, closed a big gap. DONNY JOHNNY and POLYGAMOUS made a very wide turn into home stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Citrus Growers Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:23. Winner, Mrs. R. Pollard's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ULUNIU, $4.10, $4.10, $2.70; RACCOON, $10.90, $4.00; MY DANDY, $2.80.

ULUNIU went to the front and drew away under pressure in early stages, stood a long hard stretch drive and just lasted long enough. RACCOON broke fast, but was taken under restraint, went to the outside rounding far turn and closed full of courage, was gradually gaining on the leader. MY DANDY raced on the inside next the rail all the way. ROYAL RUFFIN swerved across to the inside at furlong pole and striking the fence unseated his rider.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:49½. Winner, W. C. Weant's b. g. (3), by Prince Pat—Lady Fox. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE FOX, $6.40, out, out; MY PURCHASE, out, out; JAMBALAYA, out.

PRINCE FOX forced a rapid pace from the start, raced head and head with MY PURCHASE to stretch turn and outgamed the latter in final drive. MY PURCHASE, on the inside all the way, was bumped by the winner at top of home stretch and Montgomery lost his whip a furlong from home. JAMBALAYA was always outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:24. Winner, R. Kenned's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK FEATHER, $12.50, $6.80, $4.00; BOUNDING DEEP, $3.90, $3.00; IRON CZAR, $4.10.

BLACK FEATHER, at home in the scoring, was hard ridden and attended BOUNDING DEEP'S pace closely. The latter responded gamely to whipping around bend and, getting his nose in front in last stages, held on tenaciously. BOUNDING DEEP, fractious at the post, broke well, took lead in back stretch and held on well. IRON CZAR kept closer to pace than usual, but could not make up ground when called upon. BOZO broke into the air at the start, but made up ground fast last three furlongs.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Hialeah Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 24.—A program comprising three mile contests, two sprints and one route event, will support the Nursery Stakes, juvenile feature on the card at Hialeah Park tomorrow. The headliner has attracted the most promising juvenile fillies in training and should produce a spirited contest for this important $2,500 stake.

MINTWINA, W. S. Kilmer's long-striding daughter of Mint Briar, who displayed exceptional speed in her recent efforts, is the most fancied in this 5-furlong dash. FRETWORK has turned in several clever performances and figures to offer stern opposition. MISS BROOM, a recent winner, appears best of the others for the show.

FIRST RACE—The opener should result in a victory for LINE OF FIRE. This F. Wattach starter has shown consistent form in claiming events, and against this mediocre field appears well placed. MANASSAS is favored for the runner-up position, with PHANTOM ROCK the show choice.

SECOND RACE—SWAGGER STICK appears best of this group, with STRAIT JACKET a serious threat on his last effort. HILDUR ROCK holds the best chance for the minor award.

THIRD RACE—CHICSU outclasses this field. GIBBY'S CHOICE and DEERFIELD, two well- trained platers, are favored to divide the remainder of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—BROOKSIE, lightly weighted with 99 pounds, should be able to match strides with this group. CALGARY KAY is rounding to form and is the place selection, with GOLD MINT best of the others.

SIXTH RACE—G. D. Widener's consistent colt, JAMES RIVER, which scored impressively last against a similar field, is picked to repeat. SOUTHCO finished behind the top one in their previous meeting and under identical conditions is favored to force the pace. BLACK MOCK, another Widener color bearer, figures to go well at this mile test.

SEVENTH RACE—PLEASE displayed staying qualities in his last attempt and on that effort is given the call. GARLIC showed a return to form with a splendid victory last outing and is the one to fear. NEGOPOLI is moving up here but should last to share in the purse.

Dor-A Nine Meets To Make 1932 Plans

Hyattsville, Md., Feb. 24.—Dor-A baseballers are said to have the distinction of being the first to organize in this section of Prince Georges County this season. A meeting of all old players and new candidates will be held tomorrow night at the home of Manager Allie Bowers, 914 Maryland avenue, at 8 o'clock.

Two nines will be organized this year by Dor-A, senior and junior combinations, and both will hold forth in the Capital City League. Dor-A's junior team made a strong showing in 1931 in this circuit, and the club hopes to do well this season in both classes.

It is planned to start practice March 15 if the weather permits. Magruder Park will be used on Sundays and Riverdale Park on week days.

ARMY FIVE UPSET.

West Point, N. Y., Feb. 24 (A.P.)—Playing their last home game of the season, the Army basket ball team was defeated here this afternoon by Creighton University, 39 to 32.

Annapolis Gunners Shoot Here Saturday

The Spa Gun Club, of Annapolis, Md., will invade this city Saturday for a return match with the Washington Gun Club. The shoot, which will be fired at the Benning traps, will consist of 100 singles targets and 25 pairs of doubles. The first meeting between the two, which occurred last month, resulted in a victory for the Bay City gunners.

The ten high men on the victorious team will each receive a trophy, and in addition to the team trophy there will be prizes for first, second and third high guns in each of classes A, B and C.

D. C. AMATEUR LEAGUE.

Manager Johnson Is Guarding Against Sore Arms.

group, Bud Thomas former Capital City League star, is the property of the Chattanooga team. The quintet of hopefuls who will battle it out for the two remaining pitching posts are, in the order of their present importance, Frank Ragland, Lynn Griffith, Robert Friederich, Michael Delaney and John Boyle.

Ragland, Griffith Farm Hands.

Ragland and Griffith are graduates of the Washington farm at Chattanooga, both strapping young men who are gifted physically with all the attributes of successful twirlers. Ragland's work as a relief man with Chattanooga has made him a warm favorite for a similar role with the Nats next season while Griffith, who won seven and lost eight for Chattanooga last season, was known as the "hard luck" pitcher of the league.

Young Boyle has brought to camp with him a reputation as a no-hit artist as a result of his two perfect games with the Bayonne, N. J., high school team, but he is classed with Delaney as having no previous experience in organized baseball and his work awaits further judgment. Friederich is regarded as a youth of much promise, having absorbed a deal of good coaching under the famous Jack Barry at Holy Cross before joining the Chattanooga team last year and winning his only start.

Thus consigning eight of the 23 berths on the club to pitchers, the usual make up of the team will provide for three catchers, six infielders, and five, possibly six, outfielders. Which means that all three of the catchers now with the squad will be retained. Roy Spencer, Cliff Bolton and Howard Maple face this reassuring prospect.

With Heinie Manush, Sam West, Carl Reynolds and Sam Rice considered outfield fixtures, a battle for the remaining berth, if only five are to be carried, looms between Ralph Boyle, the Baltimore acquisition, and Dave Harris. Boyle's few games impressed Griffith and Johnson last year as is indicated by the fact that they retained him instead of Ralph Gill, who was released to Chattanooga, despite the fact that he outhit Boyle by 30 points with Baltimore last season.

It is known, too, that Harris was considered as trading material during the winter.

The worries of the infield group, which comprises six, appear to be few, and, with the likehood that Joe Judge may be traded to Detroit, are further diminished. Considering Kuhel, Myer, Cronin and Bluege as the regular infield, only Johnny Kerr and Judge will be available as reserves.

A. A. U. Basket Ball Teams Will Weigh in for Tourney

Players Seeking District Titles Climb Scales at Boys' Club; Entries for Battles Are Listed.

PLAYERS in the 100, 115, 130 and 145 pound divisions of the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament, which starts March 1 at Tech High Gymnasium, will weigh in tonight at the Boys Club between 6 and 9 o'clock. In order to care for the enormous number of players, tomorrow night also will be given over to weighing in at the same hours.

As was announced early in the plans for the tournament, no overweights will be permitted.

The weighing-in will be conducted by District A. A. U. officials and representatives of The Post, sponsors of the giant tournament which annually produces the recognized District champions in seven divisions, the four named above together with the unlimited men's and women's and junior girls.

The mailman did his bit in swelling the entry list yesterday when he delivered more team blanks to headquarters, which, added to the total of 103 clubs who were entered up until late Tuesday night, will bring the grand total of clubs to the neighborhood of 125, a record entry list.

Girls Find Tourney Popular.

Miss Maude Parker, chief of the women's end of the tournament, has listed a great galaxy of women's and girls' clubs for the meet. The race for the senior title will be particularly hot, with such teams as the Eagles, Rockville, Als, J. C. C. and United Typewriter Grays vying for the title. The Eagles are the defending champions, but will have to show greater skill than last year to maintain their prestige.

In the girls' division the cream of the crop seems to be the Highlanders and Bethesda-Chevy Chase.

There are so many strong teams entered in the boys' and men's division that it is difficult to single out one for mention, but it appears that the Saks Clothiers will receive their acid test in the unlimited division. Many have been the rumors that last year's wonder team has hit the skids for good, but the Clothiers are still in the fighting business, and will be aided and abetted in no mean way by the return of Bill Noonan, center, to the club.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

A QUARTET of local bowlers, Pauline Ford, Elsie Fischer, Eddie Espey and Paul Harrison, will go to Richmond Saturday for a match with a mixed team from that city. Espey and Harrison will roll doubles and singles in addition to the mixed doubles. Mrs. Ford will be Harrison's partner, and of course Mrs. Fischer will team with Espey.

The choo choo boys from the Southern Railway packed away the team set prize with a score of 1,643 in section 2 of the North of Washington League at Silver Spring. Swann's Service took high game with its 604. Bill Roudabush, with 372, and George Dyer, with 141 copped the individual awards.

Muskoe Garnett switched his affections to the Lawn Tennis Players League for the night, and walked off with individual honors by virtue of a 134 game and 363 set. They'll probably disqualify him the next time. Pan-American and Claremont white-washed Rock Creek and Edgewood.

The Five Greeks and Union Wallpaper Co. won the odd ones from the Maccabees in the King Pin Business Men's Loop. Yeager was high with a set of 373.

B. T. U: (your guess is as good as mine) rolled 1,611 and 562 to clinch the team laurels in the Bureau of Standards loop at Columbia. "Collar" Van Dusen was best man with a game of 139 and set of 376.

Bill Nuber's 135 game and Ed Harrell's 351 set were worth a bit of cash in the Nautical circuit at Columbia. Washington Canoe No. 1 paddled the pins for a 585 game and 1,658 set into the team honors.

Lucas & Koutz, Inc., a reputable bowling firm, clamped down on the individual honors in the Internal Revenue League at Columbia. The first mentioned member of the firm had a 144 game and his partner a 369 set. Consolidated Returns spilled the pins for counts of 594 and 1,697 to bag the team prizes.

Government League Led by Patent Five

Naval Hospital faces Union Printers and Bolling Field engages Commerce in tilts tonight at Bolling Field.

Landis Rules Cards' Agreement Illegal

Chicago, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today ruled as "utterly illegal" an exclusive optional player agreement between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Springfield, Ill., Baseball Fans Association, operator of the Springfield club of the Three-Eye League.

Under the agreement, the St. Louis Club would pay the Springfield Club $2,500 for the right to select one player on the active list of the Springfield Club for the season of 1932, said option to be exercisable on or before September 1, 1931. The Springfield Club would agree not to accept option players other than those offered by the St. Louis Club or clubs affiliated with the St. Louis Club.

"This last provision (the agreement not to accept option players from other clubs) is utterly illegal," Commissioner Landis ruled. "In the first place, it violates the essential that all clubs must be at liberty to acquire playing strength wherever available under the rules."

St. John's Late Rally Beats G. U. Prepmen

St. John's Cadets, staging a beautifully timed rally in the last minute of play, swept their colors to the prep school championship of Washington last night at George Washington University Gymnasium, beating Georgetown Prep, 22 to 19, before a record gallery.

Georgetown Prep led from the start up until the last minute of the game, when a shot from the middle of the floor by Mike Scanlon gave St. John's the edge, and a shot under the basket by Hartnett clinched it. The losers scored a foul point as the game ended.

Coach Paully Byrne was presented with The Washington Post Trophy, the "most valuable player" award went to Scanlon, while Tom Keating, of the losers, won the cup offered for high-point scorer.

Under the guidance of Capt. Eddie Collins, the Athletics' young batterymen were given two stiff workouts today. Eddie Marjeski, young catcher, continues to hit any and all sorts of pitching.

HOTEL PLAZA YIELDS $150 TO BANDITS IN WAVE OF ROBBERIES

Clerk and Bellboy Locked Up at Pistol Point Before Pair Makes Getaway.

DELICATESSEN DEALER AND 2 GROCERS VICTIMS

One Held at Bay With Meat Cleavers; Patron Foils Druggist's Holdup.

A wave of armed robberies and attempted robberies which started early last night continued into the early morning today, with a hotel clerk and a delicatessen store proprietor and his wife being victims of the after-midnight holdups.

Two men got away with $150 from the Plaza Hotel at 331 First street northeast after locking the clerk and a bellboy in the closet of the cloak room. A man was arrested as a suspect after the clerk had given a description to police.

Frank W. Clark, the clerk, told police that two men entered the hotel lobby about 12:30 o'clock. Clark and P. T. Weeden, the bell boy were alone when they entered.

Forced Into Closet.

One of the men walked toward the registry counter, while the other man strolled to the cigar counter, Clark told police. The clerk said he went to wait on the man at the cigar counter. This bandit suddenly drew a pistol and demanded money. The two men took $150 from the registry and cigar counter cash registers and then forced Clark and Weeden into the closet, locking them in.

Clark and Weeden managed to break out just as police entered the lobby. Clark furnished a description of the men, and police picked up a suspect near the hotel.

Private J. J. McCarthy, of the Ninth Precinct, who was near the hotel at the time of the robbery, arrested the suspect. The man gave the name of Henry Carroll Patrick Fegan, 34 years old, of 5617 Eighth street northwest.

Two men held up Louis Deckelbaum, proprietor of a delicatessen store at 1315 Fifth street northwest, shortly after midnight. They escaped with $40 after forcing the store owner upstairs, where they took $10 away from his wife.

Wife Also Robbed.

Deckelbaum said the two men pulled pistols when they entered, forced him upstairs to his living quarters, where they robbed his wife, then went through his pockets and the cash register. They told him to go back upstairs and keep quiet, and then ran from the store.

Two other merchants fell victims to a trio of holdup men who entered their stores and after rifling the cash registers escaped on foot with a total of $45. One of the bandits, who concealed his hand in a coat pocket, was believed to have been armed.

Stand by Counter.

The first to be visited was Steve Maxvanis, proprietor of a grocery at 248 First street northwest. He told police that three men entered shortly after 6 o'clock. One of them, he said, ordered him to put up his hands and with his hand concealed in his pocket threatened him with what appeared to be a gun. The other two, Maxvanis said, picked up meat cleavers from a counter and stood nearby.

The cash drawer was opened, police were told, and after obtaining $18 the men fled with a parting warning to "keep quiet."

The bandits a short time later made their appearance at the grocery of Samuel Lieberman, 1301 South Capitol street. Lieberman said he was waiting on several customers when two men entered and stood by a cigar counter. When the store was empty, he told police, one of the men stepped forward and holding his hand menacingly in his pocket demanded money.

Ordered to Lie on Floor.

While the other stood guard near the door, Lieberman declared, his companion rifled his pockets of $20 and ordered him to lie on the floor behind the counter. The cash register was then robbed of $7, and the men made their escape on foot.

Lieberman said he did not see a third man, but his description of the two who robbed him fitted the ones who had earlier visited the Maxvanis' store. In both cases the man who did the actual robbing wore a gray suit with no hat or overcoat. One of the others also was described as the same.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Benjamin F Parker, manager of a drug store at 755 Eighth street southeast, reported to police that two men entered his establishment and attempted to force him behind a counter. One of the men, he said, concealed his hand in a pocket and shoved a blunt instrument against his side. They were suddenly frightened by the approach of a customer and fled. The same description was given.

2 Policemen Crash Chasing Rum Car

Both Injured as Quarry Escapes Through Use of Smoke Screen.

Two Eleventh Precinct policemen were recovering in Casualty Hospital yesterday from injuries received early in the day when the patrol car in which they were chasing a supposed rum-laden machine crashed into a truck as the pursued car laid down a smoke screen.

Privates Carlton E. Thorne, 39, and Homer L. Pearson noticed the suspected car fail to heed a stop sign at Benning Bridge. The chase ensued and continued on into the city. At Sixth and K streets northeast the smoke was released.

Blinded by the smoke, the driver was unable to avert crashing into a truck driven by James C. Lantz, 19, of 1516 D street southeast. The liquor car escaped. Thorne has a possible fractured vertebra and a minor leg injury. Pearson received several fractured ribs, cuts and bruises.

Capital Girl Proxy Bride Of Argentine Naval Officer

MISS DOROTHY BAYLISS, joined in matrimony by proxy with Lieut. Oscar J. Rumbo, Argentine naval officer, though he was in far-off Buenos Aires. She will sail Friday to join her husband.

Dorothy Bayliss Is Wed to Buenos Aires Lieutenant.

A young Argentine naval officer and a pretty Washington girl became man and wife Tuesday night even though the bridegroom was in Buenos Aires, and the bride was here in the Capital of the United States.

Miss Dorothy Bayliss, 24, of 3100 R street, and Lieut. Oscar J. Rumbo, of the Argentine navy, were the parties to this city's first marriage by proxy. The American girl signed a contract of marriage with John H. DeBaus, of Clarendon, a close friend of Lieut. Rumbo, acting as the South American's agent.

The long-distance nuptials were resorted to to facilitate the bride's compliance with Argentine immigration laws when she arrives to join her husband. The step was taken after consultation with a number of attorneys and other authorities.

The couple became acquainted last year when Lieut. Rumbo visited Washington during a study of American naval methods. Miss Bayliss obtained a license for the marriage last October, but after consultation with the Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, delayed the ceremony until its legality had been thoroughly investigated.

The couple will be remarried in Buenos Aires in two church ceremonies. The bride is a Baptist, while Lieut. Rumbo is a Catholic.

MORE POWER VOTED FOR TRIAL BOARDS

Adding to District Water for Maryland Another of Seven Bills Passed.

Seven District measures, including bills empowering police and fire trial boards to compel attendance of witnesses, and broadening provisions supplying nearby Maryland with District water, were passed by the Senate yesterday.

Action on Senator Arthur Capper's bill for incorporation of credit unions in the District was postponed at request of Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa. The bill is opposed by District bankers, who claim it would set up "mutual banks," competing with established institutions and loaning money to members at small interest rates.

New Trial Board Power.

The trial board bill passed yesterday would enable the boards to obtain District Supreme Court subpenas to insure attendance of persons filing charges against police and fire department personnel.

The Tydings bill would authorize additional connections between the District's water system, Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties. The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission would pay for the water at cost plus interest charges. Provision was made that the sale must not endanger the District's supply.

Other Bills Passed.

Other measures passed provide for naming the northern limit of Sixteenth street "Montgomery Blair Portal;" closing of Water street southwest, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets; amending the law regulating degree-conferring institutions so as to permit certain schools abroad to use "American University" in their titles; authorizing such organizations as the American Humane Society to receive annual income in excess of $25,000, and permitting the Griffith Consumers Co. to run petroleum pipe lines into its plant.

The bill for closing Water street provides for exchange of land with the American Pharmaceutical Association, which will erect a new headquarters building on the land it acquires. The National Park and Planning Commission, on the other hand, would provide a more suitable approach to the New Lincoln Memorial Bridge.

P. U. C. WOULD ALTER CAR MERGER PLANS

Suggests Elimination of Possibility of Companies' Operating Taxis.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday submitted several amendments to the pending street car merger bill to the Senate District committee. Chief among these was the elimination of the possibility of the combined street railways operating taxicabs.

This possibility is avoided in the amended bill by inserting the word "mass" in all references to the proposed company's right to acquire and operate street railways, bus lines and other forms of transportation, provided that no competitive "transportation line" could be established without a certificate of convenience and necessity issued by the utilities body.

Another amendment eliminates the language which would permit the new company to operate through subsidiaries within the District, while a third would require that the commission approve the company's articles of incorporation. In order to forestall a possible reversal of the 3-cent street car fare for school children the commission has inserted another clause to empower it to "fix reasonably reduced rates" for this class of patronage.

A copy of the commisison's amendments was received by Representative Loring M. Black, jr., chairman of the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee. Like the Senate District committee, his body has completed hearings on the consolidation project and is now weighing testimony.

One of the commisison's amendments strikes out the word "motor" from motor buses and substitutes "street railways" for "electric railways."

Representative Hill Unhurt in Auto Crash

Representative Lister Hill, of Alabama, escaped injury yesterday when an automobile he was driving was in collision with another machine at Third and C streets northwest.

Police said the car which struck Representative Hill's machine was operated by Lawrence E. Kinard, colored, 26 years old, of 2620 Wade road southeast. He was not held. Both machines were slightly damaged.

Naturalness to God Urged By Bishop Quin in Talk

A plea for honesty and naturalness in the approach to God was made yesterday by the Right Rev. Clinton S. Quin, Bishop of Texas, from the pulpit of the Church of the Epiphany at the noonday Lent services.

"The first thing to do if you want to find your way to God," the bishop said, "is to be natural in your posture, in your place and in your belief. You must condition your soul, as well as to condition your physical and mental makeup. Many rush to the church seeking to gain an approach to God, but few stop to condition their soul to be able to communicate with Him.

"Let us think for a few minutes about God's will, for some people are quick to accuse Him in every disaster. Let us remember that God's will is always good. His will is always right. There is a distinction between God's law and God's will. We can violate God's will, and refuse to conform to it, but we can not break His law, or any kind of a law, the law will break us.

"When man goes his own headstrong way and disregards commonsense laws, it is no fault or will of God's that brings the structure of misfortune down on his head. Man is not expected to force himself against the will of God. Only with the blending of the will of man and God comes a union of the two, and a harmony of belief and understanding expressed in the 'Lord's Prayer,' and what other than this, is life for? 'Thy Kingdom can only come, as thy will is done.'

"Condition your soul, preserve in your beliefs, and surrender to the will of God, that you may enjoy His service in perfect freedom and without restraint in a perfect communion with God and man."

PERSHING'S TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON HITS SUBVERSIVE MOVES

General Warns of Forces That May Threaten to Destroy Government.

MASONIC CELEBRATION DRAWS NOTED FIGURES

Dr. Simon Says First President's Influence Still Guides Nation.

The George Washington Bicentennial celebration is not merely an adulation of Washington, but a reconsecration of an ideal for the Nation's citizens, Gen. John J. Pershing said last night to a crowded auditorium at the New York Avenue Masonic Temple.

Occasioning the white-haired soldier's address was a Bicentennial celebration of Harmony Masonic Lodge No. 17. The general, who was one of several distinguished speakers, warned the throng against "insidious influences which may attempt to undermine our Government."

He stressed the necessity of education of the sacred obligation of citizenship. Preceding him were others who had eulogized the "Father of His Country."

Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses gave an outline of the military exploits of Washington, stressing the fact that he was a trained soldier before taking over the reins of the American cause in the Revolution.

"No leader in the history of the world, not even Napoleon, so caught the imagination of his soldiers as did Washington," he said.

Called "American Tradition."

Rabbi Abram Simon, president of the Board of Education, compared the immortal leader with the American ideal. In fact, he said, Washington is the American tradition. "He has influenced the Nation's thought from Lexington to Locarno."

Dr. Simon pointed out that modern life is throwing the responsibility for moral education to the church and public school, and emphasized the part which these institutions must play in the molding of citizens.

Representative Sol Bloom, the "spirit of the Bicentennial," briefly told of the success of the celebration's nativity and prophesied its continuance.

Washington's home life and his genealogy was described by Thomas C. Washington, a descendant of the First President's brother. The Rev. Clyde Brown, pastor of Harmony Lodge, delivered an invocation, "Washington's Prayer for the People."

Alexandria Memorial.

The great Masonic memorial at Alexandria, which is to be dedicated May 12 as the peak of the Masonic week of the Bicentennial, was described by Past Grand Master J. Claude Keiper, secretary of the memorial association.

The address of welcome was given by Grand Master Reuben A. Bogley. Carl H. Claudy, master of Harmony Lodge, officiated on the rostrum.

Two Hurt in Crash On Baltimore Pike

Man and Wife Are Victims; Auto Plunges Over Embankment.

Two persons were injured yesterday in an automobile crash, after which their machine skidded 210 feet, finally dropping over a 6-foot bank on the Baltimore boulevard at Riverdale, Md.

They are Howard B. Tandy, of Cranston, R. I., and his wife, Elizabeth, 52 years old. Both of them received lacerations of the face, Mrs. Tandy's nose being almost severed. They were taken to Providence Hospital by the Bladensburg fire rescue squad, and Mrs. Tandy remained at the hospital.

According to Constable Carl Blanchard, the Tandys, who were en route to their home from Florida, were in collision with a car driven by W. R. Wilson, of Washington. After the crash, Blanchard said, Tandy's automobile swerved across the road twice, slid through a gas station and shot 22 feet over the embankment.

$36,485 Tax Refund Given Rheem Creditors

Creditors of the bankrupt firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., yesterday received from the Government a refund of $36,485.59 on an overassessment of income tax in 1929.

The money was paid to trustees of the bankrupt mortgage house, who said it would be divided among the investors who lost their savings when the company collapsed. The refund included $31,890.21 for additional losses on certain assets, $4,536.01 for a decrease on the reported gross income and $59.37 allowance for added depreciation and interest.

FALLEN LEADERSHIP BLAMED PARTLY ON EDUCATORS OF U.S.

Senator La Follette Places Depression Factor at Teachers' Doors.

N.E.A. DELEGATES HEAR SULLIVAN ON POLITICS

1,000 Applaud President in Visit to White House; Jobless Diagnosed.

Educators were blamed for being partly responsible for "the bankruptcy in leadership" that has resulted from the economic depression by Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, in an address last night before the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, at Constitution Hall.

Senator La Follette told the superintendents that there has never been such a need for leadership as at the present time, and that the responsibility for developing such leadership rests with them. The coming generation, he said, must be trained to think independently.

As safeguards against future depressions, Senator La Follette urged the proper nutrition of children, in order that they may be made better citizens, and the recreation of purchasing power through a public works program. The expenditures on education of $3,000,000,000 before the depression is less than it should be, the young Progressive told his large audience.

Specialization Upheld.

Taking issue with several other speakers at the convention, David Snedden, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, declared that specialization must have a prominent place in the school programs of the future. Specialization is necessary, he said, to keep pace with the trend of the times. A shifting of educational objectives is needed, he said.

Mark Sullivan, editor and author, addressed the superintendents on education for a changing political world. He showed how the coming of new inventions has changed methods of education and pointed to the importance of education being prepared to meet the demands of new inventive developments.

Election of Carroll R. Reed, of Minneapolis, to fill a vacancy on the executive committee was announced after last night's session. Milton C. Potter, superintendent of Milwaukee schools, formally will be announced as new president of the department today. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools, moves automatically from the office of president to that of vice president. George Melcher, superintendent of Kansas City schools, is the newly elected second vice president.

More than 1,000 delegates to the convention visited the White House yesterday and extended an enthusiastic greeting to President Hoover. Their applause lasted a full minute.

The opinion of some members of Senate and House District committees that music and art are subjects which might be eliminated from school programs in the interest of economy was viewed as grave by Miss Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association, at the morning session yesterday, because of the effect such an idea might have on the rest of the country, and because "a knowledge of such subjects is important to the child in building up a retreat to face the noise and perplexities of the modern life we lead."

Art in education was discussed by Lorado Taft, famous sculptor, of Chicago. John Huston Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, spoke on literature in education. A paper, prepared by Walter Damrosch, on music in education, was read by another, due to the illness of the noted musician.

Mrs. Herrick Reelected Democratic Club Chief

The Women's National Democratic Club visited the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, at Washington Cathedral yesterday. Mrs. Samuel Herrick, president of the club placed a wreath on the tomb. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of the Diocese of Washington, officiated at the ceremony.

New Trends Are Stressed as Home Economics Group Ends Convention.

Opportunities afforded instructors of home economics in disseminating knowledge of better nutrition were discussed yesterday morning at a breakfast meeting of the Department of Supervisors and Teachers of Home Economics of the National Education Association, held at McKinley High School.

Miss Helen C. Goodspeed, of Philadelphia, president of the department, urged presentation of the social aspects of home economics, so as to develop attitudes that contribute toward socialization of the individual. She said it is necessary to introduce in the curriculum those lines of work that develop creative ability.

"Readiness to follow new trends and grasp the bigger things toward which we are going" was stressed by Prof. Anna Cooley, Teachers College, N. Y. Several discussed ways in which they were making the most of the opportunities offered by meeting present needs and stimulating interest in home economics. Miss Esther H. Jonas, of Eastern High School, this city, Mrs. Lucile R. Smith, of the Brightwood School and Miss E. R. Sanderson, of Detroit, were among those making these reports.

Others present at the breakfast included Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of District public schools; Assistant Superintendent Robert L. Haycock; Emeline C. Whitcomb, specialist in home economics office of education; Francis Swain, supervisor of home economics, Chicago, and president of the American Home Economics Association, and Miss Emma S. Inquest Will Seek Fatal Blast Cause

Second Victim Is Hunted in Demolished Plant of Auto Wreckers.

The cause of the blast which demolished the Penn Auto Wreckers Co. plant, 1300 Eleventh street southeast early Tuesday will be sought by a coroner's jury today sitting in the death of Frank Price, 40, colored, whose body was found in the wreckage.

Firemen and police all day yesterday combed the debris at the wrecked establishment for another body. The search was begun after it was reported a woman was seen to accompany Price into the building Monday night. The dead man was an employe of the establishment, which was owned by Jake Levin.

Fire Marshal Calvin Lauber yesterday indicated a belief that the explosion occurred in a coal stove near the front of the building. The theory was expressed that Price had poured either kerosene or gasoline on the fire.

LAND UTILITY HELD KEY TO PROSPERITY

School Masters Rotary Club Hears Secretary Hyde on Agricultural Topic.

Adoption of a long time program of land utilization to solve the problem of agricultural prosperity was urged by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, in an address before 400 school superintendents, constituting the School Masters Rotary Club, and 170 members of the Washington Rotary Club, at a joint luncheon meeting yesterday at the Willard Hotel.

Secretary Hyde stated that although one-fourth of the American people depend upon agriculture, farmers have not enjoyed prosperity for over a decade. Because of this situation inequalities between educational facilities in city and country have increased despite the American doctrine of equality of opportunity for all citizens, he pointed out.

Educational progress in the rural regions is bound up with the profits to be derived from agriculture. The present tax burden on agricultural lands is excessive, but the real reason for present difficulties goes deeper and involves the basic principle of efficient utilization of agricultural lands, he said.

"If we are to solve the problem of agricultural prosperity we must adopt a new long-time program of land utilization based upon the knowledge that the pioneer period is passed and that henceforth we should be guided by a sound policy of national land utilization," he declared.

The meeting was opened by S. Percy Thompson, president of the local club, who turned it over to Dr. Joseph M. Gwinn, superintendent of schools of San Francisco and president of the School Masters Rotary Club. Dr. Gwinn spoke briefly, saying that Rotary relationships had humanized American school superintendents and had increased their physical girth by three inches. After his brief and humorous address he called for the report of the nominating committee and Washington's superintendent of schools, Frank W. Ballou, was unanimously elected president for 1932.

Visual Education Strides Described

Report to N. E. A. Says Value of Teaching Films Grows.

Teaching through the medium of moving pictures and other visual methods rose higher on the educational horizon yesterday when Dr. F. Dean McClusky, president of the National Academy of Visual Instruction, presented a report to the department of superintendence of the National Education Association.

Describing visual instruction as a valuable teaching aid because it is "a counterpoint of thought," Dr. McClusky declared that only through greater efficiency in visual aids can the curriculum be expanded to accomplish the desired goal.

Dr. McClusky predicted increased use of motion and other pictures in instructing children, and recommended that a clearing house be established for distribution of educational pictures. He discussed the possibility of forming an independent organization for the production of educational films.

DE PRIEST DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION OF JOHNSON AT HOWARD

Takes Stand After Request in House for "Sweeping Investigation."

CONFIDENT QUIZ WOULD VINDICATE SCHOOL HEAD

Representative Hall Wants "Turmoil" in Institution Set at Rest.

Representative Oscar De Priest (Republican), of Illinois, last night came to the defense of Dr. Mordecai Johnson's administration of Howard University, following charges brought by Representative Robert S. Hall (Democrat), of Mississippi, in a resolution asking a sweeping investigation of the institution.

Representative De Priest said he favored an investigation to determine the cause of the continuous "educational turmoil" at the school.

He declared, however, he was convinced the turmoil was due to activities of a "clique" and not to any "maladministration" on the part of President Johnson. He said a personal investigation had satisfied him there has been no "pay-roll padding," as alleged in charges now being inquired into by the District grand jury.

End of Case Urged.

Representative Hall said he had no personal knowledge of the facts underlying the charges, but in view of persistent reports over a period of three years, believed the matter should be set at rest. He said he had been asked by a number of "interested parties" to propose the resolution.

If the resolution, calling for an investigation by the House Interior Department appropriation subcommittee, is adopted by the House, De Priest said he would go before the body.

The Hall resolution referred to "frequent open breaks" between Dr. Johnson and university trustees, and alleged reports "that the president of the university is administering the public funds in a manner distinctly unfair to all the university staff, except those he classes as his friends."

Points In Inquiry.

An investigation would be directed into the following three points:

1. The underlying cause of the continuous state of educational turmoil and unrest at Howard University during the last three years or more.

2. The exact manner in which, and with what degree of fairness, prudence and economy the president and trustees of the university have administered and expended the public funds of the university.

3. The exact details of the case of alleged pay roll padding said to have occurred at the university, and the actions, attitude and position of the president of the university in connection with such case.

Grand Jury Investigation.

Meanwhile, another investigation was started by the District grand jury, which began its inquiry into alleged pay roll padding at the school. The fact that such an inquiry was contemplated was made known last week when deputy United States marshals began serving subpenas on persons who were wanted for questioning.

Among those who appeared yesterday were Dr. Emmet J Scott, secretary-treasurer of the school and other high officers. The investigation is said to be centered around the employment of Samuel Gough a student at the Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., as a laborer at the Howard University. His father, Eugene Gough, is head janitor at the school.

Young Gough is said to have been drawing money from Howard when he was enrolled in the Virginia school. An amount approximating $75 is involved.

Varney Identifies Suspect of Arson

Alleged Bond-Jumper Will Be Returned to Capital From Detroit.

Edward Frank, 39 years old, who last October left Washington while under $5,000 bond here after being indicted on an arson charge, was identified yesterday in Detroit, Mich., by Lieut. Frank Varney, of the Second Police Precinct. Lieut. Varney went to Detroit after Frank's whereabouts were traced through a number of long distance telephone calls.

Frank, who since leaving Washington has been operating a jewelry store in the Michigan city under the name of Ezra Ravvam, was arrested here after a five-alarm fire destroyed his shop at 430 Ninth street northwest last April. Detectives found evidence of incendiary operations and investigation disclosed that Frank had purchased the stock of the burned store a short time before the fire and insured it for $500.

At the time of his arrest on the arson count, Frank was under $500 bond on charges of violating the small loan act. It was learned he left Washington during the latter part of October and was located for local police by an agent of the Department of Justice. A $25,000 bond was fixed in Detroit. Frank will be returned by Lieut. Varney.

Publisher and Noted Flier Forced Down Near Capital

Airplanes, like death, love and the pursuit of happiness, are no respectors of persons.

Out of New York, bound for Washington, sped a plane, bearing Axsen Jordanoff, famous flier of the Balkan War, and author of a new book called "Flying and How to Do It." With him was Philip Grosset, member of the firm of Grosset & Dunlap, publishers of the book.

They were Capital-bound to present complimentary copies of Jordanoff's book to aviation officials, the Minister from Bulgaria, Mr. Jordanoff's native land, and others.

But just outside of Elkton, Md., they came down in a field which was never intended for an airport. A clogged gas line was the cause and because Jordanoff refuses to fly with any one but himself at the controls, they continued to Washington by train.

Upon arrival they distributed copies of the book to Clarence M. Young, Senator Bingham, the Bulgarian Minister, French Strother, secretary to President Hoover, and others. And it might be added that the forced landing and the merits of the book have no connection.
